92nd YEAR, No. 38 ★★ VICTORIA B.C., WEDNESDAY, JULY 23, 1975 15 CENTS DAILY, 30 CENTS SATURDAY

. . . HE PASSED SURVIVAL TEST

GLENCOE, Ont. (CP) — An 82-year-old resident of nearby Bothwell lost control of his car on a country road Saturday and crashed into a tree after he swallowed strychnine he had been using to poison rats, Glencoe provincial police said today.

Police said Tim Bunn, who has a heart condition, had two vials of powder in his pocket, one containing medication for his heart condition and the other strychnine. Bunn accidently swallowed the strychnine.

Police said while driving his car to Bothwell, Bunn suffered a seizure because of the poison. When the car left the road, his foot became jammed on the accelerator and the car slammed into a tree.

After he stumbled out of the car, a gun he was carrying went off and a bullet grazed his skull, police said. Bunn is in hospital.

Glencoe is about 30 miles northeast of Chatham.

UIC Payments Drop

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment insurance benefits paid out during May dropped by 24 per cent to $271 million from the $357 million paid in April, Statistics Canada reported Tuesday.

However, the May amount was 34-per-cent higher than the $202 million in benefits paid during May, 1974, and the total paid during the first five months of the year jumped 38 per cent to $1.519 billion from the $1.102 billion paid in the same period last year.

A total of 714,000 were officially unemployed in May, a drop of 81,000 from April. The number listed as receiving unemployment insurance at the end of May was 1.106 million, down from 1.186 million in April. The totals differ because people can collect the insurance without being officially unemployed.

A total of 1.106 million claimants were on file at the end of May, a 34-per-cent increase from the 825,000 registered in May, 1974. Counting new claims and renewals, 197,000 began receiving benefits during May, a 15-per-cent increase in the number who filed during the same month last year.

The average weekly payment during May was $83.64, down slightly from the average in April but up 13 per cent from the average $74.34 paid last May. Average payment during the first five months was $83.81, up 12 per cent from the average $74.70 paid during the same month last year.

OTTAWA ACTS ON FISHING

Soviet Fleet Barred

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is closing East Coast ports to Soviet fishing vessels to protest alleged overfishing in Canadian coastal waters.

Fisheries Minister Romeo LeBlanc announced the move today, saying it followed "every diplomatic attempt" to get Soviet co-operation.

"We deeply regret that it has become necessary . . .," he said. "But everything else failed and we cannot let this situation continue.

Pacific ports will not be affected.

He said Canada also was looking at alleged violations by other nations. Direct approaches now were being made to the Spanish and Portuguese governments "and if the performance of their fleets does not improve immediately our ports will be closed to them as well."

Soviet fishing vessels made 400 visits to Canadian ports last year. LeBlanc said the Soviet fleet is powerful enough to survive without Canadian visits "but it will be a very serious inconvenience for them."

LeBlanc said some time ago that this action would be taken if all other diplomatic efforts failed.

The closure is effective July 28.

"Over the past year, the Soviet fleet has consistently over-fished certain of its quotas," the minister told reporters. He said the only official response from Moscow to Canadian representations "was for them to question our evidence."

The quotas are set by the International Commission for the Northwest Atlantic Fisheries, and LeBlanc said the Soviets last year appear to have exceeded their 85,000 metric-ton capelin quota by 67 to 75 per cent in one fishing zone. Quotas also were exceeded for herring near the Nova Scotia coast.

"We have used every method available to bring all these matters to the attention of the Soviet authorities," said the minister. Finally, last Monday, External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen informed Moscow of this decision.

Canada also had been unsuccessful in getting Moscow to settle outstanding claims for damage to Canadian lobster gear in 1974. Although the Soviets agreed to co-operate in settling the claims, LeBlanc said there has been no satisfactory response yet.

The minister said the move will have "some negative impact" on port revenues.

"This is, however, far outweighed by the importance of our own fishing industry to the economy and by the need to protect the fish stocks off our coast."

In Newfoundland, Premier Frank Moores said today closure of east coast ports to Soviet vessels is a "stop-gap measure" and will do nothing to assist in the conservation of fish.

The premier said he believes the action was a significant move for the federal government but not for the fisheries in Newfoundland.

"It's not just closing the port to the Russians. The Russians have floating drydocks. They have supply ships . . . The only time they would use this port is when they break down which is not going to cause them any great inconvenience.

"There is no middle ground for preserving the fish stocks on the continental shelf. It has to be done by unilateral ac-

3-Man Junta For Portugal

LISBON (AP) — Three top military men are preparing to take full power in Portugal, now governed by a Revolutionary Council of 30 military officers, according to a high government official.

He identified the three military men as President Francisco da Costa Gomes, Premier Vasco Goncalves and Brig.-Gen. Otelo Saraiva de Carvalho, the national security chief.

The Portuguese Socialist party and other moderates have been demanding the ouster of Goncalves, who is regarded as Communist-oriented.

The official said a "reorganization" of the Revolutionary Council was expected. He indicated the council would be inferior to the three-man collective leadership which he said might be called "The Directory."

The government officer said there is no question of Goncalves staying on as premier and he indicated both Costa Gomes and Carvalho already have agreed to share leadership in what appears to be a vast power shuffle among the country's military leadership.

The announcement followed the refusal of the Socialist Party to join a new cabinet under Goncalves.

The socialists said they would expel any member who serves under Goncalves. They said he had asked Lopes Cardoso and Antonio Reis, both members of the party's ruling secretariat, to accept ministerial posts.

Meanwhile a prominent resident of the Azores said the islands would secede if the government tried to creat a Communist-led junta there.

Portugal already has lost its African colonies and the Azorean said government efforts to set up a Communist-led junta "would only accelerate what is going to happen anyway. We are going to be an independent nation within the next two months whether the military here like it or not."

POLICE FLUSH ARMED MAN

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP) — A 23-year-old man was taken into custody Tuesday night after police used tear gas to force him from a house on the Campbell River Indian reserve near here.

Police said they had a complaint that a man was firing guns inside a house.

Police said the man, armed with nine rifles, held out for almost three hours before they fired three cannisters of tear gas into the building, forcing him out. No charges had been laid.

NEWS BRIEFS

Bread Going Up

VANCOUVER (CP) — The price of a loaf of bread will increase by at least two cents at the wholesale level within a month, David Devine, president of McGavin Toastmaster Ltd., said today. It is expected that the retail price of bread will increase by about the same amount. A 24-ounce white loaf now retails for 58 cents.

Prince George Blaze

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Fire has completely gutted several businesses in the downtown section of this city. Cause of the blaze and the time the fire started was not immediately known. Firefighters reached the fire at 5:20 a.m. No one was reported injured, and no estimate of damage was available.

ICBC Given Horn

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 100 striking employees demonstrated Tuesday outside Insurance Corporation of British Columbia headquarters after renewed negotiations aimed at ending their two-month strike bogged down. At the same time, a motorcade of about 50 cars, continuously blowing their horns, circled the block containing ICBC offices, tying up late morning traffic.

Trains Collide

HAMBURG (AP) — The casualty toll rose to 11 dead and 35 injured today in the head-on crash of a commuter train and a freight train in the suburbs of this West German city, authorities said.

Gunmen Kill Two

MONTREAL (CP) — Two men were shot dead by two gunmen at an east end bar Tuesday night in what police described as "a settling of accounts."

Strongman Out

ROME (AP) — Amintore Fanfani, the strongman of Italian politics for many years, was removed as chief of the dominant Christian Democratic party after he lost a vote of confidence Tuesday night.

Fire Costs Soar

VANCOUVER (CP) — A B.C. Forest Service spokesman says the cost of fighting forest fires in the province has more than doubled from last year and B.C. seems headed for a record year.

Murder Charges Planned

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Murder charges will be laid in connection with the B.C. Penitentiary shooting of prison worker Mary Steinhauser, Jack Harris, New Westminster regional crown prosecutor, said Tuesday.

Harris said the charges would not be directed against any member of the penitentiary staff.

He said they would be laid under section 212 of the Criminal Code, under which a person may be convicted of murder if they knowingly expose another person to danger, and thereby cause death.

Harris made the disclosure when asked about reports that in-camera testimony at the Farris inquiry into the penitentiary breakout attempt last month is touching on details of Steinhauser's death. (See also Page 12.)

Such testimony normally would be the province of a coroner's inquest, but an inquest would not normally be held if a murder charge were laid.

The inquiry, headed by Chief Justice J. L. Farris of the B.C. Court of Appeal, was scheduled to re-open to the public today in the Vancouver courthouse.

Inquiry counsel John Rowan said Tuesday the in-camera testimony has included evidence of "where, when and by what means" Steinhauser, 32, was killed.

Fifteen hostages were seized June 9 by three prisoners and held at knifepoint for 41 hours in a storage vault. The siege ended when guards burst in and gunfire followed. Prisoner Andy Bruce was injured and Steinhauser killed.

New Westminster coroner Doug Jack said he has received no instructions to hold an inquest but has not been advised of any intention to lay murder charges.

Indians: 'Not Guilty'

Twenty Indians pleaded not guilty in Gold River provincial court this morning to charges of obstructing a highway.

The case was adjourned until Sept. 15.

The 20 were arrested Saturday morning when RCMP cleared a six-day-old roadblock the Indians are charged with erecting across the road between Gold River and the local pulp mill and Muchalat Inlet.

Following their court appearance, the Indians moved out to the lawn outside the courthouse where they began dancing and playing their drums.

They weren't breaking any laws, said an RCMP spokesman, "but they're playing havoc with our lawn. We're about to turn on the sprinklers."

The Indians are on an undertaking not to participate in blockades and to keep the peace.

Fifty-three members of the Mount Currie Indian band were also to appear in Pemberton provincial court today to answer charges of obstructing a highway.

They were arrested Friday evening when RCMP removed a month-old roadblock near the Mount Currie reserve.

U.K. HOUSE MEMBERS VOTE $2,750 RAISE

The move came only four hours after they had endorsed the government's anti-inflation policy of restricting pay increases for workers to £6 ($13.20) a week for the next 12 months.

The MPs, who have had no wage increase for four years, now will get £5,750 ($12,650) a year instead of the £4,500 ($9,900) they now receive.

Ministers asked the House to reject a proposal by Joe Ashton, a Labor member, to approve the principle that salaries for MPs should be on the same level as top civil servants — £11,000 ($24,200) a year.

Unexpectedly, Ashton's proposal scraped home by one vote, 128-127.

That increase would take effect within three months of the next general election, which may come at any time in the next four years.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson's anti-inflation package won overwhelming parliamentary aproval, but it cost him a large-scale revolt by left-wing members of his Labor party.

Employment Secretary Michael Foot threatened to quit, saying he and other dissenters strongly disapproved government plans to back up voluntary pay curbs with legally enforceable powers against employers.

OVEN-READY CATTLE RUSTLED

VANCOUVER (CP) — The CP Rail freightyard in the downtown area was the scene of a major beef rustle Sunday night.

The truck and trailer unit in which the beef was stored also was stolen.

A CP Rail spokesman declined to place any value on the missing merchandise. However, a spokesman for a lower mainland packing house said the beef would be worth $20,000 to $32,000, wholesale, depending on the quality of the meat.

Police said the truck, described as a tractor and trailer unit with silver, blue and white CP markings, is valued at $32,000.

Egypt to Keep UN Peace Force

Times News Services

An official United Nations spokesman announced today in New York that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat had agreed to a security council request that Egypt extend the mandate of the U.N. peacekeeping forces in the Sinai Desert.

The official Egyptian reply was handed to security council president Eugenio Plaja of Italy in New York today by Egyptian ambassador Ahmed Esmat Abdel Meguid. Sadat had said Tuesday he would give his reply after consulting his advisers.

The contents of the note were not immediately disclosed but diplomatic sources said Sadat agreed to the U.N. continuation. Egyptian sources would not comment.

In Jerusalem Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin declared tonight that Israel will not sign a further interim agreement with Egypt unless it is preceded by face-to-face negotiations.

Rabin told a political meeting, "Israel has agreed to negotiate with Egypt on an interim settlement through the good offices of the United States.

"But in any case the negotiating process will not reach its conclusion and an agreement will not be signed without direct negotiations, face-to-face, between Israeli and Egyptian delegations."

In military action today, Israeli troops crossed into southern Lebanon, blowing up houses in a frontier village and taking captives back across the frontier.

The military command in Tel Aviv said an Israeli patrol searching for guerrillas blew up two houses in the Lebanese village of Kfar Kela and took seven captives.

A military spokesman in Beirut said the Israelis seized six villagers in a 2½-hour raid.

Israel put its forces on alert along all frontiers in what officials described as a precautionary measure to prevent a surprise Arab attack.

Meanwhile in Cairo, the official Middle East News Agency announced today President Sadat will run for another six years in office in 1976 when his current term expires.

Striking Pen Inmates Stay in Cells

Jim Bultitude, acting penitentiary director, said the convicts began their work stoppage at midnight and did not come out of their cells at 8 a.m.

The Prisoners Union Committee (PUC) said in a news release that the two-day work stoppage would be a non-violent action and security staff have been asked to co-operate "by maintaining the non-violent atmosphere."

Bultitude said it was quiet and there had been no violence or incidents.

"The commissioner of penitentiaries in Ottawa has been notified and we are awaiting instructions from our regional headquarters," said Bultitude.

Staff members provided breakfast as the prisoners were given the opportunity to leave their cells for meals.

Penitentiary spokesman Fred Leech said staff members will continue to provide meals, medication and other services normally available but wondered what effect the weather would have on the prisoners.

"We'll see how long they sit in there if it gets hot this afternoon," said Leech.

He disputed the claim that 300 prisoners have signed up with PUC at the federal maximum-security institution.

"They'll be lucky if they've got 25 per cent of the inmate population," Leech said.

There are about 450 prisoners in the penitentiary.

PUC said the demands of the prisoners will include recognition of the 300-member union — the Prisoners Union; the right to hold meetings and democratic, secret ballot elections; and the right to bargain collectively with the solicitor-general's department to improve working and living conditons in the institution.

West Bay Resort Proposed

Developer plans hotel near marina

West Bay Marina could become Esquimalt's resort corner if owner John Malnyk has his way.

The Head St. marina with about 160 boats and a growing number of floating homes may soon be surrounded by a hotel and other resort facilities, Melnyk said Tuesday.

He declined to give details before taking proposals to Esquimalt council but said "We have to have more development to make it a paying proposition. It's not paying now."

Boat moorage alone does not earn sufficient money for profitable maintenance and operation of the marina, he said.

Melnyk is also building and selling his own floating homes which are keeping company with the houseboats that sent Esquimalt council running to the federal government in April to find out if they are legal.

Ten floating homes now make up the "fleet" after a transport ministry official ruled they have as much right to stay as pleasure boats.

Two of Melnyk's homes — already sold for about $12,000 — are half-completed and he plans to build about 20 more.

"I don't see any difficulty at all (keeping them here)," he said.

Trouble over the houseboats first arose when aldermen pointed out the boat dwellers use municipal services but pay no taxes.

Nearby residents complained the homes were unsuitable there.

Recycling Depot Plans Newspaper Week

The week, which will include manning of the depot this Sunday by volunteers, will be devoted exclusively to handling of newsprint. The recycling staff is asking people to hold off delivering bottles, jars and tins until after Aug. 2.

Depot hours for "newspaper week" will be 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

"We have only a limited number of containers but we will take in all (newsprint) that is delivered in the proper state," said Donald Sher, regional recycling co-ordinator and also co-ordinator for the Recycling Council of B.C.

That means bundles of newspapers should be securely tied and not include any magazines.

The recycling depot has not been accepting newsprint in recent months because of inconsistent markets for ti and because of a labor dispute which shut down the depot for some time.

Sher said he thinks the batch of newsprint collected in the coming week will be sold in Korea. Other shipments have gone to Japan and the U.S. and some in future may be sold in Indonesia.

He said it would be best if the newsprint could be reused in B.C.

"We thought we had a firm commitment from the Ocean Falls mill to take all our newsprint," said spokesman Sarah Byatt, "but their equipment is so old it couldn't handle the paper, even though we spent hours cleaning it."

Marguerite Runs Afoul Of Rules

The provincial government's ferry Princess Marguerite has run afoul of the U.S. Coast Guard's marine traffic rules.

The veteran ship, bought from C.P. Rail in April, may get off with a warning.

A U.S. coast guard spokesman in Seattle said today that they had received complaints from commercial fishermen in Port Townsend that their boats had been rocked by her wake as she passed them, 75 to 200 yards away.

The spokesman said she was about 500 yards outside the traffic system and the same distance away from Marrowstone Point.

He said there was no scheduled speed limit for did the Princess Marguerite have to stay within the traffic lanes. But, the spokesman said, she had failed to meet the regulation which went into effect Sept. 30, 1974, requiring ships to report their positions at certain points in the traffic system and notify the coast guard when they deviate from the normal route.

tion or bilateral action with the United States."

And in Halifax, the North American agent for the Soviet fishing fleet said today, closure of East Coast ports to Soviet fishing vessels is a "futile gesture that will hurt nobody but ourselves."

Joz DeBelie, manager of Kerr Steamships Canada Ltd., representatives of the Soviet fleet, said a lot of money will be taken out of the local economies of Halifax and St. John's, Nfld.

Meanwhile, pressure mounted on the government Tuesday to declare a 200-mile offshore fishing limit as the opposition pressed in the Commons for a firm statement by External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen.

A concerted attack by Progressive Conservative and New Democratic Party MPs came one day after Newfoundland Premier Frank Moores presented a 100,000-signature petition calling for unilateral action to this effect.

The main thrust of the criticism was that the government is taking too long to make up its mind, that the time for action is overdue.

"The fisheries is dying a slow death," said Jack Marshall (PC — Humber - St. George-St. Barbe). "The fishing industry is deteriorating into a state of oblivion."

MacEachen and Fisheries Minister Romeo Le Blanc said the picture is not as black as the opposition paints it.

UVic Getting Housing Offers

Housing offers are rolling into the University of Victoria student housing office after a stepped-up publicity drive for apartments for students attending university in September.

About 50 accommodation offers have been called in this week, housing spokesman Len Anderson said today.

The apartments range from empty basements to expensive modern suites, he said.

Anderson and two other UVic students — Colleen Davies and Sue Richings — are matching up students and tenants at the new UVic office set up to ease the drastic apartment shortage students were faced with last year.

They are seeking housing for undergraduate, graduate, single and married students from out of town needing somewhere to live from September 1, 1975 to Aptil 30, 1976.

Apartments are being snapped up as fast as they're offered and posted on the bulletin board at the campus office, said Anderson.

"The only way for a student to find a place is to hang around," he said.

Gun Drama Suspect Remanded to Aug. 6

Richard Albert Forrest, alleged to have held police at bay for more than an hour at the University of Victoria stadium Sunday, was remanded in Victoria provincial court today to Aug. 6 for further mental observation.

Victoria psychiatrist Dr. John Evans testified he had examined the accused earlier today and found him mentally ill with what he termed "a moderately severe depressive reaction."

Forrest's lawyer, Richard Anthony, asked Judge William Ostler if it was possible for his client to be remanded to the Eric Martin Institute in Victoria but the judge replied it was outside his authority to recommend where the accused would be sent.

Fire Sweeps Boat

TOULON, France (AP) — Fire swept a French tourist ferry boat in the Mediterranean today and maritime officials in Toulon said about 12 persons were killed and 50 injured. The boat Venus des Iles had 140 persons aboard for the trip from Toulon in southeastern France to Porquerolles Island, officials said.

Victoria-Calgary Relay Run Set

The runners, all from the Calgary unit, will carry a goodwill message from Mayor Peter Pollen to Calgary Mayor Rod Sykes, bearing good wishes for Calgary's 100th birthday.

For the next 4½ days, nine teams of runners will carry Pollen's message across the Rockies, delivering it by hand to Sykes on Aug. 4, Calgary's Heritage Day, at Heritage Park.

Company commander, Major Barry Ashton, says the men chose the run as their centennial project "because of the challenge it offers."

One of the nine teams will be made up of the unit's top officers, the other eight teams being composed of the battalion's best runners.

An intense low pressure system located near weather ship Papa should drift northward during the next couple of days. However it is expected the low will continue to creep towards the coast of B.C. It will be responsible for periodic rains in the north coastal area and for a slow increase in cloudiness over the south coast and the northern half of the interior on Thursday. Meanwhile the southern interior is expected to remain generally sunny through Thursday. Summery temperatures should predominate in most regions.

DOMINION PUBLIC WEATHER OFFICE 10 A.M. FORECASTS Valid Until Midnight Thursday

Idi Invasion 'Top-Secret'

KAMPALA (AP) — Ugandan President Idi Amin says he is ready to lead a black African invasion of white-ruled South Africa and Rhodesia, but details are "top secret—I can't even tell my wife."

Amin, recently awarded the new military title of field marshal, told interviewers Tuesday the rank "will be put into use when I invade southern Africa, including Rhodesia."

He was only partly serious during the interview.

Amin gave no details of his military scheme and there was no indication any other country was prepared to join. But Amin said he would call a meeting of some black states that are ready to give him command of their armies in a joint African high command.

He said he has "made international contact" about invading from the sea and that long-range aircraft could be used if necessary. South Africa is more than 1,000 miles from Uganda.

"We already have trained very many—over thousands—of saboteurs which can make the situation in Rhodesia and especially South Africa worse than Northern Ireland," Amin said. These agents would get food and explosives within South Africa.

Uganda's army has about 12,000 army men, 600 in the air force and no navy, say outside reference works.

South Africa has a regular army of 10,000, backed by a civilian reserve of 22,300, a navy of 1,200 and an air force of 5,000 regulars and 3,000 civilian reservists. Rhodesia's army includes 3,500 men and a civilian reserve of 20,000 and 1,000 in the air force.

127 Donors At Red Cross Blood Clinic

The clinic Thursday is at the University of Victoria's Student Union Building, from 9 a.m. to noon and 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Substantial Wage Hikes In Federal Nurses' Pact

The 1,600 nurses employed by the federal government have signed a new two-year contract which gives them substantial wage increases, but which still leaves them behind provincial nurses, a union official said today.

The federal nurses, who have been negotiating for a new contract since January, are still paid different rates in different provinces, despite the union's efforts to win a national pay scale, said Joseph Clare, regional representative for the Professional Institute of the public Service of Canada.

About 120 federal nurses are employed in B.C., 10 of them on Vancouver Island.

A general duty public health nurse in B.C., which has the highest federal rates, received a minimum of $11,550 a year and a maximum of $14,050 under the old contract.

At the end of this year, they will get $12,590 a year minimum and $15,315 maximum.

But the new rates still leave them about $1,000 a year behind Ontario nurses, who have just negotiated a contract, Clare said.

As well, he said, it takes Ontario nurses only seven years to reach the top of the scale while it takes federally-employed nurses 10 years to reach the maximum.

Sidney Court Closure Questions at Meeting

Saanich Peninsula residents, angered over the closure earlier this year of the Sidney provincial court, will have all their questions answered at a meeting in August, they were assured Tuesday.

Larry Goble, Victoria regional co-ordinator for Justice Councils, told the 30 residents who turned out for a meeting in Central Saanich municipal hall Tuesday, that the person who made the decision to close the Sidney court would be at the August meeting to tell them why it was closed.

The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. Aug. 5 in the Mills Road Legion hall.

Asked today who the person was who made the closure decision, Goble said he was still working trying to determine that.

The Tuesday meeting was attended by policemen from the two Peninsula forces, lawyers and probation officers who now have to travel to Victoria for court appearances.

One Sidney RCMP member said he had spent the past two days sitting in Victoria provincial court waiting to appear in a case that was eventually remanded, thereby depriving the community of his services.

Goble said he felt the meeting was somewhat successful in that he had identified seven specific questions that needed to be answered.

He said it was important to have community input into the problem, but next time "we should make sure it happens before the action is taken, not after."

He said he didn't feel the government was inflexible about re-opening a court on the Peninsula, "although it may not mean a full court."

Qualicum Mill Out

A major steel mill for Qualicum on Vancouver Island was ruled out by the British Columbia government which announced today detailed studies will be carried out at Prince George and Kitimat to determine whether it is feasible to build the mill.

Gary Lauk, economic development minister, said in a news release the sites were chosen from 16 sites in seven different locations in B.C.

Last fall the province signed an agreement with Nippon Kokan, a major Japanese steel company, to conduct a joint feasibility study of an integrated steel mill in B.C.

This study is only part of the information required by the province in determining its policy concerning secure steel supply for B.C.'s development needs," Lauk says in the release.

He said other alternatives being studied by the province concern the creation of a smaller direct reduction mill in B.C. or contractual agreements based on sale of provincial resources, most notably coal.

When talk of a major steel-mill first came about, Qualicum was mentioned by Lauk as a site under consideration. His remarks brought both official and unofficial protest from representatives of the Island resort area.

PARLOR RUBBED OUT

Plans to permit a body rub parlor in Victoria appear to have been rubbed out by Victoria city council, despite an earlier favorable recommendation from the finance committee.

The three aldermen who last week supported the application by Richmond businessman William Gold — Aldermen Sam Bawlf, Bob Ellis and Malcolm Anderson — indicated at council's caucus meeting on Tuesday that they had changed their minds.

The result will be a unanimous no vote at Thursday's full council meeting. All council members must vote against the application if a trades licence for the so-called leisure club is to be withheld.

Ald. Mike Young said the crucial point to consider was how council could differentiate between a legitimate operation, as Gold's appeared to be, and one that would be unacceptable.

Ald. Bill Tindall told council the whole matter was the subject of a report to the attorney-general's department by the Co-ordinated Law Enforcement Unit.

He said Washington state law enforcement officials had informed CLEU of the problems caused there by massage parlors, which were centres for extortion, prostitution, drug peddling and many other criminal offences.

Mayor Peter Pollen noted that the city of Toronto would like to rid itself of such establishments, but is having difficulty in doing so. Eighty per cent of the Toronto body rub operations are "houses of prostitution," he said.

Wiretaps Lawful In Robbery Case

The interception of telephone calls through the use of wiretaps was ruled lawful as it relates to the cases of two men charged with conspiracy to commit armed robberies in Esquimalt and Victoria.

Judge William Ostler made the ruling Tuesday in Victoria provincial court following testimony by Einar Hemstad, a city detective-sergeant.

James Archie Hancock, 33, and Gilles Paul Proulx, 30, were arrested April 26 and are charged with two counts each of conspiring between April 1 and 25 to rob employees of the liquor store at 1310 Esquimalt, and Mac's Milk Convenience Store, 265 Menzies.

Hemstad told the court surveillance and other investigative procedures had proved unsuccessful so police approached Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton of the B.C. Supreme Court for authorization for wiretapping on April 11.

But the admissibility of such evidence is a separate question. Ostler said the rest of the trial would be conducted by voire dire, a trial within a trial, to decide whether the evidence to be presented is sufficient to meet requirements of the Criminal Code.

Defence lawyer Cecil Branson said outside court Tuesday that if the evidence is ruled inadmissible the tapes would never be made public.

Regardless of the outcome of the trial an appeal is expected.

Because most of the trial is being conducted in voire dire, details of the evidence cannot be published.

The trial, which began Monday, is scheduled to last seven days but could run longer.

Branson indicated at the outset he intended to fight the unprecedented case every step of the way.

He rose so many times to object to evidence being led by Prosecutor J. W. Anderson Tuesday that at one point he half-apologized to the judge: "I hate to be a jack-in-the-box, but . . ."

So far six witnesses have been called and as many as 20 others are expected to testify before the trial ends.

One Man, One Vote

It's trite but true — any electoral redistribution is always long overdue. In British Columbia, it is particularly late in coming. The last equalization of riding boundaries along the one man, one vote principle took place in 1966, and it was an unsatisfactory procedure.

The royal commission headed by UBC commerce dean Henry Angus redrew constituencies and added six new ones, while eliminating three Social Credit ridings and three NDP-held seats. It came very close to the average 16,750 voters per member.

But vehement backbench Socred opposition forced then-premier W. A. C. Bennett to tinker with the report. The resulting legislation kept some seats which Angus had abolished, and brought charges of gerrymander from the opposition.

Bennett promised redistribution would be held again in 1971, but obviously the controversy stirred up in 1966 soured him on the idea. As a result, present-day provincial electoral borders are seriously distorted in some areas of the province.

Surprisingly, some ridings are very close to equal representation. Ridings such as Oak Bay, Esquimalt, Nanaimo, Victoria, Alberni, Boundary-Similkameen and the three Burnaby ridings are close enough to the present average voter figure of 24,400 per MLA that their boundaries probably should be left untouched.

In others, especially the north and the rapidly-growing suburbs of east and south Vancouver, the distortion is obvious. Delta, a single-member riding, for example had 51,301 registered voters in 1972, more than each of the six two-member constituencies of Vancouver proper.

The premier's riding of Coquitlam also deserves a second MLA on the same basis, while Richmond and Surrey deserve at least to have an extra member to share. Latest population figures for these mushrooming bedroom suburbs may necessitate the addition of still more ridings.

But in certain rural areas of B.C., namely the north and the Kootenays, that the distortion ranges far in the direction of over-representation. The Angus commission in 1966 recommended the amalgamation of the three northern ridings of Atlin, Omineca and North Peace River into one constituency covering the northern third of the province, called Northland, but Bennett ignored this proposal for political reasons.

As a result, using the 1972 voters' list, Atlin had just 2,822 and the other two had about 11,000 each. In other words, an Atlin vote was equivalent to 10 votes in Victoria or Vancouver in the 1972 election.

The new redistribution commission has been given terms of reference allowing it to add up to seven more seats to the 55-member house, while the government has asked it to ensure adequate representation for rural areas.

Some rural ridings are so sparsely populated that to put them on an equal footing with the big-city constituencies would make it almost impossible for an MLA to keep in touch with residents. Given B.C.'s enormous physical size and lopsided population distribution, there are bound to be some inequities which cannot be corrected except by creating other imbalances.

But the redistribution commission should eliminate the worst features of the several "rotten boroughs" that now exist, and ensure a return as close as possible to the principle of one man, one vote.

A Shortlived Sigh of Relief

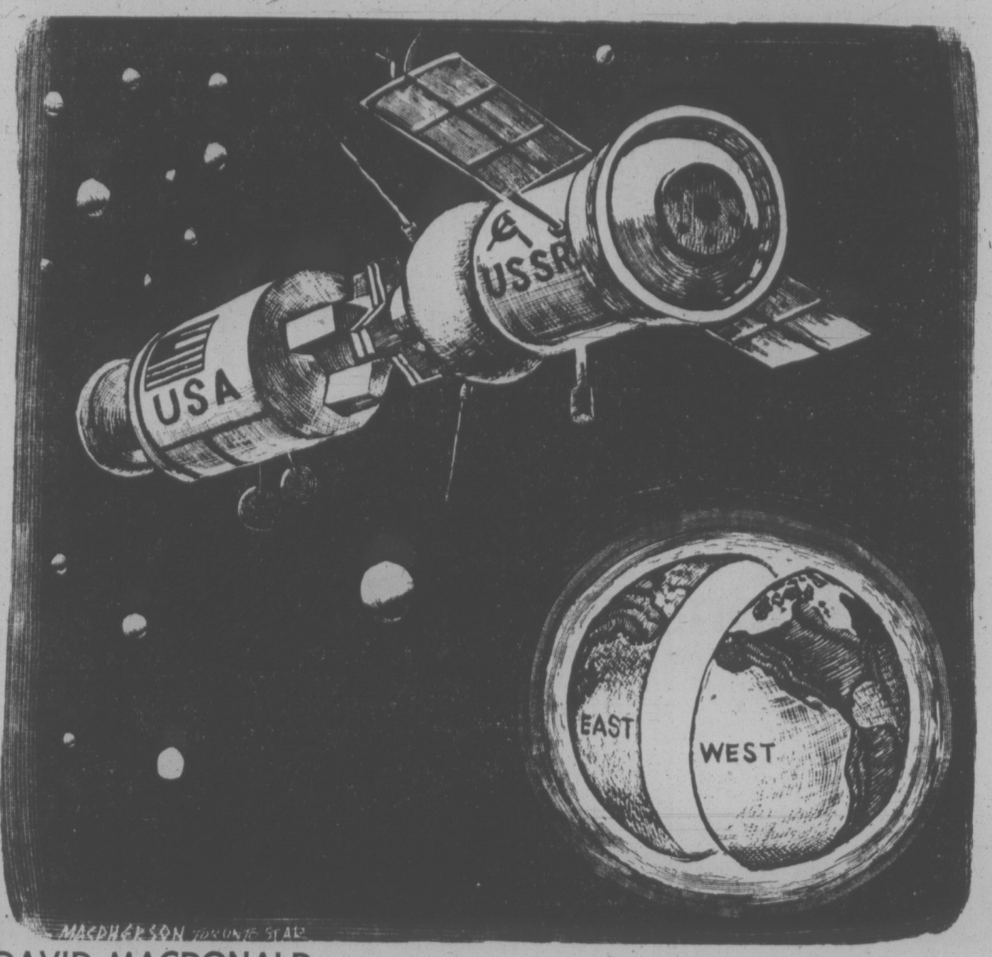
A sigh of relief accompanied by editorial platitudes marked the removal of Indian roadblocks by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police at Gold River and Mount Currie last week. Potentially explosive situations were defused, for the time being. In the languor of summer, most British Columbians don't realize just how touchy the situation was. On the previous weekend deputy attorney-general David Vickers went to Mount Currie and tried to negotiate an end to the roadblock. When this tactful approach failed the provincial government went to the RCMP — not hurriedly or panic-stricken but knowing that the state of siege had to end.

In the first place nobody has the right to block a public highway. The government can be faulted for a week of dithering as the tension increased. Had the attorney-general's department immediately moved to squelch the blockade one spark might have set off a chain reaction of tragic violence. That alternative required careful thought. What finally forced the government to act was not fear of Indian violence or a police-Indian confrontation but the very real threat that local whites might take the law into their hands. If this had occurred a bloodbath would have been almost a certainty.

In the wake of events the attorney-general's department acted properly, if slowly. The courts had the good sense to release arrested Indians on their own recognizance. And the RCMP deserves special praise for the manner in which it handled a thankless task.

The matter doesn't end here though. More examples of civil disobedience are bound to happen as Indians' long dormant anger at an indifferent white culture formalizes in new protest. Recent events should be an example to the provincial government that it cannot remain aloof. It will be dragged in one way or another to settle Indian grievances. Better that the government is prepared to act in future rather than fumbling in musty statute books looking for chapter and verse. New crises could be avoided if the federal and provincial realms would speed up the process for settling Indian land claims and other disputes. The longer these matters drag on, the greater potential for tragedy.

One RCMP officer who watched Indians being carted away from the Mount Currie blockade termed it a sad day. It was for policemen charged with enforcing the rules of a society that has been indifferent to Indian pleas for 100 years. In the end it wasn't so sad. Rule of law prevailed as did common sense. If the same dictums are quickly applied to settling Indian grievances these stupid confrontations would end forever.



DAVID MACDONALD

Do as We Say, Not as We Do

LONDON — Some of the people who run Britain are showing astonishing insensitivity to public opinion at a time when the prime minister has asked the whole country to rein in wage demands.

While the furnace of inflation roars at a 25-per-cent annual rate and workers are told they must make do with weekly pay increases no higher than $13.80 or 10 per cent for the next year, members of parliament have been creating bedlam because their own pay will rise by "only" $55 a week.

Some members were almost hysterical with fury when they discovered that their salaries would rise by only 28 per cent instead of the 78 per cent recommended by the independent Boyle committee on top salaries.

It is reminiscent of the anger among some Canadian MPs when their 50-per-cent pay increase had to be cut back to 33 per cent because of public anger at the greed of a group seeking 12 per cent restraint in the rest of the country.

Must Be Reduced

A similar double standard is being applied by the chairmen of Britain's nationalized industries who have written to the prime minister asking for increases worth 28 per cent.

These men, 20 of them, are under threat of dismissal by the government if they pay any of their employees more than the weekly $13.80 increase limit over the next twelve months.

Richard Marsh, a former Labor party cabinet minister who now is chairman of British Rail, delivered a speech to the annual conference of the National Union of Railwaymen saying: "The size of wage settlements has got to be reduced."

At that moment, government planners were studying a confidential memorandum from Marsh asking for a wage increase that would lift his current annual salary of $53,130 to $67,080.

Another example of insensitivity has come from the biggest local authority in the United Kingdom, the Greater London Council which made a secret deal to give 22 per cent increases to the top 26 officials who work for the council.

For the director-general, James Swaffield, it means his current annual salary of $41,400 rises to $52,900. The average increase for his 25 subordinates is $124 a week.

The deal only came to public notice because of an inquisitive Conservative councillor who found that his own party and the ruling Labor party group had made a secret understanding to put through the increases without telling the public.

The councillor, Frank Smith, said of the increases: "How can we expect the trade unions to act responsibly when they see this sort of nonsense going on?"

In all three examples there are powerful and compelling arguments in favor of giving the three groups exactly what they are asking for.

Swaffield is responsible for 7,250,000 people in a city of 610 square miles. He oversees a budget that is bigger than the gross national product of most of the 138 member countries of the United Nations. At $4,140,000,000 it would come 19th on a list of these countries, above Portugal and Luxembourg.

State industry bosses have been under government pay clamps for five years while senior civil servants, judges and senior armed forces officers got substantial increases. Lord Boyle, for example, has recommended an annual salary of $80,500 for the chairman of British Rail.

MPs have not had an increase since January of 1972. Most of them have minimal outside earnings and find London's sky-high living costs, plus, for some, maintenance of a second home in the constituency, extremely hard on the current basic salary of $10,350 a year.

But the effect of them complaining noisily in the House of Commons about an increase four times higher than anyone else may be given is most unfortunate at a time when the country has broadly given reluctant support to the government's austerity call.

For instance, the executive of the National Union of Mineworkers has just voted 14-10 in favor of accepting the government's counter-inflation policy: It will now conduct a vote among its 250,000 members on whether or not they support the government policy.

Ill-Timed Demands

On the ballot paper will be the executive decision, giving the government's policy at least an even chance of being supported.

By contrast, the justifiable but mistimed pay demands of some of the country's leaders puts one in mind of a cartoon that appeared in The Evening Standard some months ago when unknown gunmen riddled the entrance to an expensive London hotel with machine-gun bullets.

This cartoon showed an obviously Irish doorman holding out his hand for a tip while his employer crouched on the ground dodging bullets and flying glass and saying:

"Not now, Murphy, not now."

No Disclosure

Regarding Olympic and other lottery winners, specifically the Western Canada lottery, I fully agree with P.P.'s letter in the Times of July 14 that winners' names should not be disclosed. I never buy a Western Canada lottery ticket because of the publicity given winners and the hounding by reporters to make a "scoop."

A few weeks ago you reported extensively on the winner of $1 million who had had to move repeatedly to try and escape these news hounds. Such hounding is definitely an invasion of privacy.

At least the Irish sweepstakes uses nom de plumes, accounting for their popularity. Why can't Canadian lotteries do the same and so protect their winners from such persecution? I am sure sales would increase if winners were assured that their names would not be disclosed. —C.D., Victoria.

Drinking Money

When Statistics Canada reported last week that Canada's $2.6 billion in alcohol sales had increased 11.2 per cent in one year, it did not show the full extent of the increased gouging of the liquor industry into the life of the people.

The figure shows only government-reported sales, which do not include those for private resale. In B.C., these latter may reach one-third of government sales and are stated to be not less than $100 million with beer given as 140 per cent, wine 100 per cent, and spirits 200 per cent, by well-informed sources.

If the same rate obtains for all Canada, the figure should be about $3.4 billion, or about $10 billion in three years, at these rates.

The inflation in the consumer price index for 1971-74 was 30.4 points. That for alcohol and tobacco was only 13.3, making the former 2.3 times greater. Thus alcohol and tobacco hold a privileged position, which should be corrected by our governments. Why favor them?

In addition, Ottawa has reduced the excise tax on wine, thus increasing the disparity. Such a policy leaves the government open to a charge of being a pusher for the industry's sake.

The diversion of $3.4 billion from purchase of commodities is helping to delay economic recovery. Putting this money into housing, food, clothing, education and health, would do much to solve problems in these areas.

Governments are doing too little, as are drinkers themselves, to encourage such an approach. It is time we all realized the serious drain of alcohol on our economy, our food supplies, our health and our social progress.

Revenues taken in only compensate in small part for the social cost of this nefarious trade — about $1 for every $5 in damage.

We are drinking ourselves poor faster, year by year, with the toll of waste, illness, alcoholism and death mounting.

How long will press and public ignore these facts? — Harold T. Allen, 2140 Kings Road.

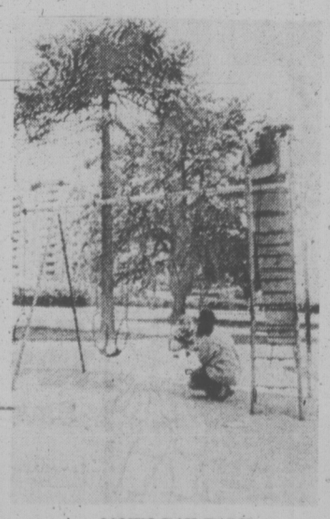
Space to Breathe

Although I am no longer a member of the James Bay New Horizons Assoc. I was one of the original group of people who applied for and got the federal government grant of $40,000, which has since financed the operations of the association.

The original submission stated: "The anxiety is that parks shall be preserved, historical buildings protected and local residents assured a voice in the shape of the future."

Local residents as a whole have not been consulted in the matter of developing our park property and I am unable to understand how city council, the recreation and parks committee or the members of New Horizons can find any justification for putting up a building, large or small, on any part of James Bay Park.

I understand from a staff member of the local resource board that the branch office of human resources presently housed in the Cathedral school, is to vacate this building in October of this year. A lot has been said about the Cathedral school and New Horizons, but why has there been no discussion about retning this very suitable building? The rent could be paid either by the resources board or through NIP funds.



JAMES BAY PARK
. . . wanted for centre

If the New Horizons program in adequate quarters proves to be of benefit to a majority of the older residents of this community, I am sure there would be no difficulty in finding a permanent home. Meanwhile, James Bay needs its small park for its own sake — for the green space, the view of the sky, the trees and above all what every city must have if it is to survive — space to breath. — Mrs. Kathleen Ranson, former vice-president James Bay New Horizons, 450 Simcoe Street.

Right Treatment

Two reports in your issue of July 16 should give us pause to think.

A defendant, about whom it was stated, that prior to an attempted murderous assault on two young girls, had been drinking for some seven solid hours used a knife in his attempts to abduct these girls — no doubt for conversational purposes.

The judge, stating his concern about this drunken thug's future on the public payroll, sentenced him to one month's imprisonment.

Your newspaper did not report what must also have been a source of considerable worry to his lordship and to which he must also have given expression, i.e., the effect of this murderous assault on two young girls and their right to protection from such happenings.

In the same issue, it is reported that another law officer taking part in the recapture of an escaped prisoner, stated, "if he hadn't his hands up, we would probably have blasted him." This officer is undoubtedly one of those in favor of capital punishment, albeit without such time-wasting foolishness as a trial.

CBS Likes Games

I was watching CBS news recently and there was a very nice comment on the 1976 Olympics. I couldn't believe these were the same Olympics as reported on the CBC, yet it must be so — the same games, the same place, as seen through different eyes.

I wondered why the provinces would not get behind this effort? Why can't they realize the potential benefit which could accrue to all?

Many of those who come to the games will want to see other parts of Canada. They will come from the far places on the globe. They will want to visit British Columbia and the grain centre of the world, Saskatchewan, if given any encouragement.

Now is the time when provincial governments should be girding their loins, so to speak, and planning for the influx of tourists from the Olympics and well planned publicity and invitational program should be underway without delay.

We could show the world that we are one country and one people. — Kathleen English, 740 Burdett Street.

Quick Work

Too many of us job-seekers know — too many employers don't know — that Manpower has a service which offers casual laborer's jobs on a daily basis.

The procedure is as follows: Any employer, from construction contractor to housewife can call Manpower at 388-3481, for help with any unskilled work, from general cleaning around the garden to digging trenches, you name it.

For the job-seeker, this involves standing in line outside the Manpower office on Fort Street at 6 a.m. and hoping to be there first in order to be first employed. Many of us will even wait until late in the day to work for a couple of hours.

So give them a call from 7 p.m. to 5 a.m. — T. Hollander, 1503 Hillside Avenue.

60 YEARS AGO

From the Times of July 23, 1915

Two weeks from today, the Russell Car Co. of Toronto will deliver three motor ambulances ordered for No. 5 Canadian general hospital, the hospital which now is mobilized at Macaulay Point awaiting instructions to go to the front. The order for the three vehicles was placed through the local agents of the Russell firm, Thomas Plimley and Co. One of the orders was given by Mr. and Mrs. Bullen who very generously subscribed the full amount for an ambulance, while the other two orders were placed through the Red Cross society. Russell has supplied 100 similar machines to date to the British and Canadian war office departments. The ambulance is fitted with the 32 horsepower Silent Knight engine on a 120-inch wheelbase, and costs $2,300 F.O.B. Toronto. Russell has also turned out a number of armored cars for the British war department.

The Moral Stance Of the Artist

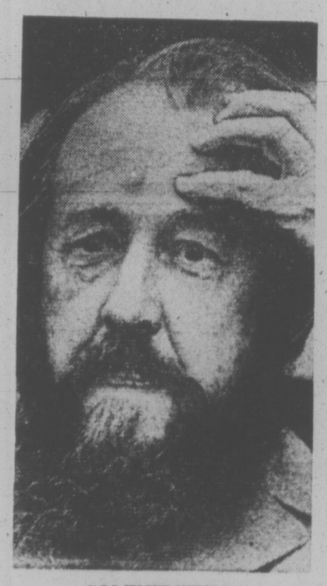
By WILLIAM V. SHANNON
New York Times

Alexander Solzhenitsyn steps into American life out of the pages of a Dostoyevsky novel. A deeply religious man and a moralist, he is preoccupied with fundamental questions of what is truth and what is justice. He sees every issue, large and small, personal and political, in terms of good and evil.

He is a victim who became a hero, a teller of tales who became a symbol, a uniquely Russian prophet who became an exile in the wilderness of the West.

He speaks of sin, shame, and redemption, concepts which our neo-pagan society with its secularized atmosphere and deeply corrupt popular culture can barely comprehend. It is no wonder that although he seeks to warn and instruct us, we are bemused and baffled.

As well as a powerful novelist and a moral prophet, Solzhenitsyn is also an informed, uncompromising critic of Communist theory and Soviet practice. In this third role as political critic, Solzhenitsyn has recently been provided with forums by AFL-CIO president George Meany who underwrote the cost of large public banquets in Washington and New York for invited audiences.



SOLZHENITSYN
. . . hard questions

Meany regards these appearances as useful demonstrations against the Nixon-Ford-Kissinger policy of detente with the Soviet Union.

Solzhenitsyn does indeed make a powerful argument against the moral emptiness of detente as it is now being practiced. He indicts the greed of businessmen who are prepared to sell anything to the commissars including police security devices. He throws on the defensive those politicians and intellectuals who confuse conciliation with appeasement.

Despite the clarity and force of Solzhenitsyn's analysis, however, his speeches are unlikely to produce firm political action.

Although the trade unionists and their guests applaud his words and some reactionaries use his remarks to attack the concept of detente, there is not in American life today among trade unionists or conservatives or liberals the moral energy and political will to mount a campaign to put his ideals into effect.

Nearly 30 years of political struggle with communism and two costly wars in Korea and Vietnam have exacted their toll on Americans. For the moment at least, we as a people have a need to regroup and rethink our alternatives.

Moreover, to Americans across most of the political spectrum, detente is morally acceptable because it lessens the chance of a nuclear war occurring on account of a failure of communication between the opposing leaders. Secondly, it opens up the hope—fragile and speculative though it is—that increased trade and travel may lead to some reform of the Soviet system.

Solzhenitsyn, of course, regards both reasons for detente as pathetic hopes. He would return to the full rigors of the cold war and hope to see the Soviet system fall further behind the West, eventually changing because of its own stultifying inefficiency and arbitrariness.

He may well be right. But Western leaders are not unreasonable in calculating that prospects for peace are improved rather than worsened by a positive instead of a negative approach to the Soviet tyrants.

A policy of detente, however, does not require moral surrenders such as President Ford's decision to snub Solzhenitsyn. The decision is almost inexplicable because it is like passing up the opportunity to have a conversation with Tolstoy or Thoreau.

It is sad because no American, be he president or private citizen, ought to be embarrassed by someone who makes an absolute, unqualified defense of the idea of human freedom.

It ought to be possible for American leadership to reconcile detente with hard bargaining, to maintain a civilized tone in dealing with the Russians while preserving their own moral perspective on the Russian system.

Jefferson or Lincoln or John Kennedy could have carried off this intellectual and political feat. Richard Nixon, so morally compromised and ambiguous a figure, could not.

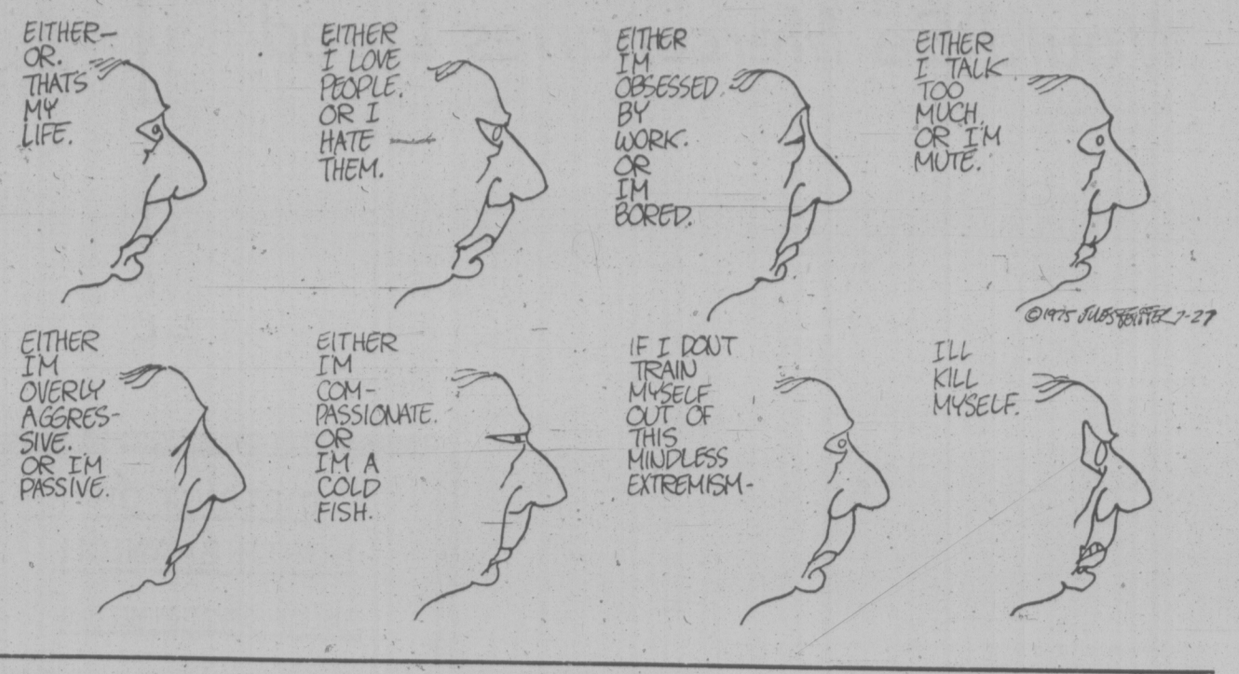
Their avoidance of Solzhenitsyn indicates that Kissinger, the sorcerer's apprentice, and Ford, nominally his new master, are likewise incapable of it.

As the politicians and diplomats fumble, Americans can still benefit from Solzhenitsyn's moral counsel. Less important than how we choose to live in the world with our enemies is how we choose to live with ourselves.

Freedom, he points out, is not an end in itself but "a means by which we can attain another and higher goal." That goal is to lead a morally worthy life.

After all the fashionable causes of the moment—abortion, women's rights, "gay" liberation—have achieved their goals, there will still remain the enduring problems of how to invest our lives with moral content and how to create a culture worthy of human beings.

Only a visitor from a land where freedom does not exist could ask so penetratingly the question—to what good use are you putting the precious gift of freedom?



The 'Bewildering Turmoil' of Portugal

By DAN GRIFFIN
The Washington Post

"I have just one question about your country," the American told the Portuguese diplomat. "What the hell is going on there?"

"Ah," smiled the diplomat, "the answer to that would be a book." More likely, it would be several books, all saying different things, for in the 15 months since a military coup abruptly ended Western Europe's oldest dictatorship more seems to have been written about Portugal than in the nearly half-century of the Salazar and Caetano regimes — and the accounts and theories generally are conflicting.

Now, however, there are signs that a revolution of the bewildering turmoil may be near, as the non-Communist elements within the ruling Armed Forces Movement move to form a common front against the radicals who want to turn Portugal into a "people's democracy" in the Eastern European mold.

U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has gained a great deal of attention for his theory that NATO-member Portugal could be the first domino to fall to Communist domination in southern Europe. Many Portuguese profess to fear that foreign agents will push the Armed Forces Movement to go too far — resulting in the collapse of the revolution or the imposition of a new dictatorship — to "vaccinate" the rest of the continent against the Communist infection.

Why should anyone with no personal stake in one of these theories care what happens in a country only 360 miles long by 100 miles wide, walled off from the rest of Europe by the Pyrenees and economically backward, with fewer than 10 million people of whom nearly a third are illiterate?

Moscow cares because it could get, from the loyal Portuguese Communist party, its first mid-Atlantic outlet; the Pentagon cares because it uses Portuguese naval and air bases in the Azores Islands as a mid-ocean filling station; European politicians care because they fear that the increasingly bitter Socialist-Communist feud in Lisbon could make impossible any future leftist coalition in Western Europe; Spain cares because its long, rugged border with Portugal is almost impossible to seal, and it fears that leftists will pour across the frontier to take advantage of the instability expected when Generalissimo Francisco Franco leaves the scene.

GONCALVES

Portugal's own concerns, however, are more immediate. With the collapse this month of the coalition government, the stage was set for a direct confrontation between the Communists, who won only 12.5 per cent of the vote in April's elections for a constituent assembly, and the Socialists (38 per cent) and Popular Democrats (25 per cent). Despite their ballot-box victory, the moderate parties have watched in helpless frustration as the military took one step to the left after another.

Especially in the conservative northern part of the country, this march to the left has caused a growing anti-Communist backlash among the population. Some observers estimate that 70 to 80 per cent of the people in the north are now also opposed to the Armed Forces Movement. One suggested that the military have three to four months, at the outside, to get the economy under control before the simmering resentment turns into scattered armed resistance.

Now, as Prime Minister Vasco Goncalves, an ally of the Communists, tries to put together an all-military cabinet —which many doubt he will achieve — there are reports that he is under pressure from more moderate elements within the Revolutionary Council, the country's highest governing body, to resign in favor of someone less radical.

The moderates are believed to hold a majority in the 30-man council, and there are reports that they have been joined recently by Gen. Otelo Saraiva de Carvalho, the loquacious head of national security, who is to the left of the Communists. Reportedly, the Communists tried to edge Carvalho out of his post as commander of COPCON, the powerful 5,000-man security force.

This weekend, as the Communists tried to prevent or disrupt Socialist rallies in several cities in northern Portugal, COPCON suddenly freed scores of Maoists — bitter enemies of the Communist party — because "The grave political situation makes absolutely indispensable the unity of all Portuguese truly interested in the revolutionary process."

COPCON also ordered the Communists to take down the barricades the Communists had put up to keep the Socialists from holding rallies.

As tensions within Portugal rose, European Common Market heads of state meeting in Brussels announced that the availability of economic aid for a stagnant Portugal would depend on the preservation of multiparty democracy.

At the end of the week, Portugal's foreign minister, Maj. Ernesto Melo Antunes — a moderate widely respected in Europe—flew to Rome for two days of talks with Italy's Foreign Minister Mariano Rumor about Portugal's situation and its relations with the Common Market.

Observers saw two possible reasons for Melo Antunes' trip, both of which tend to support the view that anti-communist forces in Lisbon are coalescing: First, that he was taking to Rumor, and through him the common Market, assurances that Portugal would not go Communist or bypass the political parties; or second, that he went to gain from Rumor assurances of support if Melo Antunes and his backers sought to take over the Armed Forces Movement.

Either interpretation also adds credence to the belief that COPCON's Carvalho is ready to ally himself with the moderates.

Carvalho's apparent shifts, Melo Antunes' intentions, alliances within the Revolutionary Council—all these are, at this point, informed guesses at best; but observers agree that the events of the next few weeks will at least give the rest of the world an idea of "what the hell is going on" in Portugal lately and what direction the "revolution of the red carnations" is taking.

Ottawa Keeps Reins on Our Right to Know

By DOUGLAS FISHER

OTTAWA — Citizens concerned about big government should take special note of a recent publication of the Canadian Parliament.

To identify it makes it seem more dull and complicated than it is. You could get it from your MP or from an Information Canada office. It is issue No. 32, dated June 25, 1975, of the minutes of proceedings and evidence of the joint parliamentary committee on regulations and other statutory instruments.

In brief, this is about your rights and my rights to know what the government has done and is doing.

An appendix to the report reproduces a long brief, written by a senior official, D. F. Wall, entitled: "The provision of government information." It was kept secret for over a year.

A foreigner, Ralph Nader, the American consumer rights agitator, stuck his nose in our affairs with the opinion that Canadians face a "wall of secrecy" in dealing with their government. On this count at least, the U.S. citizen has more rights and more protection. Amen to that!

When you read these proceedings and follow the cautious convolutions of two of the most senior officials in the Trudeau bureaucracy, you'll understand Mr. Nader's comment.

Gordon Robertson is 58 years old. From 1963 to 1974 he was the clerk of the Privy Council, the top civil service post in Canada. Now he is in charge of the Secretariat of Federal-Provincial Relations. Mr. Trudeau sent him into the committee to review all the thinking on possible directions his government may take in order to give citizens access to government.

What's in store for us in the future isn't much once you appraise Mr. Robertson's evidence and that of his assistant, a Dr. Smith (who is beautifully titled, "director of the machinery of government division of the Privy Council").

When they have strained the principle of open access to government through the mesh of restraints they see as essential in a system built on "ministerial responsibility," and an "unpoliticized and merit-based" public service, they really conclude with only the hope of a better Information Canada.

The same crude inversion takes place in Mr. Wall's report.

ROBERTSON
. . . mesh of restraints

At the end we're left with a vision of better-edited presentations of what the government and its agencies think we should know about what the government thinks it should let us know. Lost in the inversion are the rights of individuals, groups, reporters and members of Parliament to ask and receive what they want to know.

I'm exaggerating. But when one waded through all the exceptions which you and I are not entitled to know about, there wasn't much left except the hope of a bigger and better InfoCan.

G. W. Baldwin, the Tory House leader, is the author of the bill which is before this committee. He's been a persistent spokesman for those who believe in open government. One excerpt from the proceedings strongly supported his case.

Mr. Baldwin said: "I will read a statement from a very high authority in the United States:

"A first ground is a valid need for protection of communications between high government officials and those who assist them in the performance of their manifold duties. The importance of this confidentiality is too plain to require further discussion. Human experience teaches that those who expect public dissemination of their remarks may well temper candor with a concern for appearances and for their own interest to the detriment of the decision-making process."

"I think that is a different way of saying something you said earlier, Mr. Robertson."

At this point, both Mr. Baldwin and two reporters at the hearings agree that Mr. Robertson nodded his head and said "Yes." This affirmative is not on the printed record.

The chairman asked Mr. Baldwin to identify the quotation. Mr. Baldwin said that it was from the interpretation of the claim advanced by President Nixon for refusing to publish the Watergate tapes as made by the chief justice of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Mr. Baldwin pushed on with what Mr. Robertson called "a very nasty question." Would Mr. Robertson have advised a Canadian prime minsiter that pursuant to the principle he had read out, the prime minister had absolute discretion in refusing to publish the tapes or other evidence of documents and discussion between himself and his advisers?

Mr. Robertson never did answer the question directly.

Volleyball Is Not Enough

By JAMES T. WOOTEN

FORT INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa. Half a world away from home, the lovely little girl with a woman's eyes stands silently alone, a miniature Asian madonna on an old Army parade ground.

Is she frightened? her mother is asked.

"No, plenty of friends around."

Then why is she out there by herself, so quiet, so pensive, so still?

"Because she is bored," her mother replied, "just bored."

It was neither a complaint nor a confession, but rather a simple statement of fact that applies not only to Ngo Thi Bich Phuong, her 4-year-old daughter, but also to many of the 16,000 other Vietnamese refugees living on this antiquated military post.

After the nerve-wracking noise of their homeland, and after the frightening frenzy of their exodus, the refugees are here now, safe and secure in this peaceful, pastoral Appalachian valley, well-behaved, well-mannered, well-fed, well-kept and well, bored.

There are other problems of adjustment, to be sure — mastering a new language, finding a new home, getting a new job, learning a new culture — but the process is tedious and the waiting weighs on them and wears on them and the hours plod along like weary water buffalos.

The Americans who run the camp have tried to fill the vacuum, and there is a real sense of movement in the streets around the white, two-storey barracks where the Vietnamese are quartered.

English classes, organized games, movies and meals are all available — advertised daily in a camp newspaper — and they do provide some measure of diversion and entertainment.

Inherent in them all is the quintessential concept that busy, busy, busy is very, very healthy.

"But one can play only so much volleyball," a young refugee said. "I myself have played so much volleyball that I do not ever again want to play volleyball — and I love volleyball very much."

So do many of his contemporaries, the older boys and younger men who play the game avidly and energetically on at least a dozen courts around the camp.

They have that, at least.

The older men — those former farmers and fishermen and merchants and clerks and soldiers for whom games are no longer attractive — seem more lost in the boredom than others.

Would-Be Mercenaries Lured

By Paul Whitelaw
Times Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — At least 30 Canadians have sent money to a U.S. company which provided information on how to enlist as a white mercenary in Rhodesia, according to the offbeat U.S. entrepeneur who thought up the scheme.

Robert K. Brown says that the Canadians were among some 400 people who mailed him $5 each for a package of information on how to gain employment as soldiers of fortune in the African nation.

Brown—whose activities have been denounced by the African National Council observer at the United Nations—said in a telephone interview that he finished mailing out the packages earlier this month.

Brown, who runs a small publishing company in Boulder, Colo., called Phoenix Association, said he is no longer promoting his scheme because of unfavorable publicity in the U.S. about his activities.

Tapson Mawere, observer of the black African National Council at UN headquarters in New York, charged earlier this month that Phoenix Associates was recruitng mercenaries to fight for Rhodesia's white-minority regime.

Mawere said in an interview at that time that he "had reason to suspect" that Brown was also conducting his alleged recruiting activities among Canadians although the black Africa, representative admitted he had "no proof."

Brown, who refused until now to talk with reporters about Mawere's allegations, insisted in the interview that the allegations are false.

"I am not recruiting anybody for anything," he said. "I run a publishing company and I was providing information."

Brown, who has had a checkered career as a freelance journalist and U.S. army officer, said he decided to stop accepting orders for his information on Rhodesia "on the advise of my attorney."

An official of the U.S. State department said Monday night that an investigation is being conducted about whether Brown's scheme violated any U.S. laws, such as an act restricting recruitment for foreign military forces.

The official said no decision has been reached about the legality of the so-called "publishing" venture.

Brown said he launched his apparently-profitable project after the success of a similar scheme which claimed to provide information on becoming a mercenary in Oman, the oil-rich Persian Gulf kingdom.

He claimed his firm, Phoenix Associates, sent out "1,200 or 1,300 copies" of the Oman package at $5 each.

"They went to people all over the world, including Canada," said Brown, who said he had no exact breakdown on where the subscribers lived.

He attracted subscribers by placing advertisements in two U.S. publications — Shotgun News and Guns magazine.

BANK 'TILTS TOWARD ARABS'

WASHINGTON (WP) — World Bank President Robert S. McNamara plans to propose that the capital subscriptions and the voting power of the oil cartel in the bank be tripled, from 5 per cent to 15 per cent, The Washington Post has learned.

This would give the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) a larger voice in the World Bank than it has in the bank's sister organization, the International Monetary Fund (IMF), which has agreed to double OPEC's quotas, from 5 to 10 per cent, in recognition of its growing economic status.

Some officials within the bank see McNamara's drive to give OPEC a bigger voice as worrisome evidence of a drift to dependence on the oil cartel.

"The bank is becoming more and more influenced by OPEC," said a non-American source. "We are seeing a tilt toward the Arabs."

Member countries of OPEC are Abu Dhabi, Algtria, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Kuwait, Gabon, Libya, Nigeria, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, Venezuel and Ecuador.

According to an official bank source, the 20-man board of executive directors will be expanded next year to at least 21, if it approves McNamara's proposal to provide an OPEC "seat." Presently, OPEC countries' interests are represented through directors speaking for Asiatic and African countries.

Petrodollar Boom End Feared Soon

TEHRAN (WP) — Warnings are multiplying in Iran that the petrodollar prosperity, still much in evidence, may end sooner than expected, and Iran will have to look for new sources of income or start trimming some of its grandoise projects.

These warnings, at first timid and voiced mainly by foreign experts, have now become part of the official policy. Shah Mohamed Reza Pahlevi has begun to issue imperial decrees that clearly spell belt-tightening for Iran's 32 million citizens.

Iran is not alone. Other Persian Gulf producers are suffering from the decrease in oil consumption by the industrial countries. Bankers are pouring into the area convinced that within 18 months all Gulf producers will become borrowers, with petroleum as collateral.

One area where Iran is expected to do little belt-tightening is in its ambitious military buildup. The shah has proclaimed himself the guardian of the Persian Gulf, and he apparently has no intention of cutting back on military spending.

By most standards the shah's budgetary measures are still mild. He has ordered the elimination of all waste and unnecessary expenditure, which in some government departments may go as high as 20 per cent.

An astute economist who knows a lot about oil, the shah is aware that Iran's reserves of "black oil" will only last 20 or, at most, 25 years.

With a stroke of the pen, the shah has decreed that in 10 years, non-oil income should be on a par with the income generated by petroleum.

Whether the order can be put into effect is another matter. In the past year Iran did increase its non-oil exports by 22 per cent to $610 million. These exports, consisting mainly of caviar, Persian carpets and some manufactured products, can hardly compare to the flow into Iran's coffers of petrodollars — a hefty $20 billion during the Iranian year ending last March 20.

This massive flow of cash has permitted Iran to revise upward its already ambitious five-year development plan and increase spending to $69 billion by 1978. Development means increased imports and these rising price tags have eroded the value of the petrodollar.

Diminished oil consumption by the industrialized Western nations has forced Iran to cut production by 15 per cent since last January. Further cuts appear to be in the offing.

Total Middle East production in March of this year was 18.4 million barrels per day, down from 21.1 million barrels in the same month a year ago.

Does this mean that hard times are ahead for the oil-rich countries? It is still too early to say. For the time being they are pushing for yet another oil price increase, claiming that western inflation and the weakness of the dollar has cut their icome by 30 per cent.

Ford's Apology Is Not Enough

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite a personal apology from President Ford, the family of Frank R. Olson said today it still intends to file a lawsuit against the Central Intelligence Agency in connection with Olson's LSD-related death 22 years ago.

Eric Olson, 30, the eldest of the four Olson children, said the family "appreciated meeting with the president and receiving his apology on the part of the American people."

"But," he added, "we fully intend to go ahead with our suit."

Sexism Themes At Springridge

A FIRST Victoria performance of the song suite, Catalogue de Fleurs, by 20th century French composer Darius Milhaud, will be given in Christ Church Cathedral on Saturday by soprano Carla Levinson with pianist Vera Harvey. Mrs. Levinson, a former Victoria Music Festival Rose Bowl winner, will also perform music by Handel and the English composers, Roger Quilter and Thomas Dunhill, assisted by Mrs. Harvey. The recital will take place at 4 p.m. There is no admission charge.

A variety of material on sexism, including poetry by Bertholt Brecht, an absurd comedy by Eugene Ionesco and a short dramatic play by Myrna Lamb, will form the second summer production at Springridge Theatre by the One World Revue Company.

The production will open at the 1900 Fernwood hall, tonight at 8 and will continue nightly through Saturday.

Rather than presenting a single attitude or solution to sexual domination the production dramatizes a number of very different aspects, serious and comic.

The company continues its run of outdoor social satire in Centennial Square at 12:30 p.m. every Monday and Friday and the Sunday children's shows at 1 p.m. at Beacon Hill Park Bandshell.

Summer Simmer At UVic

It's warm these summer evenings in the auditorium of UVic's MacLaurin Building. And what is goin g on there is also absorbing and delightful.

The summer simmer (somewhat air-conditioned) is, in fact very much worthwhile for any music buff. Performance in this concert series is on a high professional level and the music chosen is delectable.

Tuesday, third in the series presented Trio Victoria in a three-part program that will be repeated Thursday at 8 p.m.

The trio's arrangement of their program provides an in-depth and impressive review of the qualities of each member. Sonatas for violin-piano and cello-piano are followed by one of the most beautiful, melodically rich and exciting trios in the repertoire — Antonin Dvorak's E minor Opus 90, the Dumky.

As a climax to the evening this choice could hardly be bettered. The haunting yet still bright E minor tonality, the tender, lyric passages, the ebullient rhythms and glitter of the allegros were a concentration and a summing up of the evening's pleasures.

The program opens with something wholly familiar — Beethoven's Sonata in A for violin and piano, the "Kreutzer", performed by Harry Cawood and Robin Wood.

A vigorous, impassioned performance by Cawood is matched in the alertly-balanced partnering by Wood at the keyboard. Both artists are technically and musically well matched and masters of their instruments.

The second movement with its sublime, soaring theme and lovely variations, provides the performers with an unrivalled opportunity to display their command of dynamic range and color.

Cawood and Wood reveal an elegance of phrase, limpidity and warmth in these variations and follow the section with a matching degree of virtuosity in the presto finale taken at a pulse-stirring tempo.

Debussy's regrettably rather short Sonata for cello and piano, brings the third member of the trio, cellist James Hunter, into partnership with Wood.

The high artistry that is so characteristic of these players separately and together, is most movingly displayed here in the lovely full and glowing cello tone that Hunter always produces.

Exquisite subtleness of color and phrase charcterize both the composition and its poetic performance by two sensitive and highly-skilled artists.

Pollen Makes New Effort To Curb Sunday Retailing

Many forms of retail activity now conducted on Sundays in Victoria, including the sale of paint, building materials, furniture, carpets and automobiles, will be banned if city council approves a bylaw which city solicitor Jakob de Villiers has been instructed to prepare.

But the likelihood of such approval remained a doubtful issue Tuesday, after aldermen expressed a number of misgivings about Mayor Peter Pollen's latest initiative to preserve Sunday as a day of family rest and renewal.

The mayor has been advocating this type of policy for at least two years, and some three months ago he appointed a special sub-committee to consider whether the city should attempt to control Sunday commercial activity.

But last month the committee recommended continuation of the present "open Sunday," council members generally were reluctant to open up such a controversial issue, and Pollen appeared to have accepted defeat.

On Tuesday, however, he returned to the attack at council's weekly caucus meeting, armed with the draft of a bylaw which would regulate "trading on holidays and Sundays."

The draft, prepared at Pollen's request by de Villiers, would stipulate that no one may "sell, expose, offer or advertise for sale, or purchase or offer to purchase any tangible personal property other than household groceries, newspapers, medicines, drugs, ointments, beverages, automotive fuels, vehicle lubricants or souvenirs intended for the tourist trade."

Also exempted from the ban would be vehicle parts and accessories for "emergency repairs."

The draft bylaw came under immediate criticism from aldermen. Ald. Sam Bawlf noted that it would prevent many young people in the city from selling leather goods and other arts and crafts items to tourists, while "some tourist joints could be selling mounds of plastic garbage . . . imported from Japan with a maple leaf stuck on them."

He was rebuked by Pollen for "injecting emotionalism" into the discussion, and told that he was speaking "a little bit in your self-interest" because the alderman leased premises to artists and craftsmen.

Ald. Clyde Savage recalled that an earlier attempt by council to regulate Sunday trading produced a "tremendous headache" some years ago, when it proved impossible to impose a fair and non-contentious set of regulations.

"I would like to see everything shut up," he told Pollen, "but there is no way you or I or anyone else can do it.

"Who are we to decide what is essential (as goods for purchase) and what is not essential on any one given day? I defy you to do that."

The mayor replied that he had been assured by the city solicitor the bylaw could be enforced.

Council finally accepted Ald. Mike Young's suggestion that the draft be returned to de Villiers for rewriting. Young said rather than taking the difficult approach of a general prohibition with certain listed exemptions, the bylaw should specify precisely what types of commercial activity would not be permitted on a Sunday.

'Dr. Zonk', Go and See Your Doctor

Your telephone rings and the man calling may tell you he is "Dr. Zonk" — from the emergency department staff at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

He may tell you that an elderly woman has been hit by a truck and brought to the emergency department — or he may claim that a child has been seriously injured and requires emergency surgery.

In any event, he will tell you that the only identification the emergency victim carried was a piece of paper with your name and address.

He tells you to come to the emergency department right away.

"Dr. Zonk" is a hoaxer — "a sick-minded prankster."

There have been about 10 such hoax calls involving the hospital's emergency department over the past month, Michael Fraser, the hospital's associate executive director, said today.

In about four cases, puzzled people have hurried to the hospital to find there are no such emergency cases. In the rest of the cases, people have telephoned the hospital to discover the hoax.

The caller sounds like a mature male. He doesn't always identify himself as "Dr. Zonk" but he does handle medical language smoothly.

In one case he called two elderly ladies who were just setting out for Vancouver. He told them a child had been seriously injured, carried only their names, and they were needed at the hospital to authorize emergency surgery.

They knew of no child but after agonizing over the call, decided to put off their trip and go to the hospital. They were "most upset" to learn it was all a hoax.

Museum 'Clutter' To Stay

Protests over the "carnival atmosphere" developing outside the Provincial Museum will not likely result in any changes, at least this summer.

Recreation Minister Jack Radford, the man responsible for the museum, said he viewed the area and is satisfied with the way it exists and does not foresee any changes.

Museum staff members recently protested in a letter to the Times about the growing "clutter" outside the museum buildings.

The "carnival atmosphere" being created is downgrading the efforts of the museum staff and the dignity of the institution, they said, and they called for staff members to have a say in use of the museum grounds.

Radford said he has had some communication with department members on the issue and he is looking into the whole question, especially the problem of overlapping jurisdiction with the public works department.

But the minister said he has viewed the museum courtyard area and doesn't object to the lottery booth, portable stage, soft drink machine and tables and chairs gathered around the building.

"In a summertime situation, when people enjoy sitting outside, I think it's all right if it's not interfering with the flow of traffic and as long as it doesn't add debris," said Radford.

City, Saanich Schools Hit By Vandals

Greater Victoria and Saanich school boards have hired private security guards to help control a rash of vandalism that has broken out in several schools.

The guards will patrol four problem schools in Saanich district and three schools in Greater Victoria district, including Spectrum high school on Carey Rd. where nearly 70 windows have been broken in recent weeks.

Sig Dietze, Greater Victoria assistant superintendent of construction and maintenance, said today the Spectrum vandalism occurred because construcion was going on nearby and there were many tempting missiles lying about for kids to throw through windows.

"It goes in cycles," he said of vandalism. One school will be hit for a while, then others.

Last month $2,000 worth of windows were smashed at one school, he said.

Schneider estimates 10 per cent of his physical maintenance budget and about 9 per cent of his total labor costs are spent repairing vandalism damage, for an annual total around $20,000.

Worst time in Saanich district seems to be in the last weeks of June as school ends and as school begins in the fall, he said.

FAT FIRE BURNS FATHER, DAUGHTER

A man and his daughter are in fair condition in Victoria General Hospital with second and third degree burns received while trying to remove a pot of burning fat from their home at 1417 Vining Tuesday night.

A Victoria fire department spokesman said Venico Raposo, 36, slipped and fell as he attempted to carry the pot outside.

Deputies Censured

Three deputy sheriffs, suspended Friday for allowing a prisoner to escape the previous day, returned to work Tuesday, says Geoffrey Mortimer, head of the Sheriff's Service.

The deputies, Brian McLelland, John French and Joseph Rivard, were escorting Daniel Cain, who had escaped twice before, to the B.C. Penitentiary when he bolted as the party was about to board a float plane at Victoria's Inner Harbor. Cain was found a half hour later under a bed at the Swiftsure Inn.

Mortimer said two of the officers have received the minimum penalty, a letter of censure, and the third a more severe penalty but not dismissal. He didn't elaborate.

Taxi Fare Hike Coming

A tariff increase for local taxi operators, which will raise fares by an average of 20 per cent, will be approved Thursday by Victoria city council.

Sitting in committee Tuesday, council endorsed the application for the higher rates after hearing from a delegation representing nine taxi firms.

Increased operating costs over the past 12 months, including gasoline price hikes and more costly repairs and maintenance caused by boosted labor rates, were cited as the reason for the fare increase.

The standard per-mile rate will rise from $1.30 to $1.50, and the hourly rate from $8 to $10.

When council members noted that Victoria's new fare schedule will be higher than those in Vancouver and other B.C. cities, the operators replied that firms in all those areas would also be seeking increases.

Trying to Keep a Dream Afloat

Uncle Ted is no more, of course, but three young Albertans are desperately trying to keep alive his dream.

That dream was to provide Vancouver Island with the only animal park of its kind; a place where young and old could come and mingle with both domestic and wild creatures.

But the dream turned into a nightmare of financial disaster last fall when "Uncle Ted's Animal Park" on the Mill Bay-Shawnigan Lake Road closed its gates for the last time.

Now, owner Ted Adye has stepped out of his benign horse-and-cart-driving role and a re-financed venture has opened under a new name.

It's the Vancouver Island Animal Park now, and to run it Adye has brought experienced Randy Hales from the Calgary Zoo. Hales had been there six years, including four years serving a rare apprenticeship in zookeeping.

"There are only two places in the world where you can take zookeeping apprenticeships, one in Calgary and one in Germany," says Randy. "It's a very formal training and the program is now well recognized in zoos all over the world."

Joining him at work in the 20-acre setting at Mill Bay are Marlene Caskey, formerly of Calgary, and Mac Smith, another Albertan who just happened to be on Vancouver Island.

Marlene worked with Randy for a while at Calgary Zoo and the two also worked together for Adanac Film Productions, a wildlife film company based near Calgary.

Eventually, says Randy, who has worked with animals since he left school in 1969, the aim is to have a good collection of North American animals with a few from places like South America and Australia.

Latest arrivals are a couple of baby rheas, which were hatched by daddy rhea last Friday.

Rheas, gangling South American birds of the ostrich family, are rare in B.C. In fact, Hales doesn't believe there are any others. And it's rarer still for them to breed by themselves in captivity without the help of an incubator.

In a family pattern that must be the envy of mothers all over the world, the female rhea lays the eggs and promptly walks off, having nothing more to do with her offspring. The rest is left to dad, who sits on them until they hatch and then cares for them till they can fend for themselves.

This time the female laid 18 eggs. Eight were moved to an incubator but didn't hatch. And only two of those left in the nest hatched — but to proud daddy rhea, two is better than none.

The animal park — admission is $2 for adults, $1.50 for students aged 12 to 18, 75 cents for children three to 12 with those under three free — also has Australian wallabies, mouflon sheep, wolves with pups, coati mundis and some bobcats coming in soon.

Adjacent to the animal park is Adye's campground, which costs $3.50 a night and has spaces cut in the trees, fire-pits and hot showers in the modern washroom. That hasn't been doing too well either so far but, like the animal park, few know it's there.

"It's losing money at the moment for sure," says Hales who feels Adye might have to ask the provincial government for a grant to help keep the park going. "I think though that once the people realize what is here it will pick up," adds Randy.

Changing the name from Uncle Ted's was designed to to bring a little more sophistication to it and, says Marlene, to get away from the idea of it being just a kiddies' place. Sure, it's interesting for the whole family. But it's still a great place for the little ones.

And so, being a little one at heart and having the softest of spots for animals, before leaving I hopped over into the kiddies' contact area with three-year-old Lisa Hales.

There we hugged a donkey called Daisy, talked to some turkeys, and rabbits, and chickens and ducks and exchanged a few stern words with a Chinese gander named Chairman Mao.

And as we parted company, Lisa chuckled in glee because Charlie Brown the goat tried his best to eat my notebook.

That, I think, made my day. A little girl's eyes and a cheeky goat. After all, no-one else I've interviewed this year has tried to eat my notebook, although I fear a few may later have wished they had.

You may feel it juvenile, but in a world that seems to get more serious every day, I found it fun. And I hope these young people get the support they need to keep on providing it.

2 or 3 Hostages May Quit Pen Jobs

VANCOUVER (CP) — At least two and possibly three of the 15 surviving hostages of the incident last month at the British Columbia Penitentiary may never return to work in corrections, a spokesman for the Canadian Penitentiary Service said Tuesday.

Douglas McGregor, acting Pacific region director of the service, was reacting to reports most of the surviving hostages of the June 9 to 11 incident have decided to quit the penitentiary service.

McGregor said two other hostages have requested transfers and a third has been transferred as the result of a request made prior to the incident. He said other transfer requests were anticipated, but would name none of the persons involved.

He said a report that no classification officers have worked at the B.C. Penitentiary in nearby New Westminster since the incident is untrue. He said several have been back at work and some now are on annual vacation.

Sixteen hostages were taken by prisoners Andrew Bruce, Dwight Lucas and Claire Wilson. One was released after four hours due to a heart condition, and 14 others were released after 41 hours when prison guards stormed the siege area.

A commission under Mr. Justice John Farris of the B.C. Court of Appeal is investigating the incident.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The city rejected for the second time this year a request for financial aid to a social services and information centre for homosexuals. Council members Tuesday voted 6-to-5 in favor of the application but such grants require a two-thirds majority.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Robert John Carson, 51, a city druggist, has been charged with illegally selling the heroin substitute Demerol from his Main Street store.

VANCOUVER (CP) — City council decided in a 7-to-4 vote Tuesday to offer voters here a $58.85 million five-year capital plan in October as a single package rather than offering it on four ballots as the finance committee proposed. The finance committee recommended a plan costing $58.45 million.

KELOWNA (CP) — British Columbia cherries are not strong this year.

That means they don't have staying power.

Ian F. Greenwood, general manager of British Columbia Tree Fruits Ltd., said Tuesday a majority of 50 train cars of Okanagan cherries arrived in poor condition in Montreal and Toronto.

He said he feared reduced sales for a potential additional 100 carloads in eastern Canada.

Greenwood said high humidity and sudden, unexpected heat after a long, cool spring are believed responsible for the poor condition of the cherries.

The Okanagan has its biggest cherry crop since the 1960s, but the cherries are "weak," he said.

$1,500 ENTRY FEE ALLEGED

SURREY (CP) — Lower Mainland mobile park operators are charging up to $1,500 in entrance fees, a provincial inquiry was told Tuesday night.

Witnesses appearing before the commission on mobile homes also testified that the industry is rife with collusion and under-the-counter deals.

Frank Izzard, president of the Mobile Home Owners Association, said the 1,215 mobile home owners in this municipality near Vancouver are the most exploited of residents.

"We are taxed both as owners of our home and renters of the site it is on," he said.

Izzard said it costs $1,500 to get into some parks. He also criticized operators for charging a three-per-cent surcharge on all homes sold in the parks.

He said mobile home parks should be operated on a co-operative and non-profit basis.

Larry Fisher, speaking for the B.C. Motel, Resort and Trailer Park Association, said members were charging entrance fees of $300 to $500.

He said the only way to do away with this and other abuses is to make more pads available.

"Rent controls, commissions into our industry and other forms of red tape are not effective. The answer is not in legislation but in creating conditions that would make the industry more viable."

Murder Suspect Returns

VANCOUVER (CP) — Glen Wayne Jansen, 24, wanted for questioning in connection with the June 24 parkade murder in Vancouver of Mrs. Frieda Buxbaum, arrived by plane from Edmonton Tuesday, accompanied by two city police escorts.

He cocked his head in a pose for news photographers waiting at the airport, saying, "Make sure you get my good profile."

Jansen has been charged with being unlawfully at large after failing to return from a day parole June 24 to the Burrard Community Correctional Centre. He was serving a seven-year term for robbery and kidnapping.

QUAKE FAULT NEAR N-SITE?

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (AP) — A University of Washington geologist says there is evidence that a major earthquake fault may exist near the Puget Sound Power and Light Co.'s proposed nuclear plant site near Sedro Woolley.

Testifying at a federal hearing on the site's suitability and environmental effects before the Atomic Safety and Licensing Board a review agency for the nuclear regulatory commission, Dr. Eric Cheney, said Canadian geologists have mapped out a fault in the Strait of Georgia that may extend to within five or 10 miles of the proposed plant.

He said its course has not been determined on the U.S. side, but if the fault follows a straight path, it would pass close by the proposed plant.

It was determined Tuesday that the hearings will be moved to Seattle Thursday. The move was suggested by Roger Leed, lawyer for Skagitonians Concerned About Nuclear Plants (SCAMP), because most of the witnesses are from Seattle. The hearings were scheduled to continue in Bellingham Wednesday.

In other testimony, Dr. Norman Rasmussen, a University of Washington seismologist, rebutted statements from a panel of seismologists and geologists testifying for the utility.

He said there is no reason to believe chances of a quake are any less in the north end of Puget Sound than in the south. He said there are definite chances of a quake in the area of at least the magnitude of the state's largest quake, the largest recorded earthquake in Washington registered 7.1 on the Richter Scale.

Dr. Dwight Cranell of the U.S. Geological Survey, which has been studying increased activity on Mount Baker, said there is a possibility of an eruption from the volcano.

Puget Power spokesmen earlier said in the worst possible circumstances, the volcano could cause mudflows 100 feet high to reach the valley floor near the site. However, the plant would be 250 feet above the valley floor.

Leed said such a flow would effect water intake, transmission and rail service to the plant.

"It's admittedly at least an inconvenience to be located next to a volcano," the SCAMP lawyer said.

Leed said there will be two or three more experts from the university to back up Rasmussen at the hearing in Seattle.

By PHIL MERRICK

Let's hear a good solid round of applause for the V.I. Quarter Horse Association.

Its leaders have done a remarkable job in establishing and keeping afloat the quarter horse show circuit, and Saturday's show was a big success.

Chairman Wayne Wickens was continually prodding to keep the show on shedule. Mrs. Duncan Rimmer as judge's clerk and E. M. Gordon as ringmaster put in two hard days, and the judge, Dave Page from Aubrey, Texas, made quick decisions which forced everyone else to keep moving.

Watching the halter classes where horses of all ages were presented for judging in their respective sex and age groups, it was obvious that a silver mounted halter and lead shank were a must. All the animals were presented in beautiful condition, well fleshed up, coats gleaming and even hoofs blackened.

The quarter horse breed is man-made and has had its problems since an attempt was made in the early 40s to start a stud-book or registry. Even today there is considerable difference of opinion among many breeders as to whether the injection of Thoroughbred blood should be continued.

It is obvious that there has been a great deal of refinement in the Quarter Horse due to the use of Thoroughbred stallions.

The claim that this blood is eliminating the cool level-headed docility so characteristic of Quarter Horses could find no support in the actions of those animals taken into the judging ring Saturday morning.

The fact is that from the yearlings of both sexes right through the classes to stallions five years old or older, not one animal even more than cocked its ears.

Although almost all the animals presented were excellent specimens of their breed it must have been a really dull morning for horse people looking for some action. But after lunch the under saddle classes provided good competition with plenty of excitement.

The second Annual Hunt Valley Farm Junior Horse Show will be held Saturday and the senior show is on Sunday.

James Arnott, of Stamford, Conn., will judge both shows with D. S. McColl of Duncan as the C.H.S.A. steward. All classes are for English-type saddles both on the flat and over fences. The jumping classes for senior riders are Sunday afternoon.

The British House of Commons will be asked to enact legislation governing farrier services.

This has caused considerable controversy because it is argued that many of the farriers have proved their worth and should not have to take any further examinations. If all active farriers are automatically licensed, then those performing a poor job will still exist and it will take years before the act will have any effect.

In this country many of our shoers are graduates of government trade schools and hold papers. Others have attended shoeing schools at American universities, the original of which is at California Polytech at San Luis Obisbo.

BCFP Advice For Quebec

VANCOUVER (CP) — A new company, Donohue-St. Felicien Inc., has been formed by Donohue Co. Ltd. of Quebec and British Columbia Forest Products Ltd. of Vancouver.

A B.C. Forest Products release said the company was formed to carry out detailed studies for a proposed major pulp and wood products development near St. Felicien, Que.

Studies will begin immediately and are expected to be completed by Jan. 15. The project will be conditional upon obtaining government grants, a secured wood supply and long-term financing, the release said.

A bleached kraft pulp mill and sawmills costing approximately $255 million are included in the proposed project.

Producer Returns Levelled By New Egg-Price Formula

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan announced Tuesday that the price producers receive for all Grade A large eggs is to be set by the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency (CEMA), a producer-run organization.

The announcement at a news conference, several hours before Whelan tabled the price-fixing formula in the Commons was the latest move in implementing supply management in the troubled egg industry.

In effect, it will mean producers across the country eventually will receive about the same price for their eggs instead of there being a price spread of nearly 25 cents a dozen.

"This formula is based on the concept that farm products must be priced to give the farmer his cost of production plus a reasonable return," Whelan said.

"This is the only way to create stability in the market place," he said. "This is not only in the interest of producers, but stable prices and dependable supply are also the principal needs of consumers."

He said, however, that his idea of a reasonable profit for producers was nine or 10 per cent. Most producers were entitled to a salary of about $22,000 a year because of the long hours they worked and because their wives and children often were involved without being paid.

Mr. Whelan said the main benefit of the latest step will be stabilize prices as happened in Alberta last year.

"There was only one producer price change throughout 1974, which meant stable prices at the supermarket," he said. "Housewives can budget what they will spend for eggs now."

Egg prices may increase about 10 cents a dozen in Quebec and Ontario as a result of the formula, Whelan said.

He told a press conference that egg producers, particularly in the two central provinces and Manitoba, were selling eggs at less than the cost of production.

Later the minister tabled the new pricing formula, worked out by management consultants P. D. Ross and Partners.

The formula indicates that it costs 56.46 cents to produce a dozen eggs, on a national average. To this figure must be added 5.45 cents a dozen for conversion to prices for Grade A large, and five cents a dozen to cover levies paid by producers to the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency and to Provincial Marketing Boards.

The net producer price per dozen in Quebec will then rise to 68.53 cents from the current 57 cents they are receiving. In Ontario the producer costs will be 65.39 compared with the current price of 56 cents producers are receiving.

In Manitoba the producer price will reach 63.77 cents a dozen. Producers are now receiving 53.5 cents for A large in Manitoba.

BRITISH STEEL LOSS $12M PER WEEK

LONDON (Reuter) — British Steel Corp. is losing money at the rate of about $12 million a week, its chairman, Sir Monty Finniston, said Tusday.

Sir Monty told a news conference the British steel industry is operating at about 50 to 55 per cent of capacity-comparable with the recession of the 1930s.

He said estimates are that recovery will probably be delayed until the end of next June.

The BSC chairman gave this outline of the steel industry's fortunes after publication of his corporation's annual report which showed a record profit, before taxes, of about $196 million in the 1974-75 financial year.

But the report warned that prospects for the current year are discouraging, with home demand likely to be low and export markets weak.

INGERSOLL-RAND ANNOUNCEMENT

D. A. BURRIS

The election of Donald A. Burris as a Vice-President of Canadian Ingersoll-Rand Company Limited was announced following a directors meeting recently held in Vancouver, B.C.

Mr. Burris who had been appointed earlier this year Executive Assistant of Marketing has an extensive background of marketing and administrative experience with the company and has served in senior executive capacities in various locations across Canada.

He joined the company in 1945 immediately after graduating with a degree in Mechanical Engineering from Nova Scotia Technical College.

Mr. Burris will continue to remain in Vancouver representing the Executive of the company in British Columbia. ***

Can. Utilities

Low spring temperatures helped Canadian Utilities Ltd. achieve net earnings before extraordinary items of $12.4 million in the first half of 1975, up 10.9 per cent over the same period last year.

The company reports that earnings available to common shareholders, after allowing $2.6 million for dividends on preferred shares, were $9.8 million or 77 cents a share, the same as in 1974 when there was also a non-recurring gain of three cents a share.

Second-quarter earnings were 27 cents a share compared to 26 cents in 1974 as lower temperatures than last year during the Alberta spring contributed to higher sales by the company's natural gas and electric utility operations.

Natural gas revenues increased to $63 million from $49.2 million and electric revenues rose to $27.7 million from $22.5 million. Rate increases as well as higher sales were major contributing factors in each case.

Canadian Western Natural Gas Co. Ltd., CUL's natural-gas utility in Calgary, was granted increases rates on an interim basis in August, 1974, has approval for another increase effective July 1 to cover higher gas supply costs and plans to file for another increase in rates in the third quarter of 1975.

Northwestern Utilities Ltd. of Edmonton has interim approval for two rate increases, the first of which took effect Jan. 1 and the second July 1. Alberta Power Ltd., CUL's major electric power utility, has appliel for a two-stage increase in rates, the first to take effect Aug. 1 and the second Jan. 1, 1975.

Acklands

Acklands Ltd. reports higher earnings and sales for the six months ending May 31, 1975, continuing a record of uninterrupted growth that now extends through 17 consecutive quarters.

Nathan Starr, executive vice-president, said the stability of the market for auto parts and accessories was a major factor in the growth despite a general slump in the economy. Another factor was Acklands' strong position in Western Canada where it sells 75 per cent of its products.

Acklands, a major Canadian merchandiser and distributor, which recently acquired its rival Autolec Inc., reported earnings of $2.5 million for the six-month period, or 98 cents a share, an increase of 15 per cent from the $2.1 million or 85 cents a share recorded in the first half of last year.

Acklands' expansion into Eastern Canada is also having an impact on company growth. Sales in Ontario were up 28 per cent in the first six months of this year, and 41 per cent in Quebec.

Interprovincial Pipe

TORONTO (CP) — Consolidated net income of $15.5 million, equivalent to 61 cents a share, was reported by Interprovincial Pipe Line Ltd. for the first six months of 1975. The company earned $18.7 million or 73 cents a share in the same period of 1974.

The company reported deliveries of crude oil, natural gas liquids and refined products averaging 1.11 million barrels a day in the first half of 1975 compared with 1.34 million in the 1974 period but said its deliveries were expected to continue at the June level of 1.20 million barrels a day for the remainder of the year.

AEX Minerals

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Calgary-based company, 79902 Resources Ltd., has purchased 800,000 treasury shares of AEX Minerals Corp. of Vancouver for $2.5 million.

Dr. Aaro Aho, president of AEX Minerals, said that the purchase is subject to approval by AEX shareholders at a meeting here Aug. 6.

Texaco

Texaco Canada Ltd. reports net earnings of $28,449,000 or $2.92 a common share for the first six months of 1975, a decrease of 3.9 per cent compared with restated earnings of $29,591,000, or $3.04 a share for the same period in 1974.

Gross income for the first half year is estimated at $432,458,000 or 23 per cent higher than the $351,523,000 recorded in the corresponding 1974 period.

Net earnings for the second quarter were $15,783,000 or $1.62 a share, an increase of 6.9 per cent over the $14,763,000 or $1.52 a share in 1974.

The company said in a statement that earnings for the second quarter of 1975 reflect adjustments for both years under the federal oil compensation program.

Excluding these adjustments, earnings for the second quarter and for the first six months of 1975 would have shown decreases of 19 per cent and 10.7 per cent, respectively, compared with the same periods in 1974.

ALCAN NET PLUNGES

MONTREAL (CP) — Alcan Aluminium Ltd. announced Tuesday its consolidated net income for the first half of 1975 plunged to $21.9 million U.S. or 63 cents a share from $81.6 million or $2.37 a share for the corresponding period a year ago.

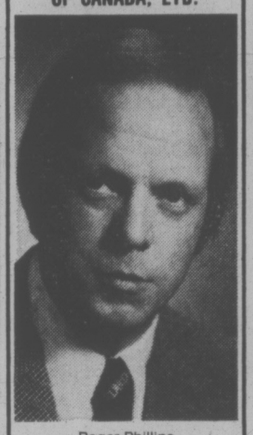
"Earnings to date in 1975 reflect depressed demand for aluminum in all of Alcan's principal markets including Canada, the United States, Japan, United Kingdom and Europe and rapidly-increasing costs compounded by reduced levels of production and sales," a company statement said.

"The business slump has had major impact on Alcan Aluminium Ltd.'s principal operating subsidiary, Aluminum Co. of Canada Ltd., whose consolidated loss of $1 million on North American and Caribbean operations for the first six months of 1975 represents a drop in net income of $38.6 million over the corresponding period last year."

Although the largest decrease in sales had occurred in the United States, that market was less affected by the impact of inflation on costs, the statement said.

Consolidated sales of aluminum declined in the first half of 1975 to 659,000 tons from 879,000 tons in the corresponding period last year. Consolidated sales and revenues were valued at $1,113.6 million compared with $1,171.5 million during the period last year.

ALUMINUM COMPANY OF CANADA, LTD.



Roger Phillips

Roger Phillips has been appointed an executive vice-president of Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd., and president of Alcan Smelters and Chemicals, Ltd., a new subsidiary which will be responsible for Alcan's smelting and chemical operations in Quebec, British Columbia and elsewhere in Canada. Educated in Arvida and at McGill University (B.Sc.), Mr. Phillips has 15 years' experience with Alcan, lately as executive vice-president, operations, of Alcan Canada Products Limited, Toronto. ***

IRAN OIL PRICE DEMANDS EASED

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi said today that although the purchasing power of oil revenues has dropped 30 to 35 per cent, he will not insist on oil-price increases to compensate for the entire loss.

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, to which Iran belongs, is scheduled to announce oil-price increases in September.

In a news conference with visiting Mexican President Luis Echeverria, the shah said international inflation has depreciated the dollar revenues of oil producing countries.

"Although it would be a rightful position to ask for a hike to meet this depreciation, Iran is not going to insist," the shah said.

"We will consider many factors before we decide on a new oil price, including consultation among all OPEC members."

The shah said that last year's quadrupling of oil prices only covered two per cent of European inflation and 0.5 per cent in the U.S. inflation rate. He said that any increase in oil prices in September will only have a small effect on the world economy.

Weyerhaeuser Chief Looks for Upswing

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — The president of the Weyerhaeuser Co. says despite indications that home building should be on the upswing, the pace of the industry's recovery remains in question.

"Given the level of money inflows to thrift institutions, history would indicate that we should be seeing a much higher level of home buidling than as actually occurrred," George H. Weyerhaeuser said Tuesday.

The company reported that earnings in the second quarter were down more than 30 per cent from last year.

Earnings during the second quarter of 1975 amounted to more than $64 million, or about 50 cents per share, compared with $94 million, or 74 cents a share, for the same period last year.

Weyerhaeuser said he expects an upturn in the market soon, and blamed the reduced earnings on a liquidation of inventory to meet current demands. He said if consumption continues at the present rate, earnings will improve.

Hopeful Signs Seen By Westburne

VANCOUVER (CP) — Westburne International Industries Ltd. predicts a more favorable climate in the Canadian oil and gas industry "will provide a growth impetus to the presently declining rate of exploration for oil and gas."

In it's annual report, the company says Alberta's and the federal government's recognition of the need for more stable taxation and greater returns on crude oil "should benefit our contract drilling and oil exploration and production divisions."

The company reports net earnings of $9.9 million or $3.01 a share in the year ended March 31, 1975, compared with net earnings of $5.5 million or $1.61 a share the previous year.

The latest period includes an extraordinary tax credit or $206,000 or seven cents a share. The year ended March, 1974, included a tax credit of $319,000.

Westburne International has interests in plumbing, heating and electrical supplies as well as petroleum drilling and production.

Arabs Not Buying West

By PETER MILIUS

WASHINGTON (WP) — The Arab and other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries are not storing up as many idle dollars as was feared when they first quadrupled the price of their oil two winters ago.

Nor do they seem to be using many of those dollars in one of the ways that was feared: to buy up U.S. corporations.

The Kuwaitis have bought a small island off the coast of South Carolina that will be developed into a resort. A Saudi Arabian businessman has bought a controlling interest in the fourth-largest bank in Detroit.

So far, however, and so far as is known, that is all.

Automaker Henry Ford II told an interviewer two years ago: "The Arabs may end up in control of most of the big companies in this country. It's a serious possibility."

That was before OPEC raised the price of oil.

Last year, as the higher price was taking hold, World Bank experts estimated that the OPEC countries could have more than $1 trillion stored up and available for investment in the United States and elsewhere by 1985.

Reams were written about the possible uses of that money, political as well as economic. There were more headlines this spring, with the news that the Arabs were blacklisting European and U.S. financial institutions and other companies doing business with Israel or employing Jews.

Arab investors tried to buy controlling interests in banks in San Jose, Calif., and Pontiac, Mich. They encountered opposition from Jewish and other groups, and were unsuccessful.

There was similar opposition when the Kuwaitis applied to have their island rezoned in South Carolina, but the application was approved.

In Congress, meanwhile, more than a dozen bills were introduced to require varying degrees of public disclosure when foreign money is invested in the United States, and in some cases, to limit such investment.

Even as these bills were being introduced, however, government and private experts were coming up with calmer estimates of both the amount of money the oil-producing nations will have to invest in the future, and the ways they are likely to invest it.

First, the OPEC countries are spending more of their oil dollars than the experts first believed they either would or could, and are "saving" less; they are using their oil-export money for increased imports.

Second, the dollar value of their estimated savings has been literally "deflated." Last year's World Bank estimate, for example, assumed that oil revenues would rise with inflation. So will the price of everything else, however; $1 trillion 10 years from now will seem much less than it does today.

Finally, the oil nations so far have been cautious in their investments. The U.S. Treasury estimates that they had a total of about $60 billion to invest last year, and that about $11.5 billion of that was invested in this country.

Half of the $11.5 billion invested in the United States was invested in government securities, according to the treasury, and almost all of the remainder was in other interest-bearing securities or accounts. The treasury department reported that about $1 billion was invested in stocks, land, or other forms of ownership.

The treasury, however, concedes its numbers are estimates, and members of Congress pressing for disclosure laws say there is no way to be sure of even what was invested last year, much less what will be in the future.

All-Canadian Company No. 1 in Auto Rentals

HALIFAX (CP) — Hertz and Avis may be No. 1 and 2 in the United States, but the biggest car rental agency in this country is an all-Canadian outfit with a maple leaf symbol—Tilden.

The firm, which is celebrating its 50th anniversary this year, was started in 1925 by the late Samuel Foster Tilden as the Tilden Drive Yourself Co. When he died in 1973, his two sons took over the business.

Ted, 45, of Montreal is president of Tilden Rent-a-Car System and Tilden Corp. and a vice-president of Tilden Rent-a-Car Co. Walter, 47, of Toronto is chairman of the first two companies and a vice-president of the third.

Tilden now has more cars and trucks—nearly 10,000—in more locations—350—than any other car rental company in Canada. With affilitates in 70 countries, it is the only Canadian name in world-wide car rentals.

Ted said in an interview that his father left three guidelines for the company: Convenient locations, new model cars and friendly service.

"The business is fiercely competitive," he said. "I can't think of many other businesses where if you don't like a particular product you can move six feet in either direction and buy from a competitor."

Each brother takes a company car home several times a week to ensure that they are being kept clean and in good working order.

Tilden buys its cars through dealers in the areas where they will be used. Cars are replaced after one year so that cars for rent are the latest models.

Tilden's sales for the first quarter of 1975 were up 20 to 30 per cent over last year's record figure.

"We've been able to hold our prices over the last year while the competition has made a couple of price jumps," Ted said. "This no doubt has helped us."

Walter said the automotive industry was probably in many ways repsonsible for the current recession in the U.S.

"I think the industry went to the well too many times," he said. "They kept jacking up the price of new cars until the consumer just said the heck with it and decided to trade less often."

Munro: Innocence Proven

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister John Munro says events have proven his innocence in the Hamilton harbor affair, despite a "campaign of vilification" against him by political opponents and the news media.

In a letter to his Hamilton East constituents, he recounts what he describes as "the full story" of his association with the scandal that ended earlier this month with the imprisonment of two persons.

The 12-page letter berates critics and opponents bitterly and ends with a promise to work for reform of "institutions and structures" that work unwittingly against "innocent third parties" in cases of wrongdoing.

The letter, released by his office Tuesday, says his sole involvement in the fraud and conspiracy affair was a reference to him in a conversation taped by police.

"That one mention ... formed the only basis for all the screaming headlines, for all the rumors and whispers of corruption on my part, for all the harrassment to which I was subjected."

The conversation was arranged by police between the president of a dredging company and Kenneth Elliott, who was sentenced July 11 to six years after being convicted a week earlier on 10 counts of conspiracy, fraud and uttering false documents.

The April 2, 1974 conversation, contained the following quotes.

Elliott: ... the way I busted my ass for all them politicians, the money I've got them over the years. Now they all go run and hide, including Munro. That's one thing that irks my ass more than anything—Munro.

President: Well, he started the whole thing didn't he?

Elliott: You bet your ass he did.

Travel Agent's Payment Was 'Rather Incredible'

MONTREAL (CP) — Travel agent R. Y. McGregor told a federal inquiry Tuesday that a $100,000 payment he received from Air Canada struck him as "rather incredible."

Mr. McGregor told the inquiry into the airline's financial affairs that when he unexpectedly received three cheques for the money, he called John McGill, then vice-president in charge of eastern affairs, to ask for advice on what to do with the money.

"He kind of laughingly said 'I hope you cashed them'," Mr. McGregor testified.

Earlier testimony at the inquiry has indicatd the money had been offered as part of an Air Canada attempt to get into the travel agency business on a national scale.

Airline officials have testified the payments were made for "consulting services" from Mr. McGregor because the airline's charter forbids it from operating travel agency services.

Mr. McGregor testified earlier he told Yves Pratte, Air Canada's chairman, April 17 that consulting services had never been part of the deal, and none would be provided.

The deal, he said, merely gave Air Canada stock options in the proposed nationwide travel agency he was to form with a Vancouver firm.

Mr. McGregor told inquiry head Chief Justice Willard Estey that Yves Menard, former airline marketing vice-president, telephoned him to warn:

"If you don't say you intended to do that consulting work, you will be finished for life."

Mr. Pratte told the inquiry the explanation offered by Mr. Menard about the payment "did not hold any water with me."

He said he had met with Mr. Menard in April, 1975, to try to uncover the truth about the payment to Mr. McGregor. The chairman testified he "got the impression" Mr. Menard was lying when he said the payment was for consulting services.

Mr. Menard resigned in February, 1975, several weeks after authorizing the payment.

Following the meeting, Mr. Pratte said he discussed the payment with three Air Canada managers who helped arrange the deal. However, the managers' explanations did not satisfy him.

He said both he and the board of directors would have blocked the deal had they known about it earlier.

Argentina Candu Talks Still On

OTTAWA (CP) — Energy Minister Donald Macdonald said Tuesday Canada is still trying to negotiate with Argentina an agreement under which Canada would have control over spent fuel from a Candu nuclear reactor.

He said in the Commons and later to reporters that the negotiations are to prevent Argentina from using the spent fuel to make plutonium, which could be used in nuclear explosives — peaceful or otherwise.

He said Canada seeks to control the use of spent fuel inside the country and if it is shipped outside.

Until agreement was reached on the matter, the contract under which Canada will sell Argentina a nuclear reactor would not be fulfilled and nuclear material and technology would not be sent to the South American country.

He said at present an Italian company is pouring concrete for the nuclear reactor installation but added that nuclear technology is not yet available to the Argentinians.

Nuclear facilities and technology would not be sent until agreement had been reached on the spent fuel situation and a bilateral agreement containing this and other safeguards against the use of nuclear material and technology for nuclear explosions was signed.

Macdonald also said an agreement under which an Italian company could make and eventually sell Candus under licence will be bound by safeguard agreements between Canada and Italy.

He said safeguard agreements are in progress with South Korea, another Candu customer, but noted that South Korea has apparently met all Canadian conditions.

The Argentina concern is "rather more hotter because we have got a plant that is under construction."

The minister did not mention one other set of nuclear negotiations — these with India. Reports said these are going slower than expected.

The minister stid it is possible, but not probably, that there would be no agreement with Argentina and the sale of the nuclear reactor would fall through.

He did not know of any move by Argentina to obtain equipment for reprocessing spent fuel. But it would be six years before the reactor was in operation and things could happen in that period.

Earlier a spokesman for Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., (AECL) said nuclear materials were not scheduled to be taken to Argentina until this fall. This delivery schedule was delayed when Canada decided to seek stricter safeguards.

Documents tabled in the Commons recently showed that Argentina in September, 1974, agreed to many of the safeguard demands Canada is making.

An agreement says that "all material, nuclear material, equipment, facilities and technology supplied by or from Canada ... as well as nuclear material produced in a Candu plant or by said plant, and all subsequent generations of nuclear material produced in or by the use of such nuclear materials, will be used for peaceful purposes only and, in particular will not be used for the development or manufacture of any nuclear explosive device."

Macdonald also said Argentina has agreed to inspection of the nuclear reactor facilities by the International Atomic Energy Commission, as required by Canada.

Macdonald was speaking originally to reject charges from Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield that the government was spreading confusion on the nuclear reactor sales and safeguards and as a result was misleading the House.

Viet General Can't Appeal Deportation

MONTREAL (CP) — The Gazette says it has learned that leave to appeal a deportation order has been denied Lt.-Gen. Dang Van Quang, former high official in the deposed South Vietnam government.

The newspaper quotes "usually reliable sources" in Montreal and Ottawa as saying the Immigration Appeal Board turned down Lt.-Gen. Quang's request because it was not made within five days of his deportation order as required by law.

The newspaper says Roger Helie, senior registrar of the appeal board, admitted the board had made its decision but he would not comment pending notification of all concerned parties.

Immigration Minister Robert Andras said Lt.-Gen. Quang was ordered deported July 7 after an investigation of his past in Viet Nam showed he was "guilty of nefarious activities in the drug trade" and that other allegations against him were "well founded."

Rights Bill Deception–Dief

OTTAWA (CP) — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker said Tuesday the government's human rights bill is another deception for women.

Diefenbaker said in an interview that the clauses on women's rights are so full of loopholes they are unlikely to be effective.

TURNER SUES CBC FOR LIBEL

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Turner has brought a libel suit against the CBC over references to him carried in news broadcasts last March. In a statement of claim filed Monday in Ontario Supreme Court Turner seeks damages plus legal costs.

Libellous statements are alleged to have been made in news broadcasts that dealt with claims of attempted bid-fixing for a tender to raise a sunken barge off Prince Edward Island in 1970.

The broadcasts discussed possible links between the P.E.I. proposal and the Hamilton harbor dredging scandal.

Turner's statement of claim says the CBC implied that he was corrupt, guilty of bribery, misused and abused his office as a cabinet minister and was a party to a criminal conspiracy.

No date has been set for hearing the case.

Minister Didn't See Early Memo on Gas

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Energy, Mines and Resources Minister Donald Macdonald said Tuesday he did not see the internal memorandum from the National Energy Board indicating that the government authorities had known for the past six months that Canada would face a gas shortage in the seventies.

The minister was questioned by T. C. Douglas (NDP —Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands). Douglas asked the minister in the light of the internal memo, which the press has now disclosed, what action did the minister take at the time.

"Did he initiate any discussions with American authorities regarding the possibility of a phase out of gas exports. Did he have any discussions with the provincial governments regarding what measures could be taken to restrain consumer demand in Canada," asked the opposition member.

Macdonald said the memo was an internal document prepared within the Energy Board. In effect, it summarized the oral hearings and evidence which had been taken on the application hearing conducted last fall on the question of gas supply.

WADE IN WINGS AGAIN AS ALS DEFEND TITLE

HAMILTON (CP) — Sonny Wade, generally regarded as he best second-string quarterback in the Canadian Football League, will be in his accustomed role when Montreal Alouettes open defence of their national championship against Hamilton Tiger-cats tonight.

Wade, who came off the bench to lead the Alouettes to their Grey Cup victory over Edmonton Eskimos in Vancouver last November, will again be backing up Jimmy Jones.

But how long Jones will remain in the game at Ivor Wynne Stadium here depends on how well he moves the power-paced Als.

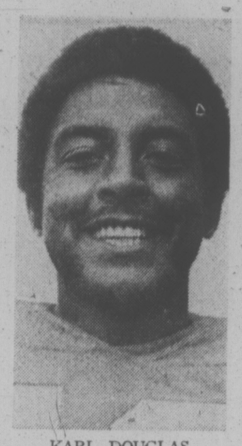
Montreal coach Marv Levy says his team has two objectives against the Ticats, third-place finishers in the Eastern Conference last year.

"First we have to stop the running game of Andy Hopkins. Although Hamilton is primarily a passing team, it does rely on Hopkins for some ground support. He can be murder unless you stop him.

"Our second objective will be to get to their quarterback, Bill Etter. If we can put consistent pressure on him and make him hurry his passes we can beat them."

Montreal has been pretty well conceded a first-place finish in the East again this season, and one reason is that the other three teams are relatively unknown quantities.

The Tiger-cats, for example, have 15 new players, nine of them rookies.



KARL DOUGLAS
. . . possible starter

Riders Shore Up Defence By Nabbing Stamp Discard

REGINA (CP) — Until last weekend, all the news about Saskatchewan Roughrider linebackers was bad. But suddenly the news is good.

The reason, says head coach John Payne, is that Roger Goree was made available when Calgary Stampeders made their final pre-season cuts.

Goree was picked up almost immediately and will start tonight against his former team-mates here in the western Football Conference opener for both teams.

Saskatchewan's linebacking problems came into focus after last season when starter Pete Wysocki was released, Charlie Collins injured his neck and Steve Smear's ailing back needed surgery.

So the Roughriders did some heavy recruiting in that area. Highly-regarded rookie Al Humphreys was inconsistent. Tom Pate, who beat Humphreys in a contest for a starters' job, was probably too small. Pate was released Monday after Goree signed.

Calgary head coach Jim Wood said the ratio of imports to Canadians in the Canadian Football League made it necessary to release Goree although the stocky import made the all-star team last season and had an outstanding training camp record.

Woods said Goree was too small to play middle linebacker and could not beat out Canadians Blain Lamoureux and Joe Forzani at the outside spots. Payne, who needed an experienced linebacker of almost any size, accepted the gift with no hesitation.

Goree signed with Saskatchewan although he had not signed with the Stampeders. Woods did not say how much Goree's lack of a contract had to do with the decision to let him go.

Despite its linebacking problems last season, the Roughriders finished second and lost to Edmonton Eskimos in the final. Calgary improved in the last half but finished in the cellar.

One of the keys to the improvement, Joe Pisarcik, was considered a doubtful starter tonight. He injured his back slightly in a 28-27 loss to Edmonton in the final exhibition game for both clubs.

If Pisarcik cannot start, the job will go to Karl Douglas, former British Columbia quarterback who joined the Stampeders last season. Pisarcik is certain to dress and be available for spot duty if needed.

Football: It's Edmonton But Tab Those Bombers

bill walker

It's quite simple really. Edmonton Eskimos will win the West in the Canadian Football League this season, and Montreal Alouettes won't win the East.

The Edmonton triumph will mark the third straight year the Esks have been in the Grey Cup final which, incidentally, is scheduled for Calgary. And this time they will go all the way and not suffer the humiliation they did last fall.

The winner then, of course, was Montreal, the Als getting to quarterback Tom Wilkinson early enough and hard enough to dull his efforts. The Als, nonetheless, were full value for their victory.

But ahe reason they won't repeat in the East this season, as league champs, at any rate, is that the recent history of the Eastern Conference dictates that last year's champ hasn't repeated in six years. Otherwise, the Als would rank as the team to beat, having lost only two regulars from last year's Grey Cup championship unit. They are Marv Luster, a defensive back, and big Ed George, who has opted to play for Baltimore in the NFL.

So, if anyone is to beat Montreal, the mont likely candidate is Ottawa, with Toronto and Hamilton looking for the third and final playoff position. And the reason that Ottawa gets the nod is that they have three quarterbacks, veteran Jerry Keeling and a pair of rookies, both of whom could be very good. They are Tom Clements and Condredge Halloway. And the rumor mill grinds out the information that if the youngsters show they can measure up, the Riders might be prepared to deal for Keeling to get an import.

In Toronto, of course, new coach Russ Jackson has to fight attitude as well as the front office. Because if the Argos usually have the talent they otherwise fall short in spirit and team play.

In Hamilton the name of the game is also quarterbacking. The Tiger Cats plan to go with holdover Bill Etter and a rookie passing sensation, Jim McMillen, from Boise State. McMillen was personally selected by coach Jerry Williams, and therein may lie the hopes of the Cats.

The Ron and George Show

Out West, Edmonton is only stronger. Wilkinson and his backup Bruce Lemmerman should have no problems doing what they do best; ace pass-receiver George McGowan is healthy again — he was injured most of last year; Dave Cutler needs only 26 field goals to surpass the CFL record of 171 set by Larry Robinson of the Calgary Stampeders; and, what's more, having averaged 30 for the past five seasons, he's likely to get them.

In addition, the Eskimos have tightened up on defence through the acquisition of Wayne Matherne from the Lions and the return of Sam Britts from the WFL.

For Saskatchewan, there's the annual Ron-and-George show. It's always been a best-seller. But quarterback Ron Lancaster and fullback George Reed have indicated this is their last year and, with age always a factor, it could be a long season. This is particularly so because Bobby Thompson isn't around to help them.

And a record will tumble every time they take the field. When Reed plunges for a TD he will automatically rewrite five CFL marks. When Lancaster tosses a pass 10 sections of the record book will need to be revised. And as long as they can run and throw, the Riders will be tough. Without them, or either one, well?

Winnipeg Blue Bombers could be the surprise team of the year. Last season coach Bud Riley went for over 20 changes so the Bombers just have to be better and more experienced. Besides, Chuck Ealey is a capable and confident quarterback who proved himself an able replacement for Don Jonas. And it would surprise nobody, particularly this agent, if the Bombers come up big.

What the Lions Are Missing

Still, only time will tell, just as it will for the Calgary Stampeders and, hopefully, the B.C. Lions.

Calgary hasn't shown much even if they were in the Grey Cup final three years ago; and most of their hopes will centre on the capabilities of second-year quarterback Joe Pisarcik. GM Gary Hobson has openly said, "We sink or swim with him."

And ah, yes, the Lions! It's not what they have; it's what they haven't. And that list is long. It includes, among others, Monroe Eley, Johnny Musso, Garrett Hunsperger, Bud Magrum, Mike Lahood, Danny Boleski, Mike Wilson, Bob Friend, Wayne Holm, Wayne Matherne and Ivan Macmillan. And that's a lot not to go with.

The Lions were respectable on the exhibition circuit, which doesn5t count of course. And it's unfortunate really that running backs Eley and Musso are among the missing because now it appears that in Don Moorhead and veteran Peter Liske, the Lions may have a one-two quarterbacking situation the equal of any club. Simply put, if Moorhead is healthy for a change, the experience of Liske could make him that much more proficient.

But will it be enough with all those ithers gone? Not likely and third place seems the most optimistic outlook behind Edmonton and Saskatchewan, with Winnipeg as the sleeper. Remember, you read it here first.

STRAIN OF RACING against clock is mirrored on face of running back Mercury Morris during 40-yard speed tests at training camp of Miami Dolphins. Veteran Morris was clocked in 4.5 seconds, second fastest among players in training with National Football League club at Florida camp. (AP Wirephoto)

Two Marks Set, Alexander Eyes Super Totals

Kevin Alexander has a pair of Western Canada Major Junior Lacrosse League records safely tucked away following Tuesday night's 28-15 triumph by Victoria McDonalds over Coquitlam J-Hawks at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Now he has his sights set on two more.

Alexander potted six goals and added five assists, boosting his goal total to 92 and his points total to 162. That's three more goals and three more points than the league records he set last year.

McDonalds have six games remaining in their schedule and Alexander is within range of two more personal marks — 100 goals and 200 points.

Playing before about 700 fans Tuesday night, Alexander opened with three goals in the first period, added one in the second and two in the third.

Macs also got five goals and three assists from Norm Baker while Leigh Hegan had four goals and two assists. Other Victoria marksmen were Jamie Robertson an Ken King, three goals each, Gerry Cadwellader and Mike Bryson, two each, Charley Randle, Joey Mottishaw and Kim Bowles. Bob Cool drew eight assists.

Money-Hungry A's Ring Up 24 Hits

By The Associated Press

Oakland A's, cruising toward their fifth successive American League division championship, are in high gear and slugger Reggie Jackson knows why.

"Last year I had a pretty good season and I didn't get much of a raise—only five grand," said Jackson. "Charlie Finley (A's owner) wants results. The man I work for is hard to deal with.

"If we get five runs, I want 10. I don't want no rest until October . . . October 20. The time to play ball is now and make that money."

The A's brought their salary drive into Detroit Tuesday night and manhandled the Tigers 11-0 and 16-4. The lopsided doubleheader saw the A's collect 24 base hits off five Detroit pitchers.

By the middle of the second game, the 29,089 fans at Tiger Stadium were booing when the A's made an out, cheering derisively when the Tigers did something right and chanting "We want Billy", a reference to recently deposed Texas manager Billy Martin who was a favorite when he managed the Tigers.

"I'm not out to humiliate anyone," said Jackson. "But you have to keep putting the pressure on because when you're down, nobody's going to let you up."

Elsewhere in the American League, Texas Rangers blanked Cleveland Indians 4-0, Baltimore Orioles whipped California Angels 8-3, Boston Red Sox shaded Minnesota Twins 5-4, New York Yankees rocked Chicago White Sox 11-6 and Kansas City Royals split with Milwaukee Brewers, winning 3-2 and losing 6-3.

Oakland's double win left the A's a cozy 10½ games ahead of the nearest competition—the Royals. Except for Charlie Finley's checkbook, the A's don't have an awful lot to get excited about these days.

Gene Tenace and Larry Haney homered in the first game and Sal Bando contributed a two-run single. Jackson and Billy Williams hit home runs and drove in four runs each in the nightcap for the A's.

Gaylord Perry, apparently in the groove now after a rocky start with the Rangers, tossed a brilliant two-hitter against his ex-team-mates, struck out 13 batters and retired the last 22 he faced. It was his third shutout in his last four outings and improved his record to 9-14.

Jim Spencer contributed a two-run single as new manager Frank Lucchesi made it two for two.

In the National League, Philadelphia Phillies edged Atlanta Braves 1-0, San Diego Padres blanked Pittsburgh Pirates 1-0, New York Mets downed Cincinnati Reds 3-1, Montreal Expos shaded Houston Astros 2-1 in 11 innings, St. Louis Cardinals nipped Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3 in 11 and San Francisco Giants outlasted Chicago Cubs 9-5.

City Golfer Wins

Lanny Sawchuck of Uplands Golf Club captured the B.C. Junior golf championship of the nine to 18 handicap division at Greenacres Golf Club in Richmond, Tuesday with a 36-hole total of 150. Sawchuck had rounds of 76-74. He finished one stroke ahead of Ron Altman of Richmond and Ernie Anderson of Marine Drive.

Stingers by One

Tej Labh counted five goals to pace the winners while Rob McKay added a pair. Singles went to Steve Croucher, Russ Ralston, Rhys Wickes, Stu Thomson, Vanni Barbon, Rod Wood, Bill Kaye and Cleve Dheensaw.

Cowichan Trimmed

Paul Michael, Doug Kilpatrick and Mike Kitchenham scored four goals each Tuesday night to lead Victoria to a 20-7 victory over Cowichan in the opening game of a best-of-three Island Intermediate "B" Lacrosse League semi-final at Memorial Arena.

Michael also had six assists. Other Victoria goals went to Jim Boyd, Mike Kilpatrick and Ravinder Pallan with two each and Ron Whims and Dan Clement.

Gordon Chaster with three goals, D. Judge, Robert Petersen, Bill Chadwick and Bill Matavick scored for Cowichan.

Finnish Goalie Here?

Goaltending is the key to success for any hockey team and the axiom is especially true for junior clubs.

Accordingly, manager-coach Pat Ginnell of Victoria Cougars is prepared to go to any lengths to find solid netminding for the approaching Western Canada Hockey League season. There's even a chance the Cats will have a goalie from Finland.

Ginnel has his eye on Markus Mattsson, an outstanding prospect from Tampere who played last season for Ilves Tampere, a senior club. He also starred for the Finnish national team that played in the world junior tournament last season in Winnipeg.

Mattsson is scheduled to arrive in Canada for a two-week stay starting Aug. 1 and will visit player agent Frank Milne of St. Catharines, Ont.

Milne, who represents most of the Cougars in their dealings with professional teams, will be in Victoria later this week and Ginnell hopes to set up a meeting with Mattsson.

Cougars obtained Mattsson's WCHL rights from Brandon Wheat Kings for future considerations, but Toronto Marlboros hold his Ontario Hockey Association rights and manager Frank Bonello also is interested in the 17-year-old goalie.

Ginnell, conducting a summer tryout camp at Juan de Fuca Arena for area players, also revealed Tuesday that Kerwin Short, a highly recommended defenceman from Fort Wayne, Ind., will attend Cougars' prairie training camp next week at Prince Albert, Sask. Short is 16.

Darkness Halts Game

Vancouver Inter-Community moved into the losers' bracket final of the B.C. Babe Ruth baseball playoffs for 14 and 15-year-olds Tuesday night at Sanscha Park in Sidney but will have to wait until late this afternoon to find out who their opponent will be.

Inter-Community knocked North Vancouver out of the eight-team double-loss tournament Tuesday night with a 15-7 victory, highlighted by Dave Murphy's fourth-inning grand-slam homer.

But a game Tuesday night to determine the winners' bracket finalist ended in a 3-3 tie between Saanich Evening Optimists and Coquitlam. The game was called because of darkness after nine innings and was to be continued at Sanscha today beginning at 5 p.m.

The loser of that one plays Inter-Community tonight at 6:30 with the winner advancing to the championship final at Sanscha Thursday, also at 6:30 p.m.

Tonight's 6:30 winner will be the other Thursday finalist.

Must-Win Time for Irish Against Parnell and Pals

Victoria fans will be pulling for the Shamrocks tonight at Memorial Arena in a key Western Lacrosse Association game against New Westminster Salmonbellies, but there undoubtedly will be some mixed emotions, too.

It will be the last league appearance here for Paul Parnell, New Westminster forward who holds almost every major scoring record in Western Canada. Parnell, 37, plans to retire after the season is over.

Parnell, who began his WLA career in 1960 with the Shamrocks, has played 15 of his 18 seasons with Salmonbellies and will be honored in special ceremonies Thursday night in New Westminster when the 'Bellies close out their regular schedule against Nanaimo Timbermen.

Parnell has 1,777 career points, 450 more than runner-up Cliff Sepka, a former team-mate who retired several years ago.

During his 18-year career, Parnell has scored 40 or more goals 12 times. He topped the 900-goal plateau earlier this season and so far has 48 goals and 47 assists, good for fifth place in the scoring race.

Shamrocks must win tonight's contest, starting at 8, to keep their first-place hopes alive. Victoria, with three games remaining, has a game in hand on New Westminster and must win them all. Nanaimo, meanwhile, must beat Salmonbellies Thursday. A win or tie will clinch first place for New Westminster.

Back to Hawks

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Parker MacDonald, former coach of Minnesota North Stars of the National Hockey League, has been named general manager of New Haven Nighthawks of the American Hockey League. MacDonald was the Nighthawks' coach in the 1972-73 season.

Duncan Eliminated In Senior Babe Ruth

The loss was Duncan's second in the tournament.

In the only other game Tuesday, Nanaimo eliminated Prince George 16-1 and was scheduled to meet Trail this afternoon at 5. Coquitlam meets Vancouver in another losers' bracket game tonight at 6:30.

Victoria Firefighters, unbeaten in two starts in the double-loss tournament, were idle yesterday but play North Vancouver Thursday at 5 p.m. with the winner advancing to the championship final starting Friday night.

About Fathers-in-Law, Tape and Age-Beaters...

Playing the course with a variety of shots:

FIRST HOLE: Bill Tape, this year's winner of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship, and Bob Panasiuk, the OPGA champ in 1972 and '73, are already assuring the Metro Toyota tournament of a class entry. Both have indicated they'll be on hand for the Labor Day weekend open at Cedar Hill. It wasn't difficult to get them to say "yes" because both enjoy fishing out of that rocket Bill Wakeham calls a boat.

SECOND HOLE: The Quilchena members in Vancouver are hailing the rare double scored by clubmates Bob Mitchell and Flo McCall. The 32-year-old Mitchell took the men's PNGA championship one day after Mrs. McCall took the women's title. Wouldn't it be something else if Bob's pappy, Hank, also came around to put his mitts on the PNGA seniors' crown? Hank, also a Quilchena member, is capable enough.

THIRD HOLE: Pete McIntyre and Roy Gilchrist demonstrate that age is no barrier. The southpaw-swinging McIntyre, 79, hasn't failed to beat his age at least once since he turned 73. He did it the other day at Victoria Golf Club with a 77. At Cedar Hill, meanwhile, 78-year-old Gilchrist checked in with a nifty 74. With a 21 handicap, he took the lead in the Cedar Hill Trophy competition with a net 53. His net score is precisely the age difference between Gilchrist and the low gross leader, Jim Rutledge, 15, is on top of the gross pack with a par-matching 65.

FIFTH HOLE: District golfers enjoy Molson's Hole-in-One Award competition. Playing the game in co-operation with the B.C. Lions Society for Crippled Children, Molson's send a handicapped child to summer camp for each ace scored. Thirteen district golfers have sent 13 children to camp in the first two months. The ace shooters were Alex Fravetz, Jim Morris, Doug Peden, Bruce Henry, Keith Whitford, Walt Spaven, Don Tuttle, Bob Atkins, Ted Cabledu, Bill Thompson, C. A. Wilkes, John H. Christie and George Townsend. Graeme Mackedie's people will keep making the awards through to Labor Day.

SIXTH HOLE: Peter Mahovlich, the Montreal Canadien forward, thought he had a good thing in an eight handicap but had to bring his father-in-law out to the celebrity tournament at Uplands. The father-in-law, Doug Graham of Toronto, wound up with Mel Bridgmen's team and, along with Jack Perry and Robin Burrell, won it all. Graham did his bit with an 85-22—63 round. Son-in-law's team, with Bill Merluk, Ken Little and Marty Smith, finished second.

SEVENTH HOLE: Since it's his tournament, I'll let Reg Hind have Gorde Hunter on his team. A straight swap for a player to be named later. Otherwise, Babe Pratt will be everybody's special guest at Eaton's Invitational tournament Friday at Colwood. Hockey players Mike Corrigan and Mike Murphy also will join in on the fun.

EIGHTH HOLE: Although both lost across the water, Oak Bay won its inter-club series with Point Grey and Gorge Vale's gang triumphed over Port Angeles. That brings up the historic match this Saturday between Victoria and Tacoma. It's the continuation of what is considered to be the first international golf match in North America, held April 18, 1895, in Tacoma.

NINTH HOLE: Len MacDonald, younger than the Gorge Vale Len MacDonald, is Dick Silverberg's new assistant at Glen Meadows . . . Wakeham appears to be Vancouver Island's only entrant in the Northwest Open in Washington next week . . . Bill Court and company is expected to move into Colwood's new pro shop later this week . . . Bob Hunt (70) and Joan Lawson (80) won low gross while Heather Stewart (71) and Dave Borthwick (66) were low net winners at Uplands; annual field day . . In order to practice for Friday, we'll play this back nine later . . .

Pele Back In Action

NEW YORK (AP) — Pele, New York Cosmos' soccer star, is "100 per cent fit" and will return to North American Soccer League action tonight against San Jose, a team spokesman said Tuesday.

Pele, the former Brazilian national star, suffered a thigh injury in action against Toronto Metros on Saturday night.

Dolphins: Up from the Depths?

By JIM CRERAR
Times Staff

Dolphins are among the more agile forms of marine life. They plummet to the very depths, then streak back to the surface and leap through the air in a breath-taking display of acrobatics.

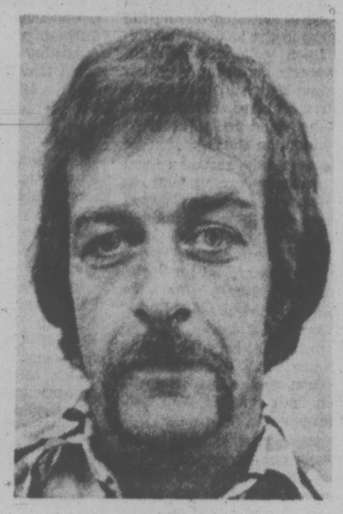
There is a football team in Victoria known as the Dolphins. In four years, they've accomplished on the gridiron half of what their acquatic counterparts do in a matter of seconds.

They nosedived from second place in their inaugural season in the Big Four Football Conference to rock bottom last year, winless in nine starts. The descent wasn't sudden, but it was methodical. They slipped one notch in the standings each year.

Now the Dolphins are ready to come up for air. While they aren't likely to break through to the top of the standings in a single burst of buoyancy, they hope to float as high as third place in the five-team league, which would mean a playoff berth.

Dolphins, who open their 1975 campaign with a pre-season game Sunday at 6 p.m. at Royal Athletic Park against Vancouver Renfrew Trojans, are basing their ascent on more than the hot air that all too often inflates pre-season optimism to the breaking point.

Manpower is the key this year. Dolphins have more bodies on hand — 37 at last count — than they've had in any previous season. They've been working out at Copley Park in Saanich for nearly six weeks and the reason for the big turnout has to do with graduating juveniles from city teams.



KEN WERRUM
. . . more manpower

Dolphins have spent the past year patching up a four-year rift with minor football officials and could wind up with a full roster of 40 this season, also a first.

"For the first time in our history, we have access to all the graduating juveniles (over-19s) in town, with the possible exception of three or four who are going to play college football on the mainland,' explained Sam Taylor, founder and president of the team.

That hasn't always been the case. Recruiting under-age juveniles in past caused hard feeling and minor footballers were discouraged by their coaches from playing junior football.

But Ken Werrum, head coach of the Dolphins, line coach Brian Gingell and Taylor have been working closely with the juveniles for the past year, spotting for them and lending equipment whenever possible.

"Whatever we could do for them, we did," said Taylor.

Also assisting Werrum this year is trainer Bart Rudolph and new coaches Ron and Barry Taylor (no relation). Ron works with offensive and defensive backs and Barry with defensive backs and linebackers.

"For the past week, we've had full scrimmages," Werrum pointed out, "and that's something we didn't have all last year."

Scrimmages can make a difference. As Taylor explained: "You run drills and the players lose interest. You run scrimmages and they all show up. When you start to scrimmage, they know you're getting down to the nitty gritty and they have to be there."

It's a far cry from last year when the team was so short of bodies, all you had to do was show up on game day to play.

This year, miss practice and you could be replaced.

Top returnees include fullback Kerry Lacroix, tackle Rick Vickery, tackle-defensive end Dave Defrane, guard-linebacker Frank McGeachie, tackle-linebacker Edgel Nelson, linebacker-defensive end John Eldridge, two-way tackle Rocky Robson, running back Brian Kittagawa and centre Dave Johl, only survivor of the original 1971 Dolphins.

Top juvenile prospect is fullback Christie Sinclare, one of several candidates from Oak Bay Farmer Construction. Others include quarterbacks Spence Parker and Tom Sullivan, split end and punter Brad Tripp, running back Bruce Vye, defensive backs Doug Branter and Steve Rogers and guard Darryle Jones.

James Bay Mustang grads include running back Bill Galego, fullback Ed Willis and linebacker Andy Witt. Saanich Hornets have provided tackles Terry Brown and Don Mooner and there are two more outstanding tackle candidates new to Victoria this season in Colin Graham and Bob Vandenought.

"Our average line weight runs about 220 pounds, which is the biggest we've ever had," said Werrum. "They're agile, too."

July 27—Renfrew Trojans at Dolphins (exhibition), 6 p.m.
Aug. 4—Dolphins at North Shore Cougars, 2 p.m.
Aug. 10—Dolphins at Vancouver Meralomas, 2 p.m.
Aug. 17—Vancouver Blue Bombers at Dolphins, 6 p.m.
Aug. 24—Renfrew Trojans at Dolphins, 6 p.m.
Sept. 1—Bye.
Sept. 7—North Shore Cougars at Dolphins, 6 p.m.
Sept. 14—Dolphins at Blue Bombers, 2 p.m.
Sept. 21—Meralomas at Dolphins, 6 p.m.
Sept. 28—Dolphins at Renfrew Trojans, 2 p.m.
Oct. 5—Semi-final, third-place finisher at second-place finisher.
Oct. 12—Final at home of first-place finisher.

Bull Sparks Esquimalt Win

Bull pitched a one-hitter as the defending Canadian and provinical champions downed American, 2-0, to take the title after coming out of the losers' bracket of the six-team double-knockout tournament. American had defeated Esquimalt 10-7 in the opening game.

Home runs by Bull and Richie Sharpe produced the Esquimalt runs. That was more than Bull needed as he struck out 16, walked two and allowed only an infield hit to third base by Gary Cooper in the first.

Paul Russell was brilliant on the mound for the losers, allowing only four hits, but Sharpe's first-inning homer and Bull's blast in the fifth spelled the difference.

Bull, Esquimalt's leading pitcher last year in the team's drive to the Little League World Series at Williamsport, Penn., hasn't lost a playoff game to a Canadian team in two seasons.

He has won 14 in a row, 12 by shutouts. Included in the string are a perfect game, a no-hitter, three one-hitters and three two-hitters. His only playoff loss was to California, which he lost 3-0 on a five-hitter at Williamsport last August.

Esquimalt now travels to Nanaimo for a best-of-three Island final against Nanaimo South at Gyro Park. First game is 6:30 p.m. Friday, the second is at 6:30 p.m. Saturday and the third, if necessary, is at 2 p.m. Sunday. The winner advances to the B.C. championship beginning Aug. 1 at Vancouver's Hillcrest Park.

Japanese Team Supports Claim

B.C. volleyball coach Vic Lindal has called the Japanese team the strongest ever produced by that country and results Tuesday night continued to back up his claim.

Continuing their cross-Canada tournament at Winnipeg, the Japanese women crushed the U.S. 15-5, 15-0, 15-4 to remain unbeaten in four matches.

Russia remained in second place in the four-nation touring tournament, which ends Saturday in Vancouver, by beating Canada 15-11, 15-5, 15-8 Tuesday.

Cole Tosses No-Hitter At Merchants

Larry Cole pitched a no-hitter Tuesday night as Royal Oak Sporting Goods downed Sooke Merchants 2-0 in a Stuffy McGinnis Men's Softball League game at Sooke.

Cole, striking out 10 and walking three, got all the support he needed from second-baseman Terry Hoy, who scored both runs. The first came in the fourth inning when Hoy reached first on an error, moved to second on a sacrifice and scored on Mike Wallace's double.

Hoy did it all himself in the sixth, smacking a home run off losing pitcher Ron Fedesenko.

At Central Park, meanwhile, George Banks drove in three runs with a home run and triple to lead Nanaimo A and B Construction to a 5-2 victory over Tony's Holdings. The win kept Nanaimo one point ahead of fourth-place Royal Oak in the standings.

In Senior Women's League play at Hyacinth Park, Ingraham Hotel and Esquimalt Hygrade Radio tied 7-7.

Ken Griffin's first-inning home run was the difference in 3-2 victory by Seaboard Construction over Harvey's Sporting Goods in a Sidney's Men's Association game at Sanscha Park.

And in the Heywood Men's League, Eagles moved into a first-place tie with Capital Builders by downing Molsons 16-0, Clay Hall belting a pair of home runs.

Glen Wallis Lifts Farmers to Top

Farmer Construction rode a two-run homer by Glen Wallis in extra innings into first place Tuesday night in the Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League.

Wallis cracked the game-winning blast with two out in the ninth as Farmers beat last-place Kubiceks 4-2 at Lambrick Park. Farmers now hold a half-game lead over Gorge Hotel.

Giants Continue Sale Effort

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — directors of the company that owns San Francisco Giants considered several offers to buy the National League baseball team Tuesday, but were unable to reach a decision.

After the closed meeting, the board of directors of the National Exhibition Co. issued a statement saying they had directed the company's officers to continue efforts to sell the Giants.

Hogarth Could Be Threat

MONTREAL — Bob Hogarth is conceded only a slim chance of finishing among the leaders in the $200,000 Canadian Open golf championship that starts here Thursday, but the long-hitting former Nanaimo resident has served notice that he could be a threat to the big-name stars.

Hogarth, who served a term as assistant professional at Victoria's Royal Colwood course, demonstrated his talent at his home Royal Montreal Golf Club Monday when 92 golfers played off for the 22 available places in the 150-man Canadian Open field.

Dropping a birdie putt on the final hole, Hogarth tied as low qualifier with Jim Bullard of Arkansas City, Kansas, when both finished with two-under-par 68s.

It took scores of 71 or better to earn one of the qualifying spots for the 72-hole chase after the $40,000 first prize. Other berths in the tournament are occupied by regulars on the U.S. Professional Golfers' Association tour and others who are exempt from qualifying.

Nine pros were tied at 69 Monday, including Americans Dick Lotz and DeWitt Weaver. Seven other players were bunched at 70.

Possibly working in Hogarth's favor in the Open is being able to play at Royal Montreal, where he works as an assistant to Pat Fletcher.

This might be considered by some as a good-luck omen, since Fletcher is the only Canadian to have ever won the Open since it attained recognition as a major event.

Knudson, who has been among the leaders on the pro tour during recent weeks, equalled the course record of 66 during a pro-am tournament Monday at nearby Lachute.

That tally, however, was only second best of the day. Former Masters champion Charles Coody established a new course record with a 65, which included four birdies, an eagle and a hole-in-one.

Seattle pro Don Bies, provided the highlight of Tuesday's practice rounds, scoring a hole-in-one on the 210-yard fifth hole with a two-iron shot.

Bies admitted it was his third career hole-in-one, but "the first one I have wasted."

It is expected the strong putters on the tour will come into their own as the course presents large greens. In addition, to get to the greens—if the prevailing winds remain constant—the golfers should face either directly into the wind or find it at their back on almost every hole.

Fletcher, who won the Open in 1954, one year before Arnold Palmer made the Canadian event his first pro win, said that depending on pin settings, the pros could find themselves facing putts of extraordinary length, upwards of 120 feet.

"The secret is to hit your approaches a little longer," Fletcher said. "While some of the entrances are narrow, they all widen considerably toward the back."

He also said the greens putt deceptively.

If the wind remains normal, blowing to 15 miles an hour, Fletcher feels the winning score will be somewhere around 273 or 274, six or seven strokes below par.

BUCHANAN'S BOWLING HELPS CANADIAN SIDE

The Canadians were 171 for eight after 50 overs and Ireland was 78 all out. Eddie Weekes had 85 runs for the Canadians and Paul Griffin had 18.

John Buchanan of Victoria, bowled five wickets for 17 runs and Chris Chappel was two for four.

In other results Tuesday, England South beat Holland by 117 runs and England North defeated Denmark England North was 177 for seven and Denmark 49 all out.

Robinson Shines

ATHENS (CP) — Bill Robinson of Chemainus, scored 16 points Tuesday night to lead Canada's national team to a 74-72 victory over Greece in an Intercontinental Cup basketball game before 7000 fans.

Philip Tollestrop of Raymond, Alta., added 13 points for the Canadians and Lars and Jamie Russell of Burlington, had 11 each.

Howe Tourney Friday

Glove Event On Mat Card

Dutch Savage and Siefried Steinke will be in the professional wrestling spotlight at Memorial Arena on July 31, when they meet in a "coal miner's glove match."

According to promoters, a loaded glove will be placed on top of a pole attached to one of the ring posts and the first wrestler gaining possession of the glove can use it to inflict damage in the bout to a finish.

Four other bouts, including a women's contest, are scheduled on the card, which starts at 8 p.m.

Forsyth Holds Second Place In Race Series

Victoria's Terry Forsyth continues to run in a contending position in the Export "A" Trophy series for stock cars.

Forsyth holds down second place with 347 points, only 22 behind a lower mainland driver, Reg Kennedy. Edmonton's Eric Dowler is third in the overall Western Division standing with 341 points.

Dowler made his biggest gain by winning a July 6 race at Saskatoon while Kennedy finished fifth. Forsyth experienced engine difficulties and finished 13th.

Canadians Falter in Medal Bids

CALI, Colombia (CP) — Canadians failed in three bids for medals at the world aquatic championships Tuesday while the United States surged into a comfortable lead in the early medal standings.

U.S. athletes have picked up three gold, two silver and two bronze medals so far. East Germany and the Soviet Union each have one gold, one silver and a bronze.

Speed swimmers held the spotlight but although coaches had predicted that nearly all world records would fall, none were bettered Tuesday.

Tim Shaw won the men's 200-metre freestyle in 1:51.04, Kathy Heddy edged world recordholder Ulrike Tauber of East Germany to win the women's 200-metre individual medley in 2:19.80 and Phil Boggs was almost perfect with his final dive to win the men's three-metre springboard gold medal.

David Wilkie of Britain won the 100-metre breastroke in 1:04.26, Roland Matthes of East Germany defended his world title in the 100-metre backstroke, winning in 58.15, and the East German women's 400-metre medley relay team easily won in 4:14.74.

Stephen Pickell of Vancouver finished fifth in the backstroke in 58.63, less than half-a-second behind Matthes. Becky Smith of Edmonton was also fifth in the individual medley with a time of 2:22.85. The women's relay team finished fourth in 4:23.77.

Pickell barely qualified eighth and had to swim the final in the outside lane.

For Smith, it was a case of not enough steam coming home. She was fighting for the silver medal halfway through but fell behind on the breastroke lap and faded badly in the freestyle.

"I guess I didn't train hard enough," the tiny 16-year-old said. "I didn't have anything coming home. My freestyle was just terrible."

The relay team was a disappointment with its finish. It had been expected that Nancy Garapick of Halifax, Joann Baker of Thunder Bay, Ont. and Wendy and Jill Quirk of Pointe Claire, Que., would win at least a medal.

But Garapick was beaten by more than a second in the opening backstroke lap by Ulrike Richter of East Germany and the Canadians just fell further back with each stroke.

Many of the swimmers blamed the slow times on wind conditions which prevailed throughout the finals.

"Coming back the wind was right against you," Pickell said. "When your arm came out of the water you could feel your hand being pushed back."

Canada's major hope for a medal now seems to rest with synchronised swimmer Sylvie Fortier, 16, of Quebec City. After finishing just half a point behind heavily-favored Gail Buzonas of the United States in preliminary routines Monday, Fortier completed the compulsory stunts routine Tuesday about one point behind. They swim the final routine Friday morning.

Canada's water polo team won its first game, nipping Iran 6-4 in a consolation match.

RECOVERED from leg injury, Australian star John Newcombe is scheduled to be in action at Memorial Arena Thursday night when Hawaii Leis clash with Los Angeles Strings in World Team Tennis competition. Matches will start at 8 p.m.

Team Tennis: New Concept

By MAX LOW
Times Staff

Whether or not World Team Tennis makes a whopping impact on the Vancouver Island sports scene is something we won't know until that first match between Hawaii Leis and Los Angeles Strings at 8 p.m. Thursday at Memorial Arena.

What we do know so far is that the WTT pro debut here has already brought quite a few headaches for promotoers Edgar and Carolyn Rhomberg.

First headache was the slowness of advance ticket sales for the three-match visit of the Leis, who meet Cleveland here next Monday and San Diego the following night. But tickets have started to go quickly during the last few days and Carolyn says "we expect a good crowd on all three nights."

Then the organizers here arranged billets in Victoria for the players and officials with the Leis and the Strings (who fly in tonight) only to be told by long-distance telephone call from Hawaii they would prefer hotel bookings.

Because of uncertainty of flight arrangements, a civic dinner being co-hosted by Victoria and Oak Bay tonight had to be re-scheduled three times.

The teams played on the carpet in Hawaii Monday and it was flown to Vancouver, from where it was supposed to be shipped to Victoria by truck. But no one here has heard anything about it yet.

"We're quite concerned," Carolyn Rhomberg said Tuesday night. "We have to get it all set up on Thursday afternoon."

While they're not sure what's happened to the playing surface, promoters here do know what's happening to the players. They are on their way to Vancouver Island and it has been confirmed Australian star John Newcombe, kept from this year's Wimbledon championships by a leg injury, will be playing for Hawaii.

"And we have been told that the other big names, Margaret Court, Owen Davidson and Rosemary Casals, will also be there Thursday night," said Mrs. Rhomberg.

What the fans who are expected to pack Memorial Arena will see is a totally new concept in tennis. Gone from the WTT scoring is the familiar 15-love, 40-15 type of scoring. Instead each game is made up of points, scored simply one, two, three, four, with the winner of the game the first to reach four. There are no deuces.

TENNIS AT NIGHT

FORREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States Open tennis championships, starting here on Aug. 27, will be played at night this year for the first time.

Cup Event Lacks Sponsor

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — The Canadian Lacrosse Association has failed to come up with a sponsor for this year's Minto Cup and faces the prospect of financial losses on the series.

An unidentified broadcasting firm which had indicated a willingness to sponsor the competition for Canadian junior A lacrosse supremacy has told Doug Budden, president of the CLA, that the sponsorship proposal reached it too late.

Budden said the company did indicate a willingness to sponsor a Minto Cup in 1976.

The cup will be a best-of-seven series with the winner from the Western Major Junior Lacrosse League travelling to play in the home rink of the Ontario Lacrosse Association champions. The first game is set for Sept. 7.

SOVIETS WIN SABRE

Caribous Gain in NLL

QUEBEC — Quebec Caribous defeated Maryland Arrows 17-12 Monday night to move within two points of fourth place in the National Lacrosse League.

Unexpected Success With Apple Dessert

By MARY MOORE

The success I had with today's new recipe was a little unexpected. It is called Apple Dessert quares.

We served it warm with ice cream on a humid Sunday for dessert and my guests asked for the recipe once I got it into print. So I am alerting you to clip this for it is a new beauty to add to your dessert file. The combination of flavors is reminiscent of butter tarts.

APPLE DESSERT SUARES

Base:
1 c. stirred all-purpose flour flour
¼ c. light brown sugar (packed)
⅓ c. butter (room temperature)

Topping:
2 eggs
¾ c. light brown sugar (packed)
¼ c. all-purpose flour
½ tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. cinnamon
2 c. diced unpeeled apples
1⅓ c. flaked or desiccated coconut
½ c. chopped walnuts or pecans
1 tsp. vanilla

Make Base first by mixing butter into flour and sugar until blended and smooth. Pat firmly into a 9x9" square pan. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 15 minutes until tinged with gold.

While Base is baking make Topping: Beat eggs and sugar at least 5 minutes until thick and light in color. Add flour, baking powder, salt and cinnamon and fold in. Add apples, coconut, nuts and vanilla. Spread over warm base. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 25 minutes until gold.

Serve warm cut into squares and serve with ice cream or whipped topping or cream or a warm lemon sauce.

Remember to clip this — it is highly recommended.

NOTE: Write to Mary Moore, 32 Churchill Ave., Hamilton, Ont., enclosing stamped self-addressed envelope and 10c for each specified recipe.

Cork Revolutionized The Wine Business

NEW YORK (NYT) — That cork you yanked from your bottle of dinner wine may have been more interesting than the wine.

Corks were used for wine as early as the third century and apparently the wine remained good for hundreds of years, but corks did not really come into general use on individual bottles until the end of the 17th century.

When they did they revolutionized the business.

Before corks, wine came directly from the barrel. It was drunk young and, most likely, often spoiled. Once the barrels were opened there was no way to keep air from getting at the wine, unless the barrels were continuously topped up.

There is evidence that the Romans, who transported wine from one part of their empire to another, topped up their amphoras with oil to keep air from getting at the wine.

Corks introduced aging to wine. For the first time, it was possible to keep wine for long periods.

For those who could afford it a whole new dimension of wine came to the fore: subtle flavors, elegant colors, bouquet.

Cork is a bark from a kind of oak tree native to the shores of the Mediterranean.

Most of the corks encountered in North America come from Portugal, which supplies about 70 per cent of the world's cork bottle-stopper market, but Spain, France, Italy and the North African countries also produce cork.

It takes a young cork oak 30 years to produce its first usable crop. The cork is the bark of the tree, made thick by nature to protect the tree from the intense Mediterranean summer heat.

There is an inner layer of live cork and an outer layer, the one that is stripped.

It takes a mature tree 10 years to produce the outer layer and it takes a skilled artisan to remove it from the tree without damaging the inner layer, which then becomes the outer side and spends another decade maturing.

A full-grown cork oak can produce 500 pounds of bark and the older the tree the better the cork is.

A Champagne cork must withstand pressures of up to 90 pounds per square inch.

Cork is an extraordinary product. Half of its volume is air, held in tiny, 14-sided pockets, whose walls are waxy, air-tight and water-tight membranes.

An average wine cork contains 300 million of these pockets. When the cork is forced into a wine bottle, the pockets along the sides form millions of suction cups making an even better seal between the wine and the air.

Cork is particularly suited for wine bottles. It is a vegetable product, free from toxic ingredients, and imparts neither odors nor taste to the bottle's contents.

The most fascinating cork is the Champagne cork. A good one is made of nine separate pieces of cork.

There are, of course, two corks involved in the production of a good bottle of Champagne—the one that holds the Champagne through the aging process and the one that goes into the bottle after the sediment has been removed and the dosage added.

A good Champagne cork can cost 35 cents or more. The fact that two are used for the best bottles indicates in part why Champagne costs as much as it does.

NEW ORLEANS BOILED SHRIMP

1½ tablespoons liquid shrimp and crab boil.
½ cup salt.
⅓ cup lemon juice.
5 drops hot sauce.

Bring water to a boil in a large (8 quart) pot with shrimp and crab boil, lemon juice and hot sauce. Add salt. Allow it to dissolve; let broth simmer for 10 minutes; then add shrimps. If frozen, cover pan and bring to a second boil, stir to separate shrimps and simmer for 4 to 5 minutes. Remove from heat and allow shrimps to cool in the liquid. Drain and chill shrimps. May be served in shells or peeled. If using fresh or unfrozen shrimps, merely simmer them for 4 to 5 minutes.

A sauce is unnecessary as the shrimps will have considerable flavor. If one is desired, however, mix in 1 tablespoon bottled horseradish and juice of ½ lemon to each cup of catsup.

All Children Should Be Taught to Cook

By TINY BENNETT

Cooking instructions in just about ALL publications tend to ignore the most important segment of the community — our children.

My mother began to teach cooking to my sister and myself when we reached the age of six. And by my mid-teens, I knew enough to be able to prepare, cook and serve a substantial, if plain, meal of home-made soup, an entree with vegetables, and dessert.

My wife, on the other hand, never cooked until we were married, since her mother herself was never allowed in the kitchen because the staff objected. The result was that my wife dislikes cooking, I enjoy it, and so quite naturally I took over all kitchen activities as soon as it was practical.

Everybody should be taught to cook, it is an essential part of living. I cannot count the number of times I've been on trips with men who would have been eating out of cans had I not been along.

In our past history, it was perhaps natural that women tended the cooking pots while the men hunted and brought down the game and it is true that when there are small children at home, it is more convenient in most cases for women to cook and men to go our to work. Bqt these are nothing more than factors of convenience. Cooking is an art that can be learned by anyone and good cooks usually turn out to be those people who accept it as a challenge and enjoy it.

The most foolish notion that men make better cooks because traditionally great chefs were always men, is chauvinistic nonsense. The reason why men have predominated is simply because professional cooking apprenticeships began around the age of nine or 10 and boys at that age are physically stronger than girls and are able to do the heavy carrying work involved.

So all children, regardless of gender, should be taught to cook. Their lessons should always be fun and, at the start, directed along lines where the finished project is something they will really enjoy to eat and offer to their peers.

I firmly believe that simple cookies and cakes are ideal starters along the road to more intricate items.

This spring when a violent, late-season blizzard isolated our rural home for three days, the school buses naturally stopped running and my teen-age daughter Tracy and her friend Jackie looked for something to do. When I told them we were out of cookies, they dived for the cookbooks and searched for a goodie to prepare.

The first rule in cooking is to select the recipe and check that every ingredient is on hand. This in turn ties in with the second rule to read all recipes right through before making a move.

Next, I always suggest that everything needed is layed out neatly, including the measuring cups, spoons, flour sifts etc., that the recipe is followed exactly and all items carefully measured.

From the massive and excellent Woman's Day Encyclopedia cookbooks, they chose SNICKERDOODLES, mostly because they liked the name, my wife wistfully commented it had been a long time since she'd tasted a VICTORIA SANDWICH CAKE, so they also selected one in an old English cookbook that I've owned for almost 30 years.

The cookies are simple but the sandwich cake calls for a light hand and accurate work; good practice for the girls.

SNICKERDOODLES

Sift together and stir in 2½ cups all-purpose flour; two teaspoons salt; add one teaspoon vanilla extract; mix and chill.

Roll dough into walnut-sized balls, then roll in a mixture of two tablespoons sugar mixed with two teaspoons powdered cinnamon. Put two inches apart on ungreased cookie sheet and bake in a pre-heated hot oven for eight to 10 minutes, until lightly brown. This will make five dozen.

When I tasted the girl's first batch of SNICKERDOODLES, they were delightfully different. They had found a packet of grated sweet cocoanut and added two tablespoons to the mix. I can heartily recommend their variation.

VICTORIA SANDWICH-CAKE

This recipe, being in an English cookbook, had ingredients listed by weight but using techniques taught at school, they translated them into current North American measurements.

Cream ½ cup butter with three cups sugar until light and creamy; add two well-beaten eggs a little at a time, continuously beating, add ¾ cups of flour sifted in with ¼ teaspoon baking powder and add milk to obtain a soft dropping consistency — this takes about two tablespoons of milk. Grease two round sandwich tins, line each with a round of greased kitchen paper and bake in a 375 degree oven for 25-30 minutes.

When cooled, smother the two lower sides of the cake with jam, thick jelly or a favorite sweet preserve and join as a sandwich.

For festive occasions, the top can be dusted with icing sugar or given a coating of hard icing, the inside can be layered with preserve AND cream and the top covered with whipped cream — it is very versatile.

Beef by the Front Quarter Provides Cheaper Eating

Consumers wihsing to fill their freezer this summer should consider the pruchase of a front quarter of beef.

Because of the tremendous demand for steaks for the summer barbecue, prices particularly for hind quarters, where most of these steaks originate, have risen in the past two months.

As a result, the price of front quarters has correspondingly decreased. The front quarter provides excellent eating — for example. Standing Rib Roasts and Rib Eye Steaks. Several other front quarter cuts make great barbecue fare. Try marinating braising ribs before barbecuing, they're an extra special treat, or make delicious shisk-a-bobs from chuck or blade steaks. A rolled rib roast is just perfect for barbecuing on a spit and of course, the ground beef will fill the bill for those ever popular hamburgers that are so much a part of summer. The brisket and plate may be ground. But for a change, why not keep these as roasts and make your own corned beef from them. It's easy and so economical. All cuts of beef are equally nutritious. The average serving will provide 1-3rd your daily protein requirement, 1-3rd your daily iron requirement, and 1-3rd your B vitamin requirement. So treat yourself to some nutritiously delicious eating and save money at the same time.

Victoria area prices for front quarter beef range roughly between 79 and 89 cents per pound, with prices of top quality Red Brand beef higher than other varieties such as grass fed beef.

	Approx. Weight (lbs.)
Rib Roast	16.0
Short Rib Roast	11.5
Braising Ribs	5.4
Cross Rib Roast	10.6
Blade Roasts	10.6

BARBECUED SHORT RIBS

1 cup tomato juice
1 tsp salt
½ tsp pepper
2 cloves garlic, minced
1½ tsp. dry mustard
1 tsp brown sugar
½ cup red wine
½ tsp. Worcestershire sauce
3 pounds short ribs.

Combine all ingredients except ribs and mix well. Add ribs and let stand in the refrigerator overnight. Remove ribs and drain well. Place ribs on hot grill and cook over coals for about 30 minutes. Turn and baste frequently with the marinating sauce.

CHEF'S CHUCK ROAST

2 cloves garlic, finely minced
2 tbsp. oil
¼ tsp dry mustard
1 tsp soy sauce
½ tsp rosemary, crushed
2 tbsp wine vinegar
4 tbsp sauterne or white wine
Chuck roast, 2½ to 3" thick
2 tbsp catsup
1 tbsp Worcestershire sauce
1½ tsp steak sauce.

Saute garlic gently in oil, add mustard, soy sauce and rosemary. Remove from heat and stir in vinegar and wine. Place roast in a bowl and pour sauce over it. During the next 24 hours, turn the meat frequently in the sauce. Prior to barbecuing, remove the meat and to the remaining sauce add the catsup, Worcestershire and steak sauce. Stir well and apply some of the mixture to meat before barbecuing; continue using as basting sauce during the cooking. If sauce appears too thick, add more oil. The meat should be turned frequently and basted often. A piece of meat 2½" thick should be cooked over hot coals for 50 minutes. When served it will be charred outside, rare in the middle.

Megavitamin Therapy: Be Wary of Testimonials

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

By DR. JEAN MAYER

A few months ago, I discussed the possible hazards of large doses of several vitamins, and ever since, I have had a flow of letters from readers asking about the use of megavitamins to treat mental disease, particularly schizophrenia. After reviewing scientific research and consulting two widely-known and highly-respected psychiatric specialists — Dr. Francis de Marneffe, director of McLean Hospital, and Dr. Seymour Kety, director of Psychiatric Research Laboratories at Massachusetts General Hospital and professor of psychiatry at the Harvard Medical School — I can find no sound basis for megavitamin therapy.

Schizophrenia is a little understood disease. In fact, the cause has not yet been identified, although an increasing number of psychiatrists believe the cause is biochemical rather than simply and solely emotional. The symptoms are often difficult to diagnose, and they may come and go. Indeed, in some instances, schizophrenia seems to improve with time.

With such uncertainties, any progress in understanding, controlling and curing schizophrenia requires careful studies and specialists must be able to repeat and confirm the results. That's why it is difficult, if not impossible, to rely on "testimonials" from selected cases, as proof that any particular treatment is effective.

Above all, if we are ever to conquer schizophrenia, once a particular theory or method of treatment has been disproved, the researcher should be ready to move on to other hopeful approaches. Yet these are the very things that the proponents of megavitamin therapy are unwilling to do.

Since proponents of megavitamin therapy first proposed the theory that large doses of niacin — vitamin B-3 — could cure schizophrenia, they have altered both their hypothesis and their method of treatment. Initially, they suggested that the underlying trouble in schizophrenics was a defect in the patient's metabolism, which was correctable by huge doses of niacin. But this has never been proven. Then, it was theorized that the fault lies in the metabolism of niacin, itself, and thus large doses of niacin are needed to correct the problem. This idea has also been thoroughly disproven.

Now, in combination with large doses of niacin, other vitamins, hormones, minerals, special diets and different drugs are being advocated. And the name for the treatment has been changed from "megavitamin therapy" to "orthomolecular treatment," presumably to lend authenticity to the therapy. And the claims for this vitamin B-3-based therapy have grown increasingly extravagant.

There is no doubt that the major proportion of schizophrenics recover on vitamin B-3, the advocates say, adding, every schizophrenic is deprived of a chance for full recovery if nicotinic acid or nicotinamide, or both are withheld from the program of treatment.

It has even been suggested that enrichment of our food with vitamin B-3 (one gram a day) will prevent most cases of schizophrenia — despite the fact that, for the population at large, the highest recommended dietary allowance of the National Research Council is a bare 20 milligrams (1-50th as much). And that's for young men aged 15-22!

Rather than merely dismissing these claims, a number of researchers, in hopes of achieving a simple solution to schizophrenia, have tried to substantiate them in a number of independent studies. Indeed, so many claims and counter-claims were being made that the American Psychiatric Association established a special task force to examine the conclusions of both the orthomolecular psychiatrists and the validity of the independent studies to determine what is fact and what is fancy.

The task force was quite clear in its conclusion. They could find no known basis for the biochemical theories of the megavitamin proponents, they reported. And in those attributed to megavitamins, cases where success has been their impartial review revealed imprecise diagnosis of schizophrenia, contradictory results from study to study and questionable methodology. Moreover, not one of the independent studies that the task force considered turned up any evidence to confirm any benefits of niacin thereapy.

So what, you may ask? Even if B-3 isn't particularly helpful, it doesn't do any harm. After all, niacin is a water-soluble vitamin, meaning you cannot build up toxic levels of it in your body.

But the basic fact is that megavitamin thereapy can be harmful. There are many instances where orthomolecular therapy has been substituted for more widely based treatment programs. Indeed, some people in need of professional help may even try to establish their own niacin therapy program, as advocated by one publication. What's more, any vitamin used in large doses potentially acts like a dangerous chemical.

There is evidence that niacin, taken in gram doses over a long term can cause skin changes, gastrointestinal ulcers, jaundice and abnormal liver function, lowered glucose tolerance. It also may increase in blood uric acid, a precursor of gouty arthritis, and can produce psychological changes, varying from "nervousness" to "panic states."

After taking a close look at this megavitamin controversy, I can only agree wit the Psychiatric Association's Task Force, which warns that the massive publicity via radio, the lay press and popular books using catch phrases, which are really misnomers, like "megavitamin therapy" and "orthomolecular treatment," is deplorable.

Grapefruit Salad Bowls

As you search for new menu ideas this summer, keep summer grapefruit in mind as an ingredient. The piquant juice and sections add a whole new flavor dimension to ordinary and not-so-ordinary foods.

CHRYSANTHEMUM SALAD BOWL: Using a whole grapefruit for each salad bowl, cut through the peel, just to the meat in six places. Start at the top of the fruit and go to within an inch of the base. Carefully pull each piece of peel away from the pulp as far as it has been cut. Then cut each section of peel into two or three strips. Scoop out the fruit and cut into pieces for salad.

SPINACH GRAPEFRUIT SALAD
(6 servings)

1 bunch raw spinach (about 12 ounces as purchased)
2 grapefruit, peeled, sectioned
2 tomatoes, cut in bite-size pieces
1 tablespoon toasted sesame seeds
¼ cup sesame oil
2 tablespoons wine vinegar
2 ounces bleu cheese, crumbled (optional)

Remove stems from spinach and wash thoroughly; dry and break into bite-size pieces. Chill until serving time. Combine spinach, grapefruit sections and tomato to pieces. Combine sesame seeds, oil and vinegar; shake well. Pour over spinach mixture and toss lightly. Serve with bleu cheese crumbled on top.

Widow Puzzled About Betrayal

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What would you do if you found out after your husband's illness and death, and 40 years of marriage that he had been unfaithful for the last 15 years? There were several women, but he saw one steadily.

It was hard enough to take his death, but then I discovered among his office effects letters and pictures and even an accounting of the money he had spent on them (apartment rent, furniture and personal items, which he couldn't afford).

I sat at home and made my own clothes and draperies to save money. Now I have to use the insurance money he left to pay notes covering money he had borrowed during that time.

He was supposedly a competent businessman, well-liked in the community, and he never missed church. His children (and grandchildren) idolized him.

On the nights when he'd come home late, he lied so convincingly that I never suspected a thing.

I'm trying to overcome my resentment, but it's hard. I loved him so. My nerves are shot. Maybe a psychiatrist would help. What would you do?—ACHING

DEAR ACHING: I would get professional help to resolve my feelings of resentment and betrayal. (P.S. This letter should serve as a warning to all who read this column: Should you not live until next Monday, if you have letters, pictures or other damaging evidence hidden away, destroy it NOW!)

DEAR ABBY: The man next door is a very nice person, but his wife is something else.

Lately, she has been coming over here to use my telephone because she doesn't want her husband to hear her talking. She calls up her boyfriend and talks love talk anywhere from 30 minutes to an hour while I watch her three-year-old son. It is sickening the way she carries on behind her husband's back.

I don't feel right looking after her child while a married woman with a perfectly wonderful and trusting husband is scheming and plotting with another man on my telephone.

How can I tactfully tell her to please quit coming over here to use my phone for such immoral purposes?—HER NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOUR: Tell her in English. And don't mince any words.

DEAR ABBY: Now that I am a man in my 70s, I am the object of some belittling remarks concerning my virility — or the lack of it, from younger men.

I can't complain, having been guilty of the same thing when I was younger.

I recall having once told a newly married senior citizen (as a "joke," of course) that I doubted his ability to satisfy his young wife. He replied, "You wouldn't want to bet your wife on it, would you?"

I replied, "You mean my LIFE, don't you?"

"No," he shot back, "I mean your WIFE!"

Realizing what he meant, I kept my mouth shut, and I never made a remark like that again.—SR. CITIZEN

Salmon Mousse

(Makes 1 Quart)

1 envelope unflavored gelatin.
3 tablespoons lemon juice.
¼ cup chopped onion or scallion (white part).
½ cup boiling water.
1 can (1 pound) sockeye salmon.
2 or 3 dashes cayenne pepper — 2 tablespoons dried dill weed or 2 tablespoons chopped fresh
1 cup heavy cream.

Place gelatin in blender bowl. Add lemon juice, onion and water. Cover and blend for 30 seconds. Stop machine, add mayonnaise, fish, and seasonings. On high, mix ingredients then gradually pour in cream through top. Taste and adjust seasoning as desired. Pour into a 1-quart hold and chill for 2 hours, or until firmly set. Unmold and return to refrigerator before serving.

Guacamole-Filled Cherry Tomatoes

3 dozen cherry tomatoes.
3 small or 2 large avocados.
1 clove garlic, crushed.
1 to 1½ tablespoons lemon juice.
2 tablespoons minced celery.
½ teaspoon salt or more to taste.
Cayenne pepper to taste.

Cut off top third of tomatoes. Dig out seeds to leave hollow shell. Reverse them to drain or insert bits of paper towelling.

Peel avocados, cut flesh from pit and mash flesh in a bowl with garlic, lemon juice, celery, salt and pepper. Taste and adjust seasoning with salt or lemon juice. Cover guacamole, arrange on platter, wrap and refrigerate until final preparation.

Quick-Change for Standbys

Whenever you want to change an ordinary recipe that has become old hat, try using grapefruit. It is a real quick-change artist for old standbys. Tuna salad is an example of a tried 'n true recipe used over and over again. Brown baggers will vouch for that. Too bad it gets tiresome after a while. Grapefruit will do the trick with a favorite like tuna. It adds a delightful flavor contrast.

Tropical Grapefruit Tuna Salzd is so special you'll forget it's the same old tuna. Tuna fish, avocado, shredded lettuce, coconut, and mushrooms combine with grapefruit for a flair befitting your most special luncheon.

Grapefruit will add its touch to lots of standbys—like chicken, ground beef, mixed fruits, cole slaw, and salads of all kinds.

TROPICAL GRAPEFRUIT TUNA SALAD
(6 main-dish servings)

2 grapefruit.
1 avocado, peeled, cut in bite-size pieces.
½ medium head iceberg lettuce, finely shredded.
1 can (7 ounces) tuna, drained, flaked.
4 fresh mushrooms, sliced.
½ cup mayonnaise.
½ teaspoon dried tarragon leaves, crushed.
1 tablespoon fresh squeezed lemon juice.

Peel and section grapefruit over a bowl and reserve juice. Drain sections on paper towel. Combine grapefruit sections, avocado, lettuce, coconut, tuna and mushrooms in large bowl. Chill well. Combine mayonnaise, tarragon, lemon juice and 2 tablespoons reserved grapefruit juice. Pour over chilled ingredients; toss lightly to mix. Garnish with any of the following: carrot curls, green pepper rings, pimiento strips, sliced olives or paprika.

Dilly Potato Salad

5-6 cups ¼" sliced uncooked potatoes
2 tablespoons salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
Freshly ground black pepper
3 tablespoons red wine vinegar
1-3 cup salad oil
3 tablespoons snipped fresh dill
2 tablespoons finely sliced green onion

Cook potatoes in boiling water with salt until they are barely tender. Drain well. Place in a large bowl. Mix together the mustard, pepper and vinegar and pour over hot potatoes. Toss potatoes to distribute seasonings. Add oil, dill and green onion. Toss gently. Taste for seasoning. Refrigerate until needed. 4-5 servings.

Turnips, Carrots Fine Combo

HILDA BEASTALL

Just now local gardeners are pulling thumb-size carrots and tennisball-size white summer turnips, usually having the purple top.

These two vegetables together at a meal are an excellent combination. White turnips are only reasonably high in Vitamin C, with some B1, though having calcium and protein in small amounts. Carrots, as we all know, are high in Vitamin A, some B1 and B2, and enough C to boost that found in turnip. Protein and calcium similar to turnip. Add a potful of cooked turnip leaves, and you finish up with an excellent all-round vitamin-rich vegetable dish.

The test of garden fresh vegetables is to savor their flavor before they are cooked. Most gardeners who like cooking are quite willing to do this but some have been met who refuse to try a new kind by any test — raw of cooked.

These folks say flatly "I don't like them" and that apparently satisfies them, although when pressed for a reason they may admit to never having tasted the vegetable in question because "I'm sure it wouldn't agree with me."

Young white summer turnips, cleaned with a soft brush, should first be tested for eating without cooking. If quickly grown in good soil the outer skin should be no tougher than that of a young radish. The white flesh should be even sweeter than the youngest of radishes.

Slowly grown in dry seasons, however, white turnip skin is tough for the outer quarter-inch. It needs peeling which is a pity, for much vitamin content is thus lost. By cooking the green tops in the last five minutes of boiling time, vitamins are replaced if the vegetable water (broth) is used.

Small turnips quartered, cooked for about 12 minutes and served with other vegetables and potatoes need only a little butter or margarine for seasoning.

As they get larger and perhaps stronger in flavor, try an oven dish when you are using the oven heat for another part of the meal.

SUMMER TURNIP CASSEROLE

3 cups cooked white turnip
3 small eggs, separated
2 tbsp soft margarine or oil
2 tsp finely chopped sweet onion
1 tbsp wheat germ
1 tsp fresh lemon juice
¼ cup vegetable broth (cooking water) chopped green parsley.

Precook turnip until barely tender; mash with the margarine or oil. Beat egg yolks with the vegetable broth. Add to turnip together with onion, wheat germ and lemon juice. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites.

Turn into a creased casserole, bake in moderate oven at 177-deg. C. for about 20 minutes or until top is browned nicely.

Sprinkle with chopped parsley; serve hot as lunch dish with wholewheat cheese sandwiches and green salad. Serves 2 or 3.

Later in the summer if you find your white turnips are bigger than a baseball, you can enjoy them in a Turnip Pie which is much simpler than it sounds. Similar to Turnip Casserole.

WHITE TURNIP PIE

4 cups cooked white turnip
2 tbsp margarine or oil
2 tsp wheat germ
½ cup vegetable broth
½ cup wholewheat breadcrumbs
½ cup grated mild Cheddar cheese.

Cut the cooked turnip into ¼-inch slices; put into a greased casserole. Dot with margarine or sprinkle with the oil. Spread with wheat germ. Pour in vegetable broth.

Mix breadcrumbs with the cheese and spread over top.

Bake in moderate oven 177-deg. C. for about 20 minutes.

Serves 2 or 3 as lunch dish, or with other dishes as part of a good supper will serve 3 or 4.

To retain as much vitamin value and flavor as possible even with older white turnips wash well and cook with the outer skin on even though you need to quarter the turnip for reasonably fast cooking. Before serving, peel off the outer skin if it is known to be tough, but don't discard the broth from cooking. Use it later.

The same treatment is used throughout for Kohl-rabi, a relative of turnip, whose name is a German version for cabbage-turnip. This vegetable grows its white globular root above ground with leaves on long stems extending from it in all directions.

Fresh from garden or allotment, cooked lightly and served with a little margarine they are delicious. Grated or thinly sliced, use them for salad. The slightest grating of nutmeg over either raw or cooked Kohl-rabi or white turnip is appreciated by some, while a coating of lemon juice and yogurt is the ultimate for others.

As with older white turnip, Kohl-rabi has a thick outer covering which needs removing before eating. Try grating first without removal when preparing quickly grown roots.

When to be cooked, leave the covering on and pare after initial cooking. So much is wasted that one begins to wonder whether these two vegetables are valuable enough to grow or to buy. The small quantities of water used for their cooking must certainly be used as liquid in preparing other foods. That is goodness salvaged.

Young green leaves of both white turnip and Kohl-rabi are high in nutrients and by serving these with the roots we get value for our work in production or for our purchase money.

CORNED BEEF

12 cups water—3 quarts
⅔ cup brown sugar
4-5 lb. boneless chuck, shoulder, brisket or plate
1 cup coarse salt
1 tsp salt petre (most drug stores sell this

Heat the first 4 ingredients to the boiling point and cool. Place meat in cooled brine. Leave covered for 4 days. Double the recipe, if this does not cover the meat. Wash meat after removing from the brine. Put in pot and cover with boiling water. Simmer about 3-3½ hours. You may add vegetables for the final half hour or leave as is and slice for sandwiches.

Baked Fish Supreme

(6 to 8 servings)

2 pounds fish fillets, ¾ inch thick (halibut, haddock or other white fish).
2 grapefruit
1 teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon pepper.
¼ cup melted butter or margarine.
1 can (10 ounce) cream of asparagus or cream of celery or cream of mushroom soup (undiluted).
½ cup dairy sour cream.
3 green onions, thinly sliced.
1 tablespoon chopped parsley.

Cut the fish in serving pieces. Place in a greased shallow baking pan. Peel and section grapefruit over bowl to retain juices. Drain sections. Pour juice over fish. Let marinate at room temperature for 10 to 15 minutes; discard juice. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Pour half the butter over fish. Broil 4 inches from heat for about 5 minutes. Baste with remaining butter and broil 3 to 5 minutes longer, until fish is slightly browned. Remove from broiler and baste again with pan juices. Cool slightly. Combine soup with sour cream, green onions and parsley. Spoon over each piece of fish. Top with grapefruit sections. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 10 to 15 minutes, or until heated through.

Being a consistent winner in top-echelon tournament play requires not only superlative technical execution in both bidding and play, but also an aptitude for coming up with the unusual at the right time. An example of this all-around ability can be observed in today's deal, which was played in a national tournament a few years ago.

Both sides vulnerable. North deals.

NORTH
♠ A J 6 4
♥ K J 10 8 3 2
♦ K
♣ 10 2

WEST	EAST
♠ Q 9 8 2	♠ 7 3
♥ Q 5	♥ 9 7 4
♦ A 9	♦ Q 10 7 5 4 2
♣ K 9 7 6 5	♣ A 3

SOUTH
♠ K 10 5
♥ A 6
♦ J 8 6 3
♣ Q J 8 4

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♣.

South's initial response of one spade on a three-card suit was abnormal, but he felt that no other response was better: He just didn't want to bid either two clubs or two diamonds on a broken-down minor suit. When North raised spades, South's rebid of two notrump denied interest in the spade suit. North, accepting this denial, rebid his heart suit — and South repudiated this suit also by bidding three notrump.

After winning the opening lead with his ace of clubs, East returned his remaining club. South now came up with his unusual, and deceptive, play: He put up the queen of clubs.

In making his play, South implanted in West's mind the illusion that he had no more clubs. And, from West's position, he assumed that East had started with the A-J-8-3 of clubs; and that East, at trick two, had returned his fourth-highest club. So, at trick three, West played back a low club, the trick being won by South's eight-spot.

When play had ended, declarer, by picking up West's queen of hearts, and guessing successfully to finesse against West for the queen of spades, made 11 tricks: three spades, six hearts, and two clubs. This was a top-score for North-South, for most North-South pairs arrived at a four-heart contract which was either fulfilled (with no overtricks), of suffered a one-trick defeat.

South's deliberate "squandering" of the club queen at trick two was motivated by the fear that if he played low (which he could well have done if he wanted to create two sure club tricks, since the ten-spot was in dummy), West, upon taking his ace, would assume that South possessed the queen and jack. West would then shift to diamonds, and the defenders would make two diamond tricks. In this case, declarer would make only nine tricks.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By SYDNEY OMARR

THURSDAY, JULY 24, 1975.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Friends may be flexing their muscles. Don't get caught in middle. Express yourself, but do so in manner that rules out partiality. Be your own person. Your friends will settle their own differences if you stand tall on your own.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You get going, you move fast, you get green light following special meeting, conference. You gain impetus; persons "at top" are willing to make room for you. Leo, Aquarius persons could figure prominently. A new deal is in offing. Be ready and willing — because you are "able."

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your intuitive intellect enables you to "wake up" with answers. Friend could pave way for travel, for reservations, for an exciting, stimulating experience. Aquarian figures prominently. You receive communication which inspires, builds confidence.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You find that people who were indifferent are now interested in what you say, do. Social contacts, activities increase. You can be more flexible. Horizons are greater — there will be fewer limitations. Gemini, Sagittarius persons are in picture.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Do some remodeling. Tear down for purpose of reconstruction. Refuse to be painted into corner of status quo. Your creative desires, urges "have their say." If single, the question of marriage looms large.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Emotions could displace logic. Key is to analyze, to dig beneath surface indications. You could, if persistent, strike pay dirt. One who is prideful about investment knowledge wants you to accept "tip." Be grown-up enough to know you get nothing for nothing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Pleasant surprise is due. Member of oppsite sex is likely to be involved. One who means much to you gives dollars—and cents facts. You learn to be practical where costs, home improvements, luxury items are concerned.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be selective. You need not settle for bargain basement. Means aim high; the choice is your own. Key is familiarity with basics. Pisces, Virgo figure prominently. Build on solid structure. Leave nothing to chance. Your personal attention is a requisite.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): People tend to remind you of past promises, obligations. Key now is to evaluate, to determine priorities, to regulate pace. Short trip could result in a "revelation." Keep open mind, but remain firm on principles.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Let go of losing proposition. Deal with future prospects instead of brooding about the past. One you took for granted now demands greater degree of security. Aries, Libra individuals figure prominently.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Ideas are transformed into action. Cycle is such that you succeed, you are more independent and creative. New starts should be encouraged. Get to heart of matters. Highlight originality, pioneering concepts.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): What occurs behind closed doors could directly affect your welfare. Decisions are made, based on what you were taught in recent past. Aquarius, Leo persons are likely to be in picture. Your hunch pays dividends. Follow through!

IF TODY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have melodious voice, you are diplomatic, artistic and somewhat extravagant. Taurus, Libra persons play important roles in your life. September will be your most significant month in this, your "biggest" year since 1966. You could go into business, marry or have an addition to family.

FUN WITH FIGURES

"I'm late," said Betty, hurrying into the office. "It must be nearly ten o'clock."

Ron glanced at his watch. "Well, it's getting on for that," he declared. "If the hour hand were where the minute hand is, it would be just 12 minutes before ten."

What was the time that busy morning?

'Blackmail' Charged In Library Grants

Libraries in Greater Victoria are being "blackmailed" into regionalization by the provincial Library Development Commission, library board acting chairman Clyde Savage said Tuesday.

"That's what it amounts to. If we don't join, we don't get money. If we do join we lose our autonomy," he said after the meeting.

The commission is dangling a carrot of $300,000 in front of the board, saying its grant of 5 per cent of the board's budget would go to 20 per cent if the libraries regionalize, said Savage.

Board member Saanich Ald. Mel Couvelier disagreed with the blackmail charge, saying the commission is willing to negotiate.

Commission spokesmen were not available for comment today.

Set up by the province several years ago, the commission sets high standards of service for B.C. libraries that are difficult to meet without commission grants, said Savage.

A decision must be made this year whether the libraries will go regional, run themselves individually, or remain under a Greater Victoria board, said Savage.

Before The Judge

A 28-year-old man who became so frustrated over being unable to complete a telephone call that he ripped off the receiver at a public booth was fined $100 in Victoria provincial court Tuesday.

Prosecutor Nick Lang said two policemen saw Ruttan rip off the receiver in a booth in the 1600-block Douglas early Tuesday and put it in a brown paper bag.

Ruttan explained he had been drinking and had put 30 cents in the telephone but had not been able to complete his call.

Eugene Mathe, 62, of 941 McClure, was sentenced to 45 days in jail after pleading guilty to shoplifting $9.65 worth of goods from Eaton's on Monday.

It was his third shoplifting conviction in nine days.

On July 14 and 15 he pleaded guilty to two other charges. In the first Judge William Ostler remanded him to Sept. 25 for sentencing; in the second Ostler fined him $100.

Judge Fred Green set a one-year jail term followed by six months probation for James Edward Samuel London, 39, of no fixed address, who pleaded guilty to two charges of theft.

London, whose criminal record dates back to 1954, admitted stealing a sweater from the Goodwill store, 560 Yates, on May 8 and a pair of shoes from Stewart Shoes, 1315 Broad, on May 16.

IRA Claims Two Attacks

BELFAST (Reuter) — The official wing of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) claimed responsibility Tuesday night for wounding three British soldiers in two separate shooting attacks last week.

An IRA statement said the attacks were in retaliation for "an unprecedented amount of harassment" of Northern Ireland's Roman Catholics by British troops.

"This harassment had been so widespread that it does not seem to be the action of individual hooligans but is the deliberate policy of the commanding officer," the statement said.

Segal Plays Russian Roulette And Canada Stars as Outpost

By MARTIN KNELMAN

"Somebody in the KGB doesn't like detente," explains George Segal, faintly unlikely in the role of an RCMP corporal. "So what's the best way to get rid of Kosygin? Blow him up on Canadian soil with a CIA bomb — two countries, one bang." That's not only a fast plot synopsis of Russian Roulette (at the Four Seasons Sheraton and several other theatres), but also a clue to its own cultural-imperialist plot.

Russian Roulette was made in Vancouver and under its original title, Kosygin Is Coming, got a lot of publicity while it was in production. But only the superficial details are Canadian: it's a Chargex card, rather than a Bankamericard, that Segal uses to pry open a lock; it's the Hotel Vancouver, rather than the New York Hilton, that his stunt-man clings to while trying to stop the Russian plot; and yet, that's really Doug McGrath, albeit with a heavy, dubbed Russian accent, as the villains' spot photographer.

Russian Roulette, directed by Lou Lombardo from a screenplay by Tom Ardies, Stanley Mann and Arnold Margolin, treats Canada unconsciously the way Hollywood has always treated Canada—as an outpost and a buffer zone that is almost, but not quite, American. Somehow this seems more of an affront now than it used to. With our own movie industry struggling to its feet, it suddenly seems impossibly patronizing to be considered the appendage of somebody else's movie mythology.

This is a minor and possibly silly objection. Russian Roulette happens to be a highly effective little political thriller —and maybe the polish that makes it enjoyable wouldn't be there if the picture had been made by Canadians.

The film recalls the mood of hysteria when Alexei Kosygin's visit to Canada four years ago was threatened by trouble. His visit to Toronto immediately after an unnerving incident in Ottawa was especially marked by an anxious security clamp-down. The film cleverly uses that episode to concoct a smart story of intrigue climaxing with the arrival of Kosygin in Vancouver.

In this amusing embellishment the reason for the flap is that someone considered dangerous has to be removed from the streets of Vancouver before the Russian premier sets foot in the city. Segal plays a suspended cop who is secretly given the dirty job — only to be sucked into a much bigger plot than anyone had imagined.

Lombardo, who was Robert Altman's editor before becoming a director, keeps the story moving deftly and quickly; the film is gripping in a way that one associates with Hollywood thrillers of the forties.

Segal gives one of those winning, enjoyable performances that seem to have become so effortless for him. The supporting cast includes Denholm Elliott (fresh from his triumph in Duddy Kravitz) as an unaccountably British commander who gets Chinese food thrown in his face; Christina Raines as his girl friend on the police force; and Gordon Jackson as a responsible buddy who comes to one of those bad ends that plague sober, responsible movie characters.

Russian Roulette is the kind of movie that features a chase through the ski hills, a corpse in the bathroom and villains with deliciously improbable accents. There's nothing innovative or ambitious about it, but it succeeds remarkably well on its own level. The showdown sequence, which features a desperate behind-the-scenes battle of wits during a lethargic official parade, is especially entertaining.

Standing-Room Crowd at Met For Canadian Sleeping Beauty

NEW YORK (CP) — The National Ballet of Canada has earned a well-deserved niche in the big time of the dance world.

The Canadian company of 64 dancers and guest artist Rudolf Nureyev drew a standing-room crowd at the Metropolitan Opera House Tuesday night for the opening performance of Sleeping Beauty.

More than 4,000 people gave a 20-minute standing ovation to the Canadians.

It was Nureyev's own production of the Tchaikovsky classic that launched the National Ballet's three-week season at the Met.

Nreyev, 37, has been bouncing from one ballet company to another, keeping up the killing pace that has been his trademark.

He portrayed a deep-feeling Prince Florimund, capably filling the changing moods of the fairy-tale classic.

But Karen Kain, 24, the tall principal dancer from Hamilton, Ont., in the demanding role of Princess Aurora, was a bigger triumph.

In just two years, Miss Kain has achieved an international reputation and is one of Nureyev's favorite partners.

Nureyev chose Miss Kain for an Australian tour last month with the London Festival Ballet.

The two appeared together the last two weeks with Dame Margot Fonteyn and Paolo Bortoluzzi in Washington in a program similar to the Nureyev and Friends presentation seen here last winter.

Nadia Potts and Frank Augustyn were perfect matchups in the Bluebird pas de deaux, giving a clean yet wistful touch to their zestful performances. Theirs was the icing on the cake.

String, Piano Students Set For Concert

Four weeks of concentrated study will culminate Friday with a concert at 8:15 p.m. in the Empress Hotel ballroom.

Victoria Summer School of Music which has occupied the campus of St. Michael's-University School for the past few weeks, will present string and piano students from Newfoundland, the Maritimes, Ontario and the Western provinces, Washington, Oregon and the Yukon.

Among the American students are four string players who are on full scholarship from the Portland Junior Symphony Association.

The program is under the direction of Clayton and Dorothy Hare and will include solo and orchestral works, the latter played by the 30-piece student string orchestra.

A feature will be the Cesar Franck Symphonic Variations played by Calgary award-winning pianist Janet Fickinger with the orchestra.

Tickets for the concert may be purchased at $2 each from Hall and Fairfield Music Centre or at the door preceding the concert.

Polynesia At Bandshell

Eighty young Hawaiians will say Aloha to Victoria Thursday when the band and dancers from Kahuku High School present a Polynesian show at 7 p.m. at the Cameron Bandshell in Beacon Hill Park.

Kuhuku is a village on the windward side of the island of Oahu, and is next door to the world-famous Polynesian Cultural Centre.

The Kahuku young people who will perform in the free concert are in Victoria as guests of the Oak Bay Secondary Band. They are returning a visit made in 1974 by the Victoria students.

Sands

The Sands Family Invites You

Dedication Service Will Be Held on Thursday, July 31st, 1975 at 8:00 p.m.

The public is cordially invited to attend the dedication service on Thursday, July 31st, 1975 at 8:00 p.m., or to visit our new building on Saturday afternoon, August 2nd, 1975 from 2 to 6 o'clock; and Sunday, August 3rd, 1975 from 2 to 6 o'clock, or at your convenience thereafter.

The Sands "Family Chapel of Memories" will be dedicated to the ideals and philosophies that have made their chapels community institutions, offering sympathetic attention, quiet dignity, and understanding experience.

The newly constructed Sands "Family Chapel of Memories" almost doubles Sands' previous facility on Quadra Street. By being built adjacent to the existing Sands "Memorial Chapel of Chimes", it enjoys the same garden setting and extensive parking areas. It is highly functional, spacious, yet comforting — traditionally SANDS.

SANDS MORTUARY LIMITED

SIDES MAP STRATEGY IN B.C. FOREST DISPUTE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Private joint discussions between parties to the British Columbia forest industry dispute will continue to at least Thursday, William Stanbury, assistant to special mediator Mr. Justice Henry Hutcheon, said Tuesday.

Stanbury said a variety of alternatives are open to union and company representatives in terms of format for future discussion. However, he said "people's positions have not been nailed down yet" and he would not elaborate other than to say there may be an announcement today on the schedule for talks Friday and Saturday.

Stanbury said the representatives of the interior section of the International Woodworkers of America and the Southern Interior Industrial Relations Association are scheduled to meet Thursday while representatives of the Pulp, Paper and Woodworkers of Canada and the Pulp Bureau were to meet today.

Members of the IWA and Forest Industrial Relations met Monday, and the Canadian Paperworkers Union met with the Pulp Bureau Tuesday.

Stanbury said discussions thus far have not been "a simple reading of positions but have included questions and answers and some discussion of the items of concern."

Meanwhile, Mr. Justice J. G. Gould of the B.C. Supreme Court ruled Tuesday that he did not have jurisdiction to adjudicate an application by Western Stevedoring Co. and Pacific Terminals Co. to restrain PPWC picketing at a New Westminster dock.

In denying the application, the supreme court justice said the firms could instead apply to B.C.'s labor relations board.

Vancouver 'Another Cleveland'?

Canadian Press

If the current housing crisis in British Columbia continues unchecked "ultimately Vancouver will become another Cleveland" and "it will lead to an absolute decay in the community," Housing Minister Lorne Nicolson said Tuesday.

Nicolson said in an interview that while it is not too late to avert disaster, "we're pretty far behind."

He said a recent survey of one new townhouse development showed that more than one-third of the units are occupied by two family groups.

The minister said other indications of the problem are found when governments and businesses report a difficulty in getting professionals to move to Vancouver where they are faced with very high shelter costs.

Nicolson said part of the problem was community aversions to multiple-unit developments which has meant rejection of many good developments by councils, the loss of mortgage money, and lack of development starts when the mortgage market was good.

There has been some easing of this attitude recently in the lower mainland and Victoria areas but even with this support it will be at least a year to 18 months before there can be any significant easing of the current crisis, the minister said.

Nicolson warned the crisis could get worse before it improves because the current low start-level will be felt much more next year than this.

He said shortage of serviced land and a tight mortgage money market are the main reasons for the current lag and starts cannot be expected to increase for several months.

Government activity is concentrated in social housing programs (about 41 per cent of the housing units being constructed in Vancouver are government-supported) and the development of serviced land, making more land available for developers, said Nicolson.

The current drop in housing starts has hit almost all parts of North America as badly as it has hit B.C., he said, but many places are not suffering so severely because "they were further ahead to begin with."

Natives Agree on Citizens for Dene

FORT SIMPSON, N.W.T. (CP) — After one and one-half days of heated debate, northern Indian and Metis leaders agreed Tuesday on the qualifications for citizenship in a separate, native nation — tentatively identified Saturday as the Dene Nation — within Canada.

Delegates to the second annual general assembly of the Indian Brotherhood and Metis Association of the Northwest Territories Saturday passed a statement declaring Canada's north to be the Dene Nation.

Natives outnumber whites 42,000 to 12,000 in the N.W.T. and have a majority on the territorial council.

The issue of who could claim citizenship in the Dene Nation caused conflict among the 300 delegates to the assembly, with the dispute primarily between younger spokesmen and older, more conservative leaders.

In reaching a compromise, the Fort Rae band abstained from voting while two members of the Fort Franklin delegation sided against the resolution, which would make citizenship in the Dene Nation open to those who can trace their ancestry to one of the four major tribes in the Mackenzie district — Loucheux, Slavey, Dogrib or Chipewyan.

The Territories' Cree Indians were also included in the resolution after delegates argued that their exclusion would be unfair. Many Cree migrated north prior to the signing of major treaties in 1899 and 1921.

The assembly instructed its land claims committee to begin work immediately on a formula to carry out the guidelines set down in the resolution.

House Set Ablaze

CLAY, N.Y. (AP) — Robert Wilhelm tried to get rid of some bees at the weekend. Now he is looking for a place to live. Wilhelm went after a beehive under the eaves of his house with a propane torch. Two fire companies had to be called to fight the fire that resulted and the house was ruined.

Murder Trial Jury: 5 Blacks, 7 Whites

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A jury of five blacks and seven whites was seated late this morning in the trial of Joan Little, charged with murder in the slaying of a jail guard she said tried to rape her.

The 12th juror, Edward Mitchell, was accepted by the prosecution after the judge denied two state challenges to eliminate him.

Suicide Attempts

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Sixty persons, mostly teenagers, attempted suicide in Tehran during the past 48 hours, official statistics show. Most had failed in love, or final exams, but it was believed a summer heat wave with temperatures as high as 109 may have played a part in their despair, the evening newspaper Ettelaat said.

Farm Tractors and ROPS

Two kinds of roll-over accidents are common.

1. Some tractors are designed so that their inter-wheel width can be narrowed or widened to match spaces between crop rows. When the track is narrowed, a tractor's stability is reduced. It can roll sideways.
2. Because tractors have a low gear ratio, a sudden application of power can cause a two-wheel drive tractor to roll from front to back.

To minimize the danger of injury to operators, the Workers' Compensation Board urges that all tractors be fitted with roll-over protective structures—ROPS.

For more information about ROPS and adequate seat belts, contact any office of the Workers' Compensation Board.

June Seedlings Ready to Move

Seeds of hardy perennial plants are sown as often in amateur greenhouses as in sheltered prepared spots outdoors. Either way they need care, and from their June sowing are now ready for pricking out, or transplanting as some call it, to give them more space for growing.

The aim is to get the maximum of root development before the end of the active growing season. The amount of root depends in a great measure on the expanse of leaf surface, which means giving each seedling a chance to expand as much leaf surface as is possible, now, while light intensity is good.

Whether in greenhouse or an outdoor bed, transplant the seedlings as soon as they can be held in the fingers. With most plants, only the seed leaves will be present with perhaps just the indication of true leaves about to emerge in between. Don't wait. If the seedling can be held by a seed leaf, make plans to set them out singly at once.

A mixture of compost put through a quarter-inch screen, some leafmould and some coarse sand for drainage is suited to the general list of home garden perennials.

Some rock garden plants wanting a more acid soil will like well dampened peatmoss added; while others mainly of the Cruciferae Family (where the cabbages belong) do not want peat unless a little lime is added to counteract the acidity. Aubrieta, alyssum and arabis are examples. The genus Dianthus which includes carnations and pinks like the soil to be neutral or at least free of acidity.

The transplanting of the seedlings can be first made into standard flats if desired, for easier handling.

Set the seedlings two-and-a-half inches apart all ways or even three inches according to the upright or spreading habit of the seedlings. The plants will be in the flats for only a month or so, but if very tiny now they will be more easily cared for.

Set each transplant down into a small hole so that the seed leaves almost rest on the soil surface.

Mist the leaf surfaces with water and put the flat in an airy but shaded spot free of predators — multiple-legged, two, or four legged.

The alternative, with rarer seedlings or a few specials, is to pot each one into a two-and-a-half or a three-inch pot of mixture as suggested, keeping the pots on an open greenhouse bench in good light and not forgetting to prevent drying out and wilting.

Don't put at once into a large pot, for there is danger of the volume of soil remaining too wet while the roots are still small, resulting in rotting of the young roots.

As seedlings grow into plants, and roots fill the pots, each may be transferred to one size larger pot, a three-inch.

The next move would be to a three-and-a-half unless by that time you decide to line out the plants in the garden for fall and winter growing.

If seedlings are left too long crowded in the seedling pot or box, they soon become weak and leggy, stretching their necks for light and air. They never attain the sturdy growth that is theirs by right of inheritance.

Crossing Guards Sought

Adult guards will be posted in September at Henry and Beacon in Sidney, at Keating and Central Saanich Rd., and at West Saanich Rd. and Wallace Drive on weekdays to shepherd youngsters across the street.

District secretary-treasurer Ross Ingram said today finding suitable guards may be difficult because the work is an hour in the morning, and hour or more at noon, and another hour when school is dismissed in the afternoon.

Education Minister Eileen Dailly, in announcing the crossing guard program in January, said she hoped school boards would give employment preference to senior citizens or others who might need an extra income.

Ingram said the board hasn't yet worked out with the Canadian Union of Public Employees a suitable rate of pay for the guards.

Greater Victoria school board will hire six crossing guards but is also in the process of working out how much to pay them.

Sooke school board did not apply for guards this year, but secretary-treasurer Marilyn Rudge said the board will probably apply next year.

Witness Backs Drug Suspect

Gordon Harry Okell, the man whose name has popped up frequently in the drug trial of Dennis Grant Laverty, became the key witness for the defence Tuesday in county court.

Okell told Judge Montague Drake that the deal for five pounds of methamphetamine (speed) was made between him and Robert Drainville of Montreal and Laverty had nothing to do with it.

Okell was arrested along with Drainville and Laverty at the Century Inn June 6, 1974, but was released. Drainville, facing two charges, has had his case waived to Montreal.

Okell outlined to the court arrangements he made with Drainville including transfer of $12,500 from his bank account in Pince George to Toronto to pay for some of the speed.

He admitted Laverty was with him in Montreal but didn't know what was happening and that the transaction was done outside his presence. He also said he phoned Drainville several times, from pay phones and Laverty's phone, but billed the calls to Laverty's number.

A B.C. Telephone account in the name of M. Laverty, 208-3150 Jutland, showed four calls to Drainville's home billed to that number.

Okell agreed he accompanied Drainville on the last part of the flight to Victoria June 5, 1974, and that he went to Laverty's apartment and that later the three of them met and went to the Old Forge nightclub.

In addition to saying Laverty knew nothing of what was going on, Okell also said he had no intention of sharing the proceeds from the speed deal with him.

Under cross-examination by prosecutor Mike Hutchison, he said he has known Laverty for about 1½ years, that he normally lives in Prince George but while the trial is on is staying with Laverty.

Questioned about his employment background, Okell said from February to August of 1974 he was "going into business" which he amplified as the "dope business. Drugs. I was going into the speed business." He agreed that when he was in Victoria he stayed with Laverty.

He said he was in his "business" alone except for his "connection down east" but he couldn't remember his name except the first name was Walter and he contacted him by paging him at Montreal cafes.

(Drainville, when cross-examined last month, used the name Walter to describe an older man with him and Laverty in Montreal).

Okell said the arrangements in Montreal were made between him and Drainville and the man named Walter.

He said the speed deal was five pounds at $3,500 a pound and he put $9,000 down. He said he was going to sell two pounds in Victoria to pay for the other three pounds.

The dextrose, introduced to court Monday, was purchased by him to "cut the speed with," he said.

Judge Drake ruled admissible Tuesday testimony given earlier by Cpl. Alan Decker of the RCMP drug section regarding a conversation between him and Laverty in the Old Forge in the early morning of June 24 of this year.

He said Laverty came up to him and asked "what do you think I'll get" and Decker replied "maybe five or 10 years, it's up to the judge."

Laverty wanted to know if Drainville was going to testify against him and said he'd seen a statement Drainville had made and "I've showed it to some big people in Montreal" and there are "ways" of dealing with people.

Decker also said Laverty told him "I knew we had it as soon as I saw you in the beer parlor" at the Century Inn June 6, 1974.

Defence lawyer Sid Simons said Decker's testimony didn't show a confession by Laverty, that the conversation occurred a year after the alleged offense and that such evidence before a jury would have led to a mistrial.

Simons also told court that, although Drainville said earlier he has pleaded guilty in Montreal to two charges arising from the Victoria speed incident, there are no records to substantiate this.

Heritage Home Offered

A Victoria developer will give Esquimalt a potential heritage home free if the company buys the property for apartment development.

MacArthur Park Estates Ltd. has made a tentative offer — the only one so far — for a lot at 634 Admirals Rd. containing a turn-of-the-century house recently cited by Victoria's Hallmark Society as a heritage home.

Company director Bob Jawl said he agrees with Esquimalt Ald. Robert Peden that the house should be moved and donated to the municipality.

Peden wants the house moved to municipal land as the start of a possible heritage village, but has had no response from council.

"It is worth saving. It's got some character to it. I suggested . . . maybe making a historical village,' said Peden.

Esquimalt contains enough buildings of historical value to make a village, he said.

The company is considering development of about 27 living units there and is studying its feasibility Jawl said.

It is unlikely any sale will be made certain before the end of August, he said.

Special Gift For Admiral

Pickford was Kootenay's first commanding officer when she was commissioned in Vancouver in 1959.

A steward by trade, Mole began making the model in January, 1974, and completed it July 20, 1975. It took him 1,000 hours and $150 in materials. The hull and superstructure is of fiberglass and the remainder of the ship, balsa wood.

How War Was Lost—for $2,500

ANAHEIM, Calif. — For $2,500 an appearance, former South Vietnamese vice-president Nguyen Cao Ky is hitting the lecture trail to tell Americans how the war was lost.

The former jet fighter plane pilot spoke without pay Tuesday at the Chamber of Commerce. But he said he has hired professional booking agents and from now on, it is $2,500 a shot.

Asked if he planned to use the money to help his fellow refugees, Ky smiled and said: "No, the money is my personal affair."

His agent hopes to book him for two or more engagements a week.

Still as dapper as he was in Saigon, Ky sports a mod hairstyle and a double-breasted blazer with military-style epaulets. A silver model of a jet plane is pinned to his lapel.

In addition to the across-the-country tour, Ky said he is planning a book, Twenty Years and Twenty Days, about South Vietnam from 1955 to 1975.

PORTLAND, Ore. — The two window washers were almost casual about being stranded for two hours 350 feet above the pavement in downtown Portland.

"We weren't scared. It was all in the day's work," said Marianne Loehr, A Mulino, Ore., grandmother who is Portland's only female window washer.

Loehr and her partner John Vanm Gorder, rescued themselves, repairing a power cable that had pulled loose and then returning to the top of the 560-foot First National Bank building.

HYANNISPORT, Mass — Rose Kennedy quietly celebrated her 85th birthday Tuesday. She began the day as she always does — attending mass at St. Francis Xavier.

CHICAGO — Actor Pat O'Brien, hospitalized after he complained of chest pains, was listed in stable condition today.

DALLAS, Tex — Two sons of the late oil billionaire H. L. Hunt, named with five other men in a federal indictment charging conspiracy and obstruction of justice, said Tuesday they are being prosecuted because they refused to cooperate with the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

LOS ANGELES — Burt Reynolds will be a prosecution witness this week in the trial of Vaughn Greenwood, alleged axe-wielding burglar who has been called a suspect in the "Skid Row Slasher" murders.

A mysterious "slasher" has cut the throats of nine men, mostly helpless derelicts, in a series of killings that terrorized skid row in December and January. Police chief Ed Davis identified Greenwood as a suspect in the killings but was immediately silenced by a court gag order. Greenwood was not charged with the slayings.

HOUSTON — The United States' oldest astronaut will get another chance to fly in space.

Donald "Deke" Slayton will be offered a job of directing the horizontal flight test of the revolutionary space shuttle rocket plane in the spring of 1977, Johnson Space Centre director Christopher Kraft said today.

LONG BEACH, Calif. — Howard Hughes pleaded with the city harbor commission Tuesday to save his Spruce Goose, once the world's largest plane, because he has a "very great emotional and sentimental attachment" to it.

The reclusive billionaire did not appear personally. His lawyer asked the commission to grant another one-year extension on his lease on a hangar for the enormous flying boat, which the city has been trying to evict for years.

NEW YORK — A construction worker, who said he wanted to call attention to hunger among children, took a 110-storey parachute jump from the World Trade Centre Tuesday evening.

Owen Quinn, 34, told police who arrested him he did it because he wanted his stunt to prompt people to give up a meal or two and set aside the food money "to give the poor kids a meal."

Police quickly shuttled Quinn to hospital for psychiatric observation but said doctors "found nothing wrong with him."

"I'M SO HAPPY for that girl," Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis said after the wedding of Christina Onassis and Alexander Andreadis (above).

"They are a wonderful couple," Mrs. Onassis said.

Amnesty Granted Gen. Lee

WASHINGTON (WP) — Congress, in what members described as a "spirit of national reconciliation," gave final approval Tuesday to a resolution restoring the full rights of citizenship to Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee.

The action came 110 years after Lee, stripped of his political rights because of his leadership of Southern forces in the Civil War, renewed his oath of allegiance to the Union and asked to become a full-fledged citizen again.

The measure now goes to the White House, where President Ford is expected to sign it.

Watching from the galleries as the House passed the resolution was Lee's great grandson, Robert E. Lee IV.

TOAD-IN-THE-HOLE

HILDESHEIM, West Germany (Reuter) — Two dozen rare yellow-bellied toads have halted construction of five houses on a new suburban estate, town council said Tuesday.

The toads are protected by local law.

As a result, Hildesheim town planners have had to redraw their building plans for the 50-house development, and it is estimated the toads will cost the town about $122,000.

Kidnap, Robbery Suspect Charged

CALGARY (CP) — Guy Marcel -Smith, 29, of St. Jerome, Que., was remanded in custody until Thursday when he appeared in provincial court Tuesday on charges connected with a quarter-million-dollar extortion-style bank robbery here July 4.

Smith entered no plea to one charge of armed robbery and two of kidnapping with intent to hold hostages for ransom.

He was arrested in Montreal and brought back to Calgary Monday. Police said they are looking for two other suspects about 30 years of age and with French accents.

92nd YEAR, No. 38 ★★★ VICTORIA B.C., WEDNESDAY, JULY 23, 1975 ★★★ 15 CENTS DAILY, 30 CENTS SATURDAY

. . . HE PASSED SURVIVAL TEST

GLENCOE, Ont. (CP) — An 82-year-old resident of nearby Bothwell lost control of his car on a country road Saturday and crashed into a tree after he swallowed strychnine he had been using to poison rats, Glencoe provincial police said today.

Police said Tim Bunn, who has a heart condition, had two vials of powder in his pocket, one containing medication for his heart condition and the other strychnine. Bunn accidently swallowed the strychnine.

Police said while driving his car to Bothwell, Bunn suffered a seizure because of the poison. When the car left the road, his foot became jammed on the accelerator and the car slammed into a tree.

After he stumbled out of the car, a gun he was carrying went off and a bullet grazed his skull, police said. Bunn is in hospital.

UIC Payments Drop

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment insurance benefits paid out during May dropped by 24 per cent to $271 million from the $357 million paid in April, Statistics Canada reported Tuesday.

However, the May amount was 34-per-cent higher than the $202 million in benefits paid during May, 1974, and the total paid during the first five months of the year jumped 38 per cent to $1.519 billion from the $1.102 billion paid in the same period last year.

A total of 714,000 were officially unemployed in May, a drop of 81,000 from April. The number listed as receiving unemployment insurance at the end of May was 1.106 million, down from 1.186 million in April. The totals differ because people can collect the insurance without being officially unemployed.

A total of 1.106 million claimants were on file at the end of May, a 34-per-cent increase from the 825,000 registered in May, 1974. Counting new claims and renewals, 197,000 began receiving benefits during May, a 15-per-cent increase in the number who filed during the same month last year.

The average weekly payment during May was $83.64, down slightly from the average in April but up 13 per cent from the average $74.34 paid last May. Average payment during the first five months was $83.81, up 12 per cent from the average $74.70 paid during the same month last year.

OTTAWA ACTS ON FISHING

Soviet Fleet Barred

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is closing East Coast ports to Soviet fishing vessels to protest alleged overfishing in Canadian coastal waters.

"We deeply regret that it has become necessary . . .," he said. "But everything else failed and we cannot let this situation continue.

Pacific ports will not be affected.

He said Canada also was looking at alleged violations by other nations. Direct approaches now were being made to the Spanish and Portuguese governments "and if the performance of their fleets does not improve immediately our ports will be closed to them as well."

Soviet fishing vessels made 400 visits to Canadian ports last year. LeBlanc said the Soviet fleet is powerful enough to survive without Canadian visits "but it will be a very serious inconvenience for them."

LeBlanc said some time ago that this action would be taken if all other diplomatic efforts failed.

The closure is effective July 28.

"Over the past year, the Soviet fleet has consistently over-fished certain of its quotas," the minister told reporters. He said the only official response from Moscow to Canadian representations "was for them to question our evidence."

The quotas are set by the International Commission for the Northwest Atlantic Fisheries, and LeBlanc said the Soviets last year appear to have exceeded their 85,000 metric-ton capelin quota by 67 to 75 per cent in one fishing zone. Quotas also were exceeded for herring near the Nova Scotia coast.

"We have used every method available to bring all these matters to the attention of the Soviet authorities," said the minister. Finally, last Monday, External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen informed Moscow of this decision.

Canada also had been unsuccessful in getting Moscow to settle outstanding claims for damage to Canadian lobster gear in 1974. Although the Soviets agreed to cooperate in settling the claims, LeBlanc said there has been no satisfactory response yet.

The minister said the move will have "some negative impact" on port revenues.

"This is, however, far outweighed by the importance of our own fishing industry to the economy and by the need to protect the fish stocks off our coast."

In Newfoundland, Premier Frank Moores said today closure of east coast ports to Soviet vessels is a "stop-gap measure" and will do nothing to assist in the conservation of fish.

The premier said he believes the action was a significant move for the federal government but not for the fisheries in Newfoundland.

"It's not just closing the port to the Russians. The Russians have floating drydocks. They have supply ships . . . The only time they would use this port is when they break down which is not going to cause them any great inconvenience.

"There is no middle ground for preserving the fish stocks on the continental shelf. It has to be done by unilateral ac-

3-Man Junta For Portugal

LISBON (AP) — Three top military men are preparing to take full power in Portugal, now governed by a Revolutionary Council of 30 military officers, according to a high government official.

He identified the three military men as President Francisco da Costa Gomes, Premier Vasco Goncalves and Brig.-Gen. Otelo Saraiva de Carvalho, the national security chief.

The Portuguese Socialist party and other moderates have been demanding the ouster of Goncalves, who is regarded as Communist-oriented.

The official said a "reorganization" of the Revolutionary Council was expected. He indicated the council would be inferior to the three-man collective leadership which he said might be called "The Directory."

The government officer said there is no question of Goncalves staying on as premier and he indicated both Costa Gomes and Carvalho already have agreed to share leadership in what appears to be a vast power shuffle among the country's military leadership.

The announcement followed the refusal of the Socialist Party to join a new cabinet under Goncalves.

The socialists said they would expel any member who serves under Goncalves. They said he had asked Lopes Cardoso and Antonio Reis, both members of the party's ruling secretariat, to accept ministerial posts.

Meanwhile a prominent resident of the Azores said the islands would secede if the government tried to creat a Communist-led junta there.

Portugal already has lost its African colonies and the Azorean said government efforts to set up a Communist-led junta "would only accelerate what is going to happen anyway. We are going to be an independent nation within the next two months whether the military here like it or not."

POLICE FLUSH ARMED MAN

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP) — A 23-year-old man was taken into custody Tuesday night after police used tear gas to force him from a house on the Campbell River Indian reserve near here.

Police said they had a complaint that a man was firing guns inside a house.

Police said the man, armed with nine rifles, held out for almost three hours before they fired three cannisters of tear gas into the building, forcing him out. No charges had been laid.

NEWS BRIEFS

Prince George Blaze

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Fire has completely gutted several businesses in the downtown section of this city. Cause of the blaze and the time the fire started was not immediately known. Firefighters reached the fire at 5:20 a.m. No one was reported injured, and no estimate of damage was available.

ICBC Given Horn

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 100 striking employees demonstrated Tuesday outside Insurance Corporation of British Columbia headquarters after renewed negotiations aimed at ending their two-month strike bogged down. At the same time, a motorcade of about 50 cars, continuously blowing their horns, circled the block containing ICBC offices, tying up late morning traffic.

Trains Collide

HAMBURG (AP) — The casualty toll rose to 11 dead and 35 injured today in the head-on crash of a commuter train and a freight train in the suburbs of this West German city, authorities said.

Ships Firebombed

NAHA, Okinawa (UPI) — Two men in a motorboat firebombed a Chilean navy sailing craft and three other vessels today in a 30-minute molotov cocktail attack on ships visiting the Expo '75 fair here, police said. Two crewmembers of one ship were injured, one seriously.

ROME (AP) — Amintore Fanfani, the strongman of Italian politics for many years, was removed as chief of the dominant Christian Democratic party after he lost a vote of confidence Tuesday night.

Fire Costs Soar

VANCOUVER (CP) — A B.C. Forest Service spokesman says the cost of fighting forest fires in the province has more than doubled from last year and B.C. seems headed for a record year.

Murder Charges Planned

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Murder charges will be laid in connection with the B.C. Penitentiary shooting of prison worker Mary Steinhauser, Jack Harris, New Westminster regional crown prosecutor, said Tuesday.

Harris said the charges would not be directed against any member of the penitentiary staff.

He said they would be laid under section 212 of the Criminal Code, under which a person may be convicted of murder if they knowingly expose another person to danger, and thereby cause death.

Harris made the disclosure when asked about reports that in-camera testimony at the Farris inquiry into the penitentiary breakout attempt last month is touching on details of Steinhauser's death. (See also Page 12.)

Such testimony normally would be the province of a coroner's inquest, but an inquest would not normally be held if a murder charge were laid.

The inquiry, head by Chief Justice J. L. Farris of the B.C. Court of Appeal, was scheduled to re-open to the public today in the Vancouver courthouse.

Inquiry counsel John Rowan said Tuesday the in-camera testimony has included evidence of "where, when and by what means" Steinhauser, 32, was killed.

Fifteen hostages were seized June 9 by three prisoners and held at knifepoint for 41 hours in a storage vault. The siege ended when guards burst in and gunfire followed. Prisoner Andy Bruce was injured and Steinhauser killed.

New Westminster coroner Doug Jack said he has received no instructions to hold an inquest but has not been advised of any intention to lay murder charges.

Indians: 'Not Guilty'

Twenty Indians pleaded not guilty in Gold River provincial court this morning to charges of obstructing a highway.

The case was adjourned until Sept. 15.

The 20 were arrested Saturday morning when RCMP cleared a six-day-old roadblock the Indians are charged with erecting across the road between Gold River and the local pulp mill and Muchalat Inlet.

Following their court appearance, the Indians moved out to the lawn outside the courthouse where they began dancing and playing their drums.

They weren't breaking any laws, said an RCMP spokesman, "but they're playing havoc with our lawn. We're about to turn on the sprinklers."

The Indians are on an undertaking not to participate in blockades and to keep the peace.

Fifty-three members of the Mount Currie Indian band were also to appear in Pemberton provincial court today to answer charges of obstructing a highway.

They were arrested Friday evening when RCMP removed a month-old roadblock near the Mount Currie reserve.

U.K. HOUSE MEMBERS VOTE $2,750 RAISE

The move came only four hours after they had endorsed the government's anti-inflation policy of restricting pay increases for workers to £6 ($13.20) a week for the next 12 months.

The MPs, who have had no wage increase for four years, now will get £5,750 ($12,650) a year instead of the £4,500 ($9,900) they now receive.

Ministers asked the House to reject a proposal by Joe Ashton, a Labor member, to approve the principle that salaries for MPs should be on the same level as top civil servants — £11,000 ($24,200) a year.

Unexpectedly, Ashton's proposal scraped home by one vote, 128-127.

That increase would take effect within three months of the next general election, which may come at any time in the next four years.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson's anti-inflation package won overwhelming parliamentary approval, but it cost him a large-scale revolt by left-wing members of his Labor party.

Employment Secretary Michael Foot threatened to quit, saying he and other dissenters strongly disapproved government plans to back up voluntary pay curbs with legally enforceable powers against employers.

OVEN-READY CATTLE RUSTLED

VANCOUVER (CP) — The CP Rail freightyard in the downtown area was the scene of a major beef rustle Sunday night.

The truck and trailer unit in which the beef was stored also was stolen.

A CP Rail spokesman declined to place any value on the missing merchandise. However, a spokesman for a lower mainland packing house said the beef would be worth $20,000 to $32,000, wholesale, depending on the quality of the meat.

Police said the truck, described as a tractor and trailer unit with silver, blue and white CP markings, is valued at $32,000.

Egypt to Keep UN Peace Force

Times News Services

An official United Nations spokesman announced today in New York that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat had agreed to a security council request that Egypt extend the mandate of the U.N. peacekeeping forces in the Sinai Desert.

The official Egyptian reply was handed to security council president Eugenio Plaja of Italy in New York today by Egyptian ambassador Ahmed Esmat Abdel Meguid. Sadat had said Tuesday he would give his reply after consulting his advisers.

The contents of the note were not immediately disclosed but diplomatic sources said Sadat agreed to the U.N. continuation. Egyptian sources would not comment.

In Jerusalem Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin declared tonight that Israel will not sign a further interim agreement with Egypt unless it is preceded by face-to-face negotiations.

Rabin told a political meeting, "Israel has agreed to negotiate with Egypt on an interim settlement through the good offices of the United States.

"But in any case the negotiating process will not reach its conclusion and an agreement will not be signed without direct negotiations, face-to-face, between Israeli and Egyptian delegations."

In military action today, Israeli troops crossed into southern Lebanon, blowing up houses in a frontier village and taking captives back across the frontier.

The military command in Tel Aviv said an Israeli patrol searching for guerrillas blew up two houses in the Lebanese village of Kfar Kela and took seven captives.

A military spokesman in Beirut said the Israelis seized six villagers in a 2½-hour raid.

Israel put its forces on alert along all frontiers in what officials described as a precautionary measure to prevent a surprise Arab attack.

Meanwhile in Cairo, the official Middle East News Agency announced today President Sadat will run for another six years in office in 1976 when his current term expires.

Striking Pen Inmates Stay in Cells

Jim Bultitude, acting penitentiary director, said the convicts began their work stoppage at midnight and did not come out of their cells at 8 a.m.

The Prisoners Union Committee (PUC) said in a news release that the two-day work stoppage would be a non-violent action and security staff have been asked to cooperate "by maintaining the non-violent atmosphere."

Bultitude said it was quiet and there had been no violence or incidents.

"The commissioner of penitentiaries in Ottawa has been notified and we are awaiting instructions from our regional headquarters," said Bultitude.

Staff members provided breakfast as the prisoners were given the opportunity to leave their cells for meals.

Penitentiary spokesman Fred Leech said staff members will continue to provide meals, medication and other services normally available but wondered what effect the weather would have on the prisoners.

"We'll see how long they sit in there if it gets hot this afternoon," said Leech.

He disputed the claim that 300 prisoners have signed up with PUC at the federal maximum-security institution.

"They'll be lucky if they've got 25 per cent of the inmate population," Leech said.

There are about 450 prisoners in the penitentiary.

PUC said the demands of the prisoners will include recognition of the 300-member union — the Prisoners Union; the right to hold meetings and democratic, secret ballot elections; and the right to bargain collectively with the solicitor-general's department to improve working and living conditons in the institution.

Pollen Makes New Effort To Curb Sunday Retailing

Many forms of retail activity now conducted on Sundays in Victoria, including the sale of paint, building materials, furniture, carpets and automobiles, will be banned if city council approves a bylaw which city solicitor Jakob de Villiers has been instructed to prepare.

But the likelihood of such approval remained a doubtful issue Tuesday, after aldermen expressed a number of misgivings about Mayor Peter Pollen's latest initiative to preserve Sunday as a day of family rest and renewal.

The mayor has been advocating this type of policy for at least two years, and some three months ago he appointed a special sub-committee to consider whether the city should attempt to control Sunday commercial activity.

But last month the committee recommended continuation of the present "open Sunday," council members generally were reluctant to open up such a controversial issue, and Pollen appeared to have accepted defeat.

On Tuesday, however, he returned to the attack at council's weekly caucus meeting, armed with the draft of a bylaw which would regulate "trading on holidays and Sundays."

The draft, prepared at Pollen's request by de Villiers, would stipulate that no one may "sell, expose, offer or advertise for sale, or purchase or offer to purchase any tangible personal property other than household groceries, newspapers, medicines, drugs, ointments, beverages, automotive fuels, vehicle lubricants or souvenirs intended for the tourist trade."

Also exempted from the ban would be vehicle parts and accessories for "emergency repairs."

The draft bylaw came under immediate criticism from aldermen. Ald. Sam Bawlf noted that it would prevent many young people in the city from selling leather goods and other arts and crafts items to tourists, while "some tourist joints could be selling mounds of plastic garbage . . . imported from Japan with a maple leaf stuck on them."

He was rebuked by Pollen for "injecting emotionalism" into the discussion, and told that he was speaking "a little bit in your self-interest" because the alderman leased premises to artists and craftsmen.

Ald. Clyde Savage recalled that an earlier attempt by council to regulate Sunday trading produced a "tremendous headache" some years ago, when it proved impossible to impose a fair and non-contentious set of regulations.

"I would like to see everything shut up," he told Pollen, "but there is no way you or I or anyone else can do it.

"Who are we to decide what is essential (as goods for purchase) and what is not essential on any one given day? I defy you to do that."

The mayor replied that he had been assured by the city solicitor the bylaw could be enforced.

Council finally accepted Ald. Mike Young's suggestion that the draft be returned to de Villiers for rewriting. Young said rather than taking the difficult approach of a general prohibition with certain listed exemptions, the bylaw should specify precisely what types of commercial activity would not be permitted on a Sunday.

'Dr. Zonk', Go and See Your Doctor

Your telephone rings and the man calling may tell you he is "Dr. Zonk" — from the emergency department staff at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

He may tell you that an elderly woman has been hit by a truck and brought to the emergency department — or he may claim that a child has been seriously injured and requires emergency surgery.

In any event, he will tell you that the only identification the emergency victim carried was a piece of paper with your name and address.

He tells you to come to the emergency department right away.

There have been about 10 such hoax calls involving the hospital's emergency department over the past month, Michael Fraser, the hospital's associate executive director, said today.

In about four cases, puzzled people have hurried to the hospital to find there are no such emergency cases. In the rest of the cases, people have telephoned the hospital to discover the hoax.

The caller sounds like a mature male. He doesn't always identify himself as "Dr. Zonk" but he does handle medical language smoothly.

In one case he called two elderly ladies who were just setting out for Vancouver. He told them a child had been seriously injured, carried only their names, and they were needed at the hospital to authorize emergency surgery.

They knew of no child but after agonizing over the call, decided to put off their trip and go to the hospital. They were "most upset" to learn it was all a hoax.

Museum 'Clutter' To Stay

Protests over the "carnival atmosphere" developing outside the Provincial Museum will not likely result in any changes, at least this summer.

Recreation Minister Jack Radford, the man responsible for the museum, said he viewed the area and is satisfied with the way it exists and does not foresee any changes.

Museum staff members recently protested in a letter to the Times about the growing "clutter" outside the museum buildings.

The "carnival atmosphere" being created is downgrading the efforts of the museum staff and the dignity of the institution, they said, and they called for staff members to have a say in use of the museum grounds.

Radford said he has had some communication with department members on the issue and he is looking into the whole question, especially the problem of overlapping jurisdiction with the public works department.

But the minister said he has viewed the museum courtyard area and doesn't object to the lottery booth, portable stage, soft drink machine and tables and chairs gathered around the building.

"In a summertime situation, when people enjoy sitting outside, I think it's all right if it's not interfering with the flow of traffic and as long as it doesn't add debris," said Radford.

City, Saanich Schools Hit By Vandals

Greater Victoria and Saanich school boards have hired private security guards to help control a rash of vandalism that has broken out in several schools.

The guards will patrol four problem schools in Saanich district and three schools in Greater Victoria district, including Spectrum high school on Carey Rd. where nearly 70 windows have been broken in recent weeks.

Sig Dietze, Greater Victoria assistant superintendent of construction and maintenance, said today the Spectrum vandalism occurred because construcion was going on nearby and there were many tempting missiles lying about for kids to throw through windows.

"It goes in cycles," he said of vandalism. One school will be hit for a while, then others.

Last month $2,000 worth of windows were smashed at one school, he said.

Schneider estimates 10 per cent of his physical maintenance budget and about 9 per cent of his total labor costs are spent repairing vandalism damage, for an annual total around $20,000.

Worst time in Saanich district seems to be in the last weeks of June as school ends and as school begins in the fall, he said.

FAT FIRE BURNS FATHER, DAUGHTER

A man and his daughter are in fair condition in Victoria General Hospital with second and third degree burns received while trying to remove a pot of burning fat from their home at 1417 Vining Tuesday night.

A Victoria fire department spokesman said Venico Rapothough, 36, slipped and fell as he attempted to carry the pot outside.

Deputies Censured

Three deputy sheriffs, suspended Friday for allowing a prisoner to escape the previous day, returned to work Tuesday, says Geoffrey Mortimer, head of the Sheriff's Service.

The deputies, Brian McLelland, John French and Joseph Rivard, were escorting Daniel Cain, who had escaped twice before, to the B.C. Penitentiary when he bolted as the party was about to board a float plane at Victoria's Inner Harbor. Cain was found a half hour later under a bed at the Swiftsure Inn.

Mortimer said two of the officers have received the minimum penalty, a letter of censure, and the third a more severe penalty but not dismissal. He didn't elaborate.

Taxi Fare Hike Coming

A tariff increase for local taxi operators, which will raise fares by an average of 20 per cent, will be approved Thursday by Victoria city council.

Sitting in committee Tuesday, council endorsed the application for the higher rates after hearing from a delegation representing nine taxi firms.

Increased operating costs over the past 12 months, including gasoline price hikes and more costly repairs and maintenance caused by boosted labor rates, were cited as the reason for the fare increase.

The standard per-mile rate will rise from $1.30 to $1.50, and the hourly rate from $8 to $10.

When council members noted that Victoria's new fare schedule will be higher than those in Vancouver and other B.C. cities, the operators replied that firms in all those areas would also be seeking increases.

Trying to Keep a Dream Afloat

Uncle Ted is no more, of course, but three young Albertans are desperately trying to keep alive his dream.

That dream was to provide Vancouver Island with the only animal park of its kind; a place where young and old could come and mingle with both domestic and wild creatures.

But the dream turned into a nightmare of financial disaster last fall when "Uncle Ted's Animal Park" on the Mill Bay-Shawnigan Lake Road closed its gates for the last time.

Now, owner Ted Adye has stepped out of his benign horse-and-cart-driving role and a re-financed venture has opened under a new name.

It's the Vancouver Island Animal Park now, and to run it Adye has brought experienced Randy Hales from the Calgary Zoo. Hales had been there six years, including four years serving a rare apprenticeship in zookeeping.

"There are only two places in the world where you can take zookeeping apprenticeships, one in Calgary and one in Germany," says Randy. "It's a very formal training and the program is now well recognized in zoos all over the world."

Joining him at work in the 20-acre setting at Mill Bay are Marlene Caskey, formerly of Calgary, and Mac Smith, another Albertan who just happened to be on Vancouver Island.

Marlene worked with Randy for a while at Calgary Zoo and the two also worked together for Adanac Film Productions, a wildlife film company based near Calgary.

Eventually, says Randy, who has worked with animals since he left school in 1969, the aim is to have a good collection of North American animals with a few from places like South America and Australia.

Latest arrivals are a couple of baby rheas, which were hatched by daddy rhea last Friday.

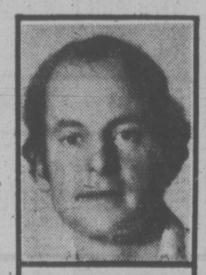
Rheas, gangling South American birds of the ostrich family, are rare in B.C. In fact, Hales doesn't believe there are any others. And it's rarer still for them to breed by themselves in captivity without the help of an incubator.

In a family pattern that must be the envy of mothers all over the world, the female rhea lays the eggs and promptly walks off, having nothing more to do with her offspring. The rest is left to dad, who sits on them until they hatch and then cares for them till they can fend for themselves.

This time the female laid 18 eggs. Eight were moved to an incubator but didn't hatch. And only two of those left in the nest hatched — but to proud daddy rhea, two is better than none.

The animal park — admission is $2 for adults, $1.50 for students aged 12 to 18, 75 cents for children three to 12 with those under three free — also has Australian wallabies, mouflon sheep, wolves with pups, coati mundis and some bobcats coming in soon.

Adjacent to the animal park is Adye's campground, which costs $3.50 a night and has spaces cut in the trees, fire-pits and hot showers in the modern washroom. That hasn't been doing too well either so far but, like the animal park, few know it's there.



max low

"It's losing money at the moment for sure," says Hales who feels Adye might have to ask the provincial government for a grant to help keep the park going. "I think though that once the people realize what is here it will pick up," adds Randy.

Changing the name from Uncle Ted's was designed to to bring a little more sophistication to it and, says Marlene, to get away from the idea of it being just a kiddies' place. Sure, it's interesting for the whole family. But it's still a great place for the little ones.

And so, being a little one at heart and having the softest of spots for animals, before leaving I hopped over into the kiddies' contact area with three-year-old Lisa Hales.

There we hugged a donkey called Daisy, talked to some turkeys, and rabbits, and chickens and ducks and exchanged a few stern words with a Chinese gander named Chairman Mao.

And as we parted company, Lisa chuckled in glee because Charlie Brown the goat tried his best to eat my notebook.

That, I think, made my day. A litttle girl's eyes and a cheeky goat. After all, no-one else I've interviewed this year has tried to eat my notebook, although I fear a few may later have wished they had.

You may feel it juvenile, but in a world that seems to get more serious every day, I found it fun. And I hope these young people get the support they need to keep on providing it.

WON'T PLAY: Australian tennis ace John Newcombe, suffering from a leg injury that kept him out of the Wimbledon championships last month, won't play Thursday night at Victoria's Memorial Arena for Hawaii Leis in the World Team Tennis match against Los Angeles Strings. Promoters say he plans to make the trip to Victoria for Monday and Tuesday.

Team Tennis: New Concept

By MAX LOW
Times Staff

Whether or not World Team Tennis makes a whopping impact on the Vancouver Island sports scene is something we won't know until that first match between Hawaii Leis and Los Angeles Strings at 8 p.m. Thursday at Memorial Arena.

What we do know so far is that the WTT pro debut here has already brought quite a few headaches for promotoers Edgar and Carolyn Rhomberg.

First headache was the slowness of advance ticket sales for the three-match visit of the Leis, who meet Cleveland here next Monday and San Diego the following night. But tickets have started to go quickly during the last few days and Carolyn says "we expect a good crowd on all three nights."

Then the organizers here arranged billets in Victoria for the players and officials with the Leis and the Strings (who fly in tonight) only to be told by long-distance telephone call from Hawaii they would prefer hotel bookings.

Because of uncertainty of flight arrangements, a civic dinner being co-hosted by Victoria and Oak Bay tonight had to be re-scheduled three times.

The teams played on the carpet in Hawaii Monday and it was flown to Vancouver, from where it was supposed to be shipped to Victoria by truck. But no one here has heard anything about it yet.

"We're quite concerned," Carolyn Rhomberg said Tuesday night. "We have to get it all set up on Thursday afternoon."

As well as not knuowing what has happened to the playing surface, promoters here have had trouble confirming the lineup. They were told today that Australian star John Newcombe, kept from this year's Wimbledon championships by a leg injury, will not be fit to play for Hawaii and is not making trip for Thursday match. Promoters said he plans to be here for the Monday and Tuesday matches.

"And we have been told that the other big names, Margaret Court, Owen Davidson and Rosemary Casals, will also be there Thursday night," said Mrs. Rhomberg.

What the fans who are expected to pack Memorial Arena will see is a totally new concept in tennis. Gone from the WTT scoring is the familiar 15-love, 40-15 type of scoring. Instead each game is made up of points, scored simply one, two, three, four, with the winner of the game the first to reach four. There are no deuces.

TENNIS AT NIGHT

FORREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States Open tennis championships, starting here on Aug. 27, will be played at night this year for the first time.

Cup Event Lacks Sponsor

PETERBOROUGH (CP) The Canadian Lacrosse Association has failed to come up with a sponsor for this year's Minto Cup and faces the prospect of financial losses on the series.

An unidentified broadcasting firm which had indicated a willingness to sponsor the competition for Canadian junior A lacrosse supremacy has told Doug Budden, president of the CLA, that the sponsorship proposal reached it too late.

Budden said the company did indicate a willingness to sponsor a Minto Cup in 1976.

The cup will be a best-of-seven series with the winner from the Western Major Junior Lacrosse League travelling to play in the home rink of the Ontario Lacrosse Association champions. The first game is set for Sept. 7.

SOVIETS WIN SABRE

Caribous Gain in NLL

QUEBEC — Quebec Caribous defeated Maryland Arrows 17-12 Monday night to move within two points of fourth place in the National Lacrosse League.
